MORGENTHAU'S PLAN OF WORLD BANK OUTLINED

U. S. Would Put Up 30% of Total.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—Secretary Henry Morgenthau of the treasury proposed a ten billion dollar world bank, with the United States as the principal banker, at secret meetings of congressional committees today.

A pledge of secrecy prevented committee members from divulging details, but it was learned that the ten billion dollars capital for the bank would be in addition to the five billion dollar stabilization fund Morgenthau proposed last April in his combined world bank and international monetary stabilization plan.

The United States would supply 30 per cent of the capital for the bank. The April plan contemplated that the United States would provide two billions of the stabilization fund.

Keynes Now in United States.

Morgenthau's proposal followed by a short time the arrival from London of John Maynard Keynes, British financial theorist, who is said by a number of congressmen to have come to Washington to direct a revision of the original post-war monetary plan.

If Morgenthau credited Keynes for the latest bank plans, it wasn't made known. The secretary's appearance before the congressmen was veiled in strictest secrecy.

In Morgenthau's behalf, however, it was said that he had met with the congressional committees because he wished congress to take part in any planning that is done. It was especially emphasized that he had confided in congress before discussing the proposal with the 36 foreign countries that the congressmen say would benefit from participation.

Recall Previous Case.

Some senators and representatives said they took this with a grain of salt, recalling the sharp criticism Morgenthau received for withholding his original plan so long from congress and the American people. He gave the original plan to senate committees in strictest confidence, but before the day was over he had confessed that he had been, as he put it, scooped by the London radio. It was broadcast as news to America and was being carried in London papers, a few hours before Morgenthau told the senators.

Morgenthau explained his world bank plan this morning to the senate banking and currency and foreign relations committees. Late this afternoon he divulged it to the house banking and currency, foreign affairs and coinage, weights and measures committees.

No information regarding the senate committees' reception of the plan was forthcoming, as the senators voted, after conferring with the treasury secretary, to be silent.

Barrage of Questions.

The house committees likewise agreed not to discuss the meeting, except for a brief informal statement from Chairman Andrew L. Somers [D., N. Y.] of the coinage, weights and measures committee.

It was learned, nevertheless, that Morgenthau ran into a barrage of questions. Chairman Somers disclosed that a number of them came from Rep. Jessie Sumner [R., Ill.].

Members of the committees wanted to know who besides the United States would have any considerable amount of resources to contribute to the bank. They wondered, too, if the United States would have control in any measure commensurate with its position as creditor to the debtor nations and as the angel of the bank.

Many Not Satisfied.

There were answers. But most of them came not from Morgenthau but from Harry D. White, his director of monetary research. Committee members who took part in the questioning made no secret of the fact that they were not satisfied with the replies. They questioned the ability of the other nations to raise seven billions.

Some congressmen said the bank plan is understandable from the point of view of England, which they asserted would be the principal foreign nation to benefit.

Hirohito Must Hang

An Editorial.

The account, published yesterday, of the beheading of an American flyer who had fallen into the hands of the Japanese last March in New Guinea is so horrible that it almost defies belief. The facts, however, are not open to question. They were recorded in a Japanese soldier's diary, they were stated in circumstantial detail, and they fit precisely into the pattern of Japanese bestiality and brutality as they have been revealed in this war and before it.

The young American officer had been obliged to bail out of his plane. His parachute carried him within the Japanese lines. If his captors had shot him in anger as he landed the act would have been grossly illegal, but it would have been understandable in human terms. Nothing like that happened. The American boy was not killed in rage by the soldiers who captured him but was reserved for sacrificial slaughter and the rites of mutilation.

Under the direction of an officer the Japs bound the hands of the American flyer and carted him off to the place of execution. They forced him to kneel on the edge of a shell crater and watched the slow rites which accompanied the selection of the appropriate sword. The sadists expected him, as the Japanese diarist notes, to cringe and bawl in terror. In this they were disappointed. The American boy's stoical self-possession almost spoiled the fun, but his fortitude did not win him a reprieve.

The Jap soldiers were drawn up in lines the better to view the spectacle. The diarist notes that once the blade had done its work all hands stepped forward to examine the head eagerly, and to observe the quantity of blood that poured from the open neck. As if that obscenity were not enough the sword was then handed to another, who ripped open the boy's belly to provide additional blood for the emperor.

This ceremony was not conceived by an inmate in an asylum for homicidal maniacs, as the account of it would suggest, but was part and parcel of what passes for religion and civilization in Japan. The horrible atrocity proves, if any proof were needed, that the Japanese are blood lusting savages in long pants.

That's what they showed themselves to be when they beheaded the captured members of the Doolittle raiding party. They showed it again when they brutalized and then massacred by thousands the simple Chinese peasants a few of whom had befriended the Tokio flyers. The Japanese exhibited religious faith when they raped our women and bayoneted captured Canadian soldiers in Hongkong. The horrors of the Nanking massacre form another chapter in the same record. Everywhere the Japanese have gone they have carried their mad doctrine of rape and loot and blood for the emperor.

That is why we say that Hirohito must hang. He is god to the Japanese, and in his name and in his honor all these hideous brutalities have been committed. He must be hanged on the most conspicuous site in Tokio, and there he must dangle from his rope until even the simplest of Japanese minds realizes that this creature they have worshiped as god is a foul thing and that the blood cult of the emperor has brought them only shame and degradation.

Japan long ago drove out the devoted men and women of the Christian churches who had sought to overcome the brutalities of the Japanese faith. A people that wouldn't listen to persuasion must now be taught their lesson the hard way. That is a cause to which all the American people feel themselves called. They know their duty to avenge their mutilated dead and to make sure that never again will the mad devotees of a savage faith dare to engage in conquest.

Americans are ashamed that so little of their strength has been turned against the Japanese. They are resolved to carry the war across the Pacific to its proper conclusion, the complete overthrow of the religion of the emperor, the bloody god of the Japanese.

Hirohito must hang.

WAC Officer Found Slain in Weeds Near Railroad

Sioux Falls, S D., Oct. 5 (AP).—The body of a 25 year old WAC officer, apparently killed after a struggle, was found tonight near a railroad overpass here.

She was identified by military authorities at the technical school, army air forces training command, as 2d Lt. Naomi Kathleen Cheney of Jasper, Ala. She was assistant personnel officer of a school group at the radio school here.

Lt. Luther Evans, assistant public relations officer at the school, said there was evidence of a struggle in the tangle of underbrush at the spot where the body was found. He would not elaborate.

Girl Finds Officer's Body.

No arrest had been made tonight. A 10 year old girl living near the overpass at the west end of the city found the body. Lt. Evans, who described Lt. Cheney as "a very attractive brunet," said she was last seen when she left the gate at the army school about 9 p. m. Monday, after visiting a roommate, another WAC officer, in the hospital at the army school.

Lt. Cheney came to the Sioux Falls army school about Sept. 4. She had moved last Sunday night to a residence about three blocks from where the body was found.

Has Father in Alabama.

Lt. Evans said the body was about 50 feet south of the highway bridge over the Omaha railroad tracks, and that it would have been impossible for any one to have hurled the body from the bridge.

The WAC officer's nearest relative, the public relations officer said, is her father, Frank B. Cheney, Jasper.

Born Sept. 20, 1918, she was a graduate of Pensacola [Fla.] High school and graduated from Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee in 1942 with a major in home economics. She taught school one term, in 1942.

YANKS BATTLE NAZIS BARRING ROAD TO ROME

British Gain 10 Mi. on Adriatic Coast.

ALLIED HDQ., ALGIERS, Oct. 5 (AP).—American troops of the 5th army and the British 8th army pushed ahead toward the battle of Rome today against a sharply resisting German force officially estimated tonight to contain from four to five divisions. [Such a force presumably would number from 60,000 to 75,000 men.]

On the Italian west coast the Americans, supported by British armor, were methodically wiping out Nazi pockets of resistance left to impede their progress a short distance north of Naples.

[Radio France in Algiers reported that an allied spearhead was within 85 miles of Rome at one point and that the Germans were falling back steadily toward the capital. This was not borne out by any official announcement.]

Montgomery Speeds Up.

In the central sector the Americans drove into Montesarchio in the mountains southwest of Benevento in extension of a flanking movement designed to threaten any stand the Germans may attempt to make on the banks of the Volturno river 20 miles north of Naples.

On the Adriatic coast Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's army, aided by new landings from the sea at Termoli and a gain of 10 miles, was going ahead more rapidly in the direction of Pescara, where the main lateral road from Rome joins with the coastal road.

Montgomery's vanguard was reported only 40 miles from Pescara. There were indications the Germans were throwing reënforcements into Montgomery's path.

The line marking territory now in allied hands runs from a point a little north of Naples to Montesarchio, thence to a point 10 miles east of Benevento, and from there almost due north to the Adriatic coast.

Occupy Two Good Air Fields.

The advance north of Naples, while not great in distance covered, nevertheless has resulted in the occupation of two of the most important air fields in southern Italy, Pomigliano d'Arco and Capodichino.

The former is eight miles northeast of Naples and adjacent to it is the Alfa Romeo aircraft and engine works, which is a self-contained town where 12,000 persons lived and worked until last May. Capodichino is three miles outside Naples. Both fields have been used by the Germans, especially for troop carrying transport planes.

From the airmen's point of view that all land operations consist of a "battle for air fields," the allied gains since the start of the Italian campaign have been extremely effective, as they have brought allied air striking power ever nearer vital axis targets which up to now have been almost inaccessible.

Among the wrecked planes found on the Pomigliano air field was one which had been ready to take off with a German colonel and his staff in command of the areas as the allies approached.

Bomb Brenner Pass Route.

In extensive operations yesterday the Northwest African air forces not only backed up the ground forces by hammering at the enemy in the front area and dealing blows at the rear area of communications as far away as Pisa and Bolzano near the Brenner pass, but also aided in the battle of the Dodecanese by striking at fields in Greece.

The Brenner-pass feed line from Germany was again blocked by Flying Fortresses which destroyed railroad yards and bridges at Bolzano over the Isarco river. The heaviest air opposition of the day was met by the Fortresses. They shot down four out of 20 attacking Nazi fighters. Unescorted Fortresses hit Pisa's rail and road junctions at will.

Marauders [B-26s] continued to smash at communications nearer the battle area, hitting an overpass at Mignano north of Naples, the Isernia road defiles 45 miles north of Naples, and the road junction town of Terracina along the Gulf of Gaeta. Other planes patrolled the roads between Naples and Rome.

Lt. Walter Goff of Niles, Mich., was among the flyers in the raids over Terracina.

PHANTOM FORT HEADS FOR NAZIS

Robot Pilot Flies It Back After Crew Bails Out.

A. U. S. BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 5 (AP).—This is the story of a Flying Fortress which brought its crew home safely from yesterday's raid on Frankfurt and then headed back empty to plague the Germans.

The ship's 10 crewmen bailed out over England because it was so badly battered it could not be landed. But, before jumping, Lt. Carl W. Dawurske of Sheboygan, Wis., the pilot, destroyed the instruments, turned back toward the sea and set the automatic controls. When last seen the Fortress was headed back toward Germany at about 5,000 feet, straight and level.

Safely at their base, the crew is delighted by the idea of the anti-aircraft fire and fighters the Germans probably sent up to get this phantom ship, assuming its gasoline reserve was sufficient to take it deep into the reich.

Controls Shot Off.

The Fortress' control cables were shot away by flak over Frankfurt and Dawurske had to fly with the rudder.

Over the ship's intercommunication system he told the crew:

"I'll get you over and find a nice spot for you to jump."

The spot appeared near the English coast.

"I hope it's a WAAF [women's auxiliary air force] camp down there," shouted Staff Sgt. Roy M. Congrove of Adelphi, O., as he jumped.

Lt. Frank Backman of Tower Hill, Ill., navigator, at the last minute said he had forgotten something and went from the bomb bay door to the nose of the ship to get his flashlight.

More Illinoisans on Plane.

"I didn't want to lose it," he explained.

Dawurske waited a little too long to bail out and a strong wind carried him into the channel, where he spent a cold hour in the water before he was picked up.

Others in the crew were Lt. Gerald A. Reed, Charleston, Ill., co-pilot; Lt. Joseph E. Ostermann, bombardier, 612 Dickens avenue, Chicago, and Gunner Sergeants Joseph V. O'Donnell Jr., Dorchester, Mass.; Peter H. Smith Jr., Allentown, Pa.; Lester E. Knudson, Comfrey, Minn.; Franklin E. Northey, Norfolk, Va., and Donald L. Marks, Centralia, Wash.

Trib-buna Tires Survive 90 M.P.H. in Blazing Heat

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Death Valley, Cal., Oct. 5.—Trib-buna tires did 90 miles an hour this afternoon under a blazing sun unofficially reported at 150 degrees. In this heat, deadly to rubber, the synthetics made other runs at 70, 75, 80, and 85 miles an hour for a total of 500 miles with no apparent damage.

The speedometer was accurate. It was calibrated in Los Angeles two days ago. As for the temperature, the government weather observatory here recorded 109 degrees in the shade and T. R. Goodwin, superintendent of this national monument, said from 35 to 50 degrees was a fair estimate of the added heat in the sun.

Arthur C. Davis, observer for the Automobile Club of Southern California, accepted this performance by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S tire test as evidence refuting popular gossip that synthetics cannot withstand speed and heat.

Sets Synthetic Standard.

With no available evidence to the contrary, this Trib-buna performance can be accepted as a record for all government standard synthetic tires. Trib-buna, according to chemists, is identical to the standard buna rubber. However, for Trib-buna, the main ingredient, butadiene, was converted from alcohol salvaged from waste sulphite liquor at THE TRIBUNE'S wood pulp mills, whereas the government's butadiene is made from petroleum and from alcohol distilled from grain.

I drove the first round trip on the 52 mile measured course shortly after the sun rose over the mile high Funeral mountains and poured its blistering rays into the arid valley below sea level. On the oiled crushed rock with grades and curves and with three passengers with me, I limited speed to 70 and 75 miles an hour.

Pressure Goes Up.

After this warm up, a tire gauge showed the pressure had grown from 24 pounds all around to 34 pounds in front and 36 pounds in the rear. That's pretty high, indicating intense internal heat.

With the gasoline tank refilled, I swallowed some salt tablets, drank some water, swallowed a lump in my throat and returned to the wheel alone. I was going to blow a tire.

In spurts of 26 miles each, the speedometer fluctuated from 75 to 82 miles an hour. There was no one on the road, just heat waves on the horizon ahead. There was nothing on the roadside to damage, just boulders, lava beds, and salt flats.

That seemed to me to be fast enough to satisfy the American public with its investment of 800 million dollars of income taxes and war bonds in a synthetic rubber industry.

At a stop for a drink of water and another salt tablet, the tire pressures measured 35 pounds in front and 38 in the rear. The tires were so hot you couldn't keep your hand on them. You could smell them baking. I went back to the desert trail again doing 80 to 82 an hour where 20 mule teams used to average 10 miles a day.

Drivers Take Turns.

When the gas tank got low, I welcomed the excuse to stop. The tires were checked again. The pressure was no higher. They weren't getting any hotter. Gail Compton, Tribune farm editor, took the wheel and returned to the road with a full fuel tank. He returned in a couple of hours, his gasoline low, and his hot tires still intact. He had done 85 miles an hour. We had done over 400 miles. The tires were too hot for safety with a tired driver, so Bill Brown, a Borax company superintendent and a constable and deputy sheriff, asked to try. He's "the law" in Death Valley. We told him to go ahead.

Bill, a powerful man, muscled the Buick Roadmaster around curves, up and down grades and over dips at 90 miles an hour. He put the accelerator to the floor and it was probably fortunate that the carburetor, adjusted to a 4,000 foot elevation, choked from the sea level heat or he would have gone faster.

Speed and heat weren't going to kill these tires without killing a driver. I called the test ended and started another designed to kill a tire without killing a driver. It worked. I'll report tomorrow.

MORE OIL FROM BRITAIN.

THAT PICTURE OF MRS. F. D. R. ARRIVES IN CITY

Newspaper clippings from Australia which reached Chicago by mail yesterday contained a picture of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt wearing a grass hula-hula skirt. The picture was taken by the air transport command and widely printed in Australia, but for some reason was withheld from newspaper readers in the United States.

Another clipping described a dinner and reception which Mrs. Roosevelt attended in Canberra. It said she wore the Red Cross uniform which she had worn during the day, but that she discarded her walking shoes for comfortable sandals.

It also disclosed that she used the Australian and British term "lift" for elevator, and described the landing of her plane as "Good-o," a bit of Australian slang.

Another clipping bearing a Wellington, New Zealand date line, revealed that while in Australia Mrs. Roosevelt "rubbed noses" with Rangi, famous woman Maori guide, at Rotorua.

"Rubbing noses is the traditional Maori form of greeting," the story added. "Rangi was the guide who conducted the duke of Windsor and the present king and queen on tours of the Rotorua geysers during their visits to New Zealand."

U. S. CARRIER'S PLANES LEAD RAID BY FLEET

Blast Big Vessels Off Norway.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Defying enemy shore batteries and warships lurking in Norwegian waters, a combined United States and British naval force that included an American aircraft carrier struck a surprise blow at German merchant shipping yesterday in the Bodoe area, the British admiralty announced tonight. Bodoe is 75 miles north of the Arctic circle.

The German naval units in Norway, where, according to the latest reports reaching London, the powerful battleship Von Tirpitz is lying in a fjord somewhere northeast of Trondheim, refused to accept the obvious challenge to come out and fight.

Down Two German Planes.

The only opposition was by enemy anti-aircraft fire and by two German planes, both of which were destroyed by fighter machines that took off from the United States aircraft carrier. Three planes from the carrier were shot down by enemy anti-aircraft fire but, the war bulletin said, some of the members of their crews may have been picked up by the Germans.

The three United States planes that were lost were part of a formation that took off from the carrier and bombed a number of large enemy merchant ships including an 8,000 ton tanker. The American flyers scored hits, but the announcement did not say whether any of the ships were sunk.

The two enemy planes that were destroyed showed up on the scene after the bombing attack had been completed and tried to shadow the allied naval forces.

British Admiral in Command.

No indications were given as to the size of the United States force that participated in this action. The bulletin said that the allied warships were under the command of Adm. Bruce Fraser, who is one of Britain's leading experts in air-sea strategy.

The chief significance of the action was that Britain's home fleet, instead of devoting itself mainly to defensive work as it has done in the past, has now undertaken offensive duty and is able to seek out the enemy in his own waters.

Bodoe is on the Norwegian mainland about 60 miles south of the Lofoten Islands, which twice have been raided by Commandos. Recently the Germans were reported to have ordered the evacuation of the Lofoten Islands as a precaution against a possible allied invasion.

BRITAIN TO BEAR A FAIRER SHARE OF OIL FOR WAR

F. D. R. Defends Failure of Empire Thus Far.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—President Roosevelt said today that arrangements are being made to increase the supply of British controled oil for war uses to alleviate what he conceded has been a disproportionate drain on the petroleum reserves of the United States.

At the same time, the President denied that England has been refraining from supplying oil from the British controled Persian gulf fields in order to preserve its reserves for future use. He asserted at his press conference that transportation factors alone have accounted for the greater use of American oil in meeting military demands.

The President's remarks were apparently made to refute charges voiced last week by four senators returning from a tour of the fighting fronts. The senators, two Democrats and two Republicans, declared that the United States is supplying far more than its share of oil to the allied military machine, while Britain is virtually hoarding its oil supplies in the Persian gulf.

United States Oil to Australia.

One of the party, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.] said that American oil supplies are being drained to serve Australia, which the British could supply from the Persian fields, which, he added, are now run at only 60 per cent of capacity.

The President asserted that the British have been anxious to increase their deliveries of oil, but that tanker tonnage until very recently has been the limiting factor.

It has been imperative, the President continued, to employ tankers for the shortest haul, regardless of supply sources, so that the largest amount of oil would be moved in the fewest number of ships.

Cites Mileage Figures.

In this connection, he cited mileage figures to show that longer trips would have been required to ship oil from Abadan, Iran [Persia], to New Caledonia and the United Kingdom than from the west and east coasts of the United States. Shipments from Iran to England until recently, the President said, meant a long run around the African cape.

With the clearing of the Mediterranean for allied shipping and an increase in tankers, however, Mr. Roosevelt added, officials of the United States and Great Britain have been able to arrange a reallocation of tanker tonnage so that Britain will be required to contribute a larger and fairer share of oil.

Warnings in House.

Earlier in the day, warnings were sounded by a house naval affairs subcommittee and by Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies that the United States will suffer unless other nations start immediately to contribute more oil for the war.

Davies said motorists will face further reductions in gasoline rations unless petroleum in other parts of the world is put to better use in the next year.

The congressional subcommittee, headed by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers [D., S. C.], declared that unless other countries furnish more petroleum, this country will become a "dependent" nation for petroleum supplies in the post-war period.

In a report sharply critical of what it termed "burocratic bungling" of the oil problem, the committee warned that present proven oil reserves are sufficient for domestic needs of only 15 years at peace time consumption rates and that exhaustion is much more rapid during the war.

Her Pets Are Educated

Mrs. Louis Ford, 5705 North Campbell avenue, makes Bing beg for his ice cream, while Susie, the parrot, casts a critical eye on the scene.

Carranza, Mrs. Ford's cat, rattles the door knob with paws and teeth when it wants out.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ford, 5705 North Campbell avenue, have no problem of letting out the cat. When their cat, named Carranza, wants to get out, he jumps on an end table near the door and pushes on the knob with his paws until the door is opened. The Fords also have two other cats, a dog, and a parrot, all living happily together, except for occasions when the parrot scolds the cats. Nearly every evening the Fords walk to a corner drug store with two cats and a dog strolling closely at heel beside them. The Fords buy an ice cream cone, and the three animals amicably lick it simultaneously.

OCD AIDS TOLD: U. S. MUST WAIVE INDEPENDENCE!

Price of World Security Bared by Speaker.

Six hundred block captains, assembled last night by the office of civilian defense, heard Earl S. Johnson, assistant professor of social sciences at the University of Chicago, assert that the United States must give up some of its national independence for the benefit of world security.

Johnson spoke in Schurz High school at the first of a series of meetings designed to train leaders of neighborhood discussion groups thruout the city. The program is sponsored by the morale department of the OCD.

Must Pay Price, He Says.

After he had finished his speech, Johnson offered to answer questions, and a member of the audience asked: "Do you believe in the surrender of United States sovereignty in a dominating world federation?"

Johnson replied: "If you want world security, I can find no other prescription than that there be some reduction in the absolute independence of the United States. That is the price you must pay.

"A world society cannot come about until we think of individual rights all over the world. The arena in which the battle for human liberties is being fought is no longer national; it is international. To have a tranquil, secure, domestic society, some people must give up something so others can have something. This principle applies also in world society. If we want world security, we must give up some of our national independence. We cannot have our cake and eat it, too."

Gives View on Competition.

Another question was: "How can there be fair competition when inequalities of wealth exist?"

"There cannot be fair intellectual competition while sharp inequality of wealth exists," Johnson said. "As an example, when one newspaper in a city is so much larger than its competitor that it virtually monopolizes the field, there cannot be fair intellectual competition."

In his main speech, Johnson warned against confusing the "vehicle" of government with the end achieved.

"The vehicle is not totally sacred but the end is," he said. "That is proved by the fact that the founding fathers provided for amendments to the Constitution. Democracy was born in revolution. It is the anti-thesis of static. It is the essential experiment.

"Society Can't Stand Still."

"Democracy can be defended, but not established by facts. Belief is necessary. I deny the possibility of a society that stands still. The option is between change and an artificial static condition best represented by a cemetery.

"The important word in the American political vocabulary is not American. The important word is humanitarian. We believe in a plurality of languages and religions. The theme of democracy is liberty thru equality."

OUTPUT OF CEYLON RUBBER CALLED TOO LOW FOR WAR NEEDS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—Reports that allied sources of natural rubber could be stepped up measurably may be one of the subjects taken up at a closed session of the senate Thursday.

Five senators who are to report on their world girdling inspection trip of battlefront areas saw natural rubber being drained from trees and processed in Ceylon, an island near the lower tip of India and under British control.

One viewpoint was that the rubber now being obtained from Ceylon, chief remaining allied nations source, is only about 30 per cent of the amount that could be taken out if peace time measures for conserving trees were not being followed.

The senators are Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.], James M. Mead [D., N. Y.], Albert B. Chandler [D., Ky.], Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.], and Henry C. Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.].

ODT IS PLAYING WITH FIRE AS A VILLAGE 'BURNS'

James Gowens, president of the Village of South Holland, and Morris Van Draa, village fire chief, will call on Frank T. Corcoran, manager of the Chicago district office of defense transportation, today to protest a notice they received from the ODT that the village will get no gasoline for its fire engine during the fourth quarter of the year.

Corcoran, advised of the situation, said the notice, a routine form, must have been sent the village by mistake.

"We send out that type of notice when we hear that a truck owner is going out of business," he said.

G. O. P. LEADERS RIP $50 'BITE' TO HEAR WILLKIE

One Wouldn't Give 50 Cents for Chance.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 5 [Special].—Indignation over efforts to induce Republican leaders to buy $50 box seats to hear Wendell Willkie make a political speech was climaxed today with protests from four members of the G. O. P. state committee and the scornful comment of a St. Louis chieftain that he "wouldn't pay 50 cents" for such an opportunity.

The 1940 Republican Presidential nominee is scheduled to appear in St. Louis on Oct. 15 and make a speech in response to a list of questions concerning his views on international and domestic issues submitted to him by Missouri state and national party officers.

Several days ago, Republican leaders received letters, on state committee stationery, asking them to buy $50 box seats for the meeting to pay the expenses of the conclave and to make up a deficit in state party funds.

Wouldn't Pay 50 Cents.

"I don't see why any one should pay to hear Willkie speak," declared Fred W. Evers, chairman of the Republican city central committee of St. Louis. "I wouldn't pay 50 cents for one. I don't know a damn thing about the meeting. Nobody consulted me about it or the plan to get contributions of $50 each for box seats."

Meanwhile four members of the party's state committee expressed angry disapproval at what they considered an attempt to force committee sponsorship of Willkie's appearance in St. Louis and at the revelation that the state campaign coffers are empty.

The committee members sent telegrams of protest to Barak T. Mattingly, national Republican committeeman, and to Grover Dalton, state chairman.

Resent the Action.

Fred Tanner of Jefferson City and Roy Quinn of Moberly wired Mattingly:

"As members of the Republican state committee we resent your action in tying the state committee to your Willkie meeting without consent of state committee and without even consulting them. You have shamed the party organization by placing it under obligations to the Willkie people in the selling of $50 seats to defray the party deficit. You have advertised the party deficit to the world."

Mrs. Carl A. Crome of Clinton telegraphed Dalton requesting a statement of the party's financial condition and suggesting a meeting of the state committee be called. She said the party deficit completely surprised the state committee.

John J. Robinson of Maysville telegraphed Mattingly:

"I vigorously protest the unfair attempt to force sponsorship of Willkie meeting upon Republican state committee without consultation of members."

Dancer Divorced

MITZI MAYFAIR.

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 5 [Special].—Divorce today terminated the tempestuous marriage of Mitzi Mayfair, Broadway dancer, and wealthy Albert Hoffman of the soft drink family, on grounds of desertion. Hoffman was granted an interlocutory decree which will become final in three months in Chancery court, Jersey City. Mitzi did not appear. Hoffman, who is 46 and lives in East Orange, testified that when Mitzi married him in March, 1938, she promised to give up the stage, but didn't. In the spring of 1941 she told him she was leaving him "for good." This time she kept her word, he said. Mitzi, whose real name is Juanita Pique, recently made a 37,000 mile tour of army camps.

F. D. R. Says He'll Vote for Haskell in N. Y.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—President Roosevelt said today he expected to vote for his old friend and associate, Lt. Gen. William N. Haskell, for lieutenant governor of New York. Haskell is the Democratic and American Labor party candidate. Asked if he had any comment on the candidacy of William C. Bullitt for mayor of Philadelphia, the President said at his news conference that he had a long standing practice of not discussing mayoral races except in his own state of New York.

PICK 10 WOMEN JURORS IN FILM RACKET TRIAL

New Judge at Hearing of Capone Mobsters.

BY ROY GIBBONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—Selection of a jury to try eight defendants on charges of mulcting the movie industry of more than a million dollars by extortion threats was completed before Judge John C. Bright in federal District court late today. Seven of those on trial are Chicago members of the old Capone mob. One is a former Newark labor leader.

Judge J. C. Knox.

All are accused by the government of participating with George Browne, former president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Machine Operators' union [AFL], and Willie Bioff, convicted pander and labor racketeer; in the shakedown of four major Hollywood movie companies under threat of calling a general strike of the union's 125,000 members.

Ten Women Selected.

Ten of the 14 talesmen, two of them alternates, chosen to hear the case which is expected to last from four to six weeks, are women.

Judge John C. Knox, before whom the case was to have been heard, disqualified himself after James D. C. Murray, chief of the defense battery of seven attorneys, had protested that Knox's printed remarks about Browne and Bioff might be construed as prejudicial.

Judge Knox, according to Murray, in a magazine article entitled "Just Justice," and in a book called "Order in the Court," had called Bioff a "pathological liar," and had expressed sympathy with the movie people allegedly forced to yield to the gang's extortion in order to stay in business.

The judge denied having called Bioff more than just a plain liar, and said he had "never coupled the word with any 'pathological' description."

He also said he had no prejudice in the case and berated the defense for its "tardy" accusation of prejudice.

"I should like to say," Judge Knox stated, "that by your delay in making this motion you gentlemen have thrown a monkey wrench into the machinery of this court. But it will be a relief for me not to try this case."

A grim note was injected into the opening of the case when Amedo L. Lauritano, assistant United States district attorney, arose to offer official proof sent from Chicago testifying to the death of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, Capone's first cousin and the gang's high executioner.

Paper Signed by Widow.

Nitti, who was to have been in court today along with other members of the mob, shot himself March 19, at North Riverside, just five hours after Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle announced the indictments which named Nitti as one of the defendants. One of the death certificates was signed by Nitti's widow. It constituted, he said, good reason why the government should strike Nitti's name from the records.

Judge Bright remarked: "If he's dead, he's dead. Somebody else got a crack at him before you got him."

Those on trial are:

Paul [The Walter] Ricca, alleged boss of the mob.

Phil D'Andrea, former chief bodyguard of Al Capone and former head of the Italo-American National union.

Louis [Little New York] Campagna, an old-time Capone triggerman.

John Rosselli, former husband of Motion Picture Actress June Lang.

Ralph Pierce, former Capone lieutenant.

Frank [The Immune] Martitote, Capone's brother-in-law.

Louis Kaufman, business agent for local 244, Newark unit of the IATSE.

All, with the exception of Kaufman, also are charged with mail fraud in a separate indictment alleging that for eight years they used the mails to collect a 2 per cent assessment totaling another $1,500,000 from the rank and file of the IATSE.

SENATE VOTES ON DRAFTING OF FATHERS TODAY

Administration Is Ready with Substitute.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—With the nation's draft boards reportedly delaying calling fathers until congress disposes of the question, the apparently losing fight to stop the induction of men with children moved slowly to a climax today.

Final disposition of the matter in the senate is due tomorrow, when it is expected an administration substitute, termed "innocuous" by many observers, will be eased in to replace the Wheeler bill which would have postponed the fathers' draft until after Jan. 1.

The new bill, introduced today as an amendment by Sen. Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], sidesteps the question of drafting fathers and gives the administration an opportunity to defeat the Wheeler bill without registering a vote for or against induction of men with children.

Defeat for Wheeler.

While the Bailey bill will represent a clear defeat for Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] who has led the fight to stop the fathers' draft, it will at the same time offer some crumbs for other senators who have hammered at man power abuses during the Wheeler debates.

Among items which have been selected from other pending bills and incorporated in the Bailey compromise are:

1. Some vague strengthening of rules pertaining to draft exemption for federal employes. This is designed to halt criticism of the federal government as a haven for draft dodgers.

Review of Deferments.

2. Brovision that an industrial deferment granted by a local board shall be reviewed by the appeals board which has jurisdiction over the area in which the registrant is working. This was a feature of the substitute bill proposed by Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., Ohio] and it is believed will end some unwarranted industrial deferments.

3. Creation of a medical board to examine physical standards now in effect for the army and navy with an eye to possible lowering of these standards with resultant induction of part of the three million plus pool of 4-F men, deferred because of physical, mental, or moral reasons. This is also part of the Taft bill, and it will be incorporated tomorrow in an amendment to the Bailey proposal.

4. Provision that men with children shall be the last to be inducted. This section in the Bailey bill would simply make mandatory the system already in use by selective service. It does not put inductions on a nation-wide basis, as suggested by Senators Wheeler, Taft, and others who sought to require that the nation-wide pool of childless men be exhausted before any men with children are inducted.

The Bailey proposal, which has the endorsement of Sen. Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader, ignores the Taft plan of age categories for the induction of married men, which would have fathers between the ages of 30 and 38 inducted last.

Assails "Sentimentality."

Sen. Taft was noncommital tonight on what his stand will be tomorrow. But it is believed he will make an attempt to have his plan adopted in lieu of the Bailey bill. Sen. Barkley tonight said he will speak against the Taft Bill.

Sen. Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah], led today's fight by the administration against the Wheeler bill. He reviewed the history of the selective service act, criticised the bill as class legislation, and asserted that the senate had made a mistake on the same basis when it excluded from the draft ministerial students.

"Who is there to say it is less hard for a parent to lose a boy, or harder to lose a father," he said, terming the attempt to defer fathers "pure sentimentality."

To this Sen. Wheeler replied:

"Call it sentimentalism if you want to, but I call it a fundamental principle of American government—the home. Destroy it if you want to, tear it to pieces if you want to because you are afraid, because the whip has been cracked."

Jeers at Democrats.

Wheeler jeered at his fellow Democrats for their unwillingness to buck the administration on the fathers' draft, warning that a million mothers back home will remember their attitudes.

He said he knew they were afraid of criticism.

"I have been smeared by experts," he said. "If you criticize them [the New Deal] you must expect to be criticized by the Daily Worker, PM, and crackpot columnists."

Sen. Wheeler asserted that Negro troops are not being used; that South Americans are refused admittance to the United States army when they seek it; that 4-F men could be used by the army and that men in similar categories are used by Russia and England. He listed other sources of man power which he said should be utilized before fathers are taken.

Calls Administration Stubborn.

"Is it any wonder the people of the United States are losing faith in their government," he asked. "Facts, logic, the American home, American children mean nothing. Some one nods his head and says you've got to do it [draft fathers]. . . . I am told the administration is stubborn, and I know they are, but they better get over their stubborness."

Sen. Bailey, in introducing his amendment, said that the people must have faith in their government. Sen. Wheeler, referring apparently to Bailey's former attack on the New Deal, said conversion is a good thing for the soul even if it comes late in life."

RETURN MURDER VERDICT.

A verdict of murder by persons unknown was returned yesterday at an inquest into the death of Rudolph Sterzenbecher, 52 years old, a cab driver, who was shot to death Sept. 4 in front of 4815 Vincennes avenue.

FATHER DRAFT STARTS IN CITY; MUM ON QUOTAS

The draft of fathers has started in Chicago, it was established yesterday as individual cases began coming to light. Local draft board members and state selective service officials, however, continued their refusal to comment on quotas, percentages, or number of fathers about to be called.

One father who faces induction within 10 days is John Barton, 32 years old, of 5800 Princeton avenue, father of three children, the oldest of whom will be 3 years old Nov. 8. The others are 18 and 7 months old. Barton underwent a new physical examination two weeks ago and on Monday was notified by board 21, 69th street and Western avenue, that he is in class 1-A. Yesterday he was undecided whether he would appeal the classification within the 10 day appeal period.

Barton got a job in a steel plant the day after he took his physical examination. This is an essential industry. Formerly he was a printing salesman and this job was classed as nonessential.

MRS. F. D. R.'S SLUR ON G. O. P. BRINGS CALL FOR INQUIRY

Use of Movie Industry for Propaganda Charged.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—Asserting that news reels to be shown in theaters tomorrow will record Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt classing "Japs and Republicans as common enemies," Rep. Walter C. Ploeser [R., Mo.] said in an interview today he would demand a congressional investigation of use of the motion picture industry for propaganda purposes.

Ploeser said the news reel was made by the marine corps while the President's wife was in the South Pacific. He said the final scene shows her telling a story of a marine who said he could not shoot into a group of Japs who shouted, "To hell with Roosevelt!" because the marine did not want to shoot a fellow Republican.

No Comment, Says Aid.

Miss Malvina Thompson, secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt, who is at the Roosevelt home at Hyde Park, N. Y., said Mrs. Roosevelt had no comment on Ploeser's planned action.

In New York, spokesmen for three of the four large news reel companies said the scene was being used in its entirety or in part. The fourth one, Pathe News, said the scene had been deleted.

A Paramount news official said laughter drowned out the last of Mrs. Roosevelt's remarks and they were being written on the film as follows: "What could I do? I couldn't shoot a fellow Republican."

One Uses Entire Scene.

Universal Newsreel said the shot was used thru the words, "To hell with Roosevelt," but was cut at that point "because the laughs drowned the rest out."

News of the Day has used the entire scene.

The Pathe News spokesman, who declined to be quoted by name, said: "Mrs. Roosevelt was just telling a joke—and it's the President's favorite joke—so why should any one get excited?"

3,000 Sheets

Helen Tully, secretary in the Stevens hotel executive office, sits atop a pile of 3,000 sheets, part of preparations for reopening the hotel.

Workmen preparing the Stevens hotel for its scheduled reopening Nov. 1 concentrated their efforts yesterday on 1,500 rooms from the fourth to the 25th floor, which will be the first to be opened. The hotel's remaining 1,500 rooms will be opened as soon thereafter as redecorating and installation of furniture permit, it was announced at the offices established in the hotel by John Burke, who will be general manager. Part of the preparation involves the laundering of mountains of linen so that all the rooms will be spic and span by the opening date.

Daughter of British Peer Missing; River Search Fails

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP).—Diana Worthington, daughter of the earl of Feversham, was reported missing from her home, Weston Manor, Olney, Buckinghamshire, early today. Police dragged the river Ouse in a search that produced no results. She was married to William Greville Worthington in 1927. They have three children.

PAT NASH GIVEN FIGHTING CHANCE TO CHEAT DEATH

Mayor Kelly Makes 4th Visit to Hospital.

Patrick A. Nash, Democratic chief now in his 80th year, last night won from physicians the concession that he has "a fighting chance" to recover from pneumonia in the Columbus hospital. Under an oxygen tent, he emerged from a coma after several hours.

"He is making a remarkable stand for his age and physical condition," said Dr. Itala F. Volini, who is on the Loyola university faculty and is heart and lung specialist at the County hospital. "From the way he is responding to medication I would say he has a fighting chance. The infection has not spread."

Dr. Camillo E. Volini, the family physician, rushed Nash to the hospital on Monday, and besides his brother, consulted Dr. Frederic Tice, heart specialist.

Last Rites Given.

Mayor Kelly and Clerk Albert J. Horan, respectively next in rank in the Democratic hierarchy of Cook county, were at the hospital with relatives last night. It was the mayor's fourth visit in two days to the bedside of his old colleague.

Rites of the Catholic church were administered yesterday by the Rev. James Shevlin, hospital chaplain. Later the Rev. H. M. Shea, pastor of St. Matthew's church, arrived.

Stricken at Summer Home.

Waiting and watching with Kelly and Horan were Nash's wife, two sons, Maj. John Nash of the army engineering corps, who flew from Washington, and Thomas; his son-in-law, George A. Ross, and his brother, Richard.

On another floor of the hospital is Mrs. Thomas Nash, who on Friday gave birth to a son, Pat Nash's second grandchild.

Nash was in his business office at 10 South La Salle street last Friday. It is headquarters of the Nash Brothers company which built much of the sewage system under Chicago's streets. On Saturday he took a cold at his summer home at Paw Paw Lake, Mich.

Horan talked with Nash Saturday morning about the death of Parke Brown, political editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. When he called later in the day Nash was too ill to come to the phone.

Nash has been the elected committeeman of the 28th ward [formerly the 14th] since 1905. Since 1931 he has been chairman of the county central committee. For seven years he was national committeeman for Illinois.

Nash was born at what is now Rush street and Delaware place, on the near north side, on March 2, 1863. The date had been a matter of speculation until his sons revealed it at the hospital yesterday.

CIGAR STORE HELD UP.

Warren Cathcart, 1524 Monroe street, reported to police yesterday that shortly after he opened the Louis Drell Smoke shop, 1462 Madison street, where he is a clerk, two robbers forced him into the back room and emptied the cash register of $208.

BRITISH FORCES SUBDUED ON KOS, GERMANS CLAIM

U.S. Bombers Hit Greece from Italian Bases.

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP).—The Germans announced today that their forces occupying the Island of Kos in the Dodecanese had broken the backbone of allied resistance there, but the allied high command said fighting was continuing.

A Reuters [British] dispatch from Ankara said press reports from southern Turkey suggested that the Germans had now fully reoccupied Kos and the neighboring island of Leros, also recently won by the allies, as well.

Delayed dispatches from Istanbul said some British officers had taken refuge in Turkey and that many refugee natives of Kos were arriving at Bodrum, a Turkish city 16 miles across the water from the eastern extremity of Kos. Another report said 6,000 Italians on the Greek island of Samos, north of Kos and Leros, have promised to fight beside the British forces there is Samos is attacked.

Several Thousand Landed.

The northwest African and middle east air forces, meanwhile, joined together to bomb Nazi air bases in Greece to aid the beleaguered allied garrison on the island.

Advices from Cairo said the Germans had landed several thousand soldiers on the island.

The Germans claimed that only mopping up operations "to clear the island from the last dispersed enemy troops are going on."

They said the operations had ended with the breaking of "enemy resistance" and "the island was occupied." They also claimed the capture of the 600 man British garrison in addition to 2,500 Italian troops of Marshal Badoglio who had delivered the island into allied hands on Sept. 22.

First Smash at Balkans.

Yesterday was the first time that the arm Maj. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz has built into the world's second most important air force had struck from the west at the Balkans.

American Liberators [B-24s], newly-arrived from the middle east, bombarded the Menidi air fields north of Athens, while Mitchells showered fragmentation bombs on the air field at Argos in the Peloponnesus. The Mitchells [B-25s] flew from newly won Italian bases.

[The Berlin radio said that United States four engined bombers were engaged over Greece by German fighter planes Tuesday and that seven of the American bombers were shot down.]

Greek Submarine Lost While Aiding Allied Fleet

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP).—Loss of the Greek submarine Katsonis, which had been operating with the allied fleet, was announced by the commander in chief of the royal Hellenic navy today. [The Katsonis, according to Jane's Fighting Ships, was launched at Bordeaux, France, in 1926. She was of 595 tons displacement, had four torpedo tubes, and carried 39 officers and men.]

ITALIAN ISLAND SEIZED BY SERB NAVAL FORCES

Capture 258 Germans Off Dalmatian Coast.

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP).—Jugo-Slav naval units—joining in the campaign of the people's liberation army to wrest the Dalmatian coast from the Nazis—have captured the Island of Lussin, strategically located 50 miles southeast of the Italian naval base of Pola, an official report broadcast by the Free Jugo-Slav radio announced today.

The broadcast, recorded here by Reuters news agency, said the partisan naval units participated in a two day fight to capture the Italian island and took 258 German officers and men prisoners. The London Jugo-Slav government, which is not connected with the liberation army, was unable to verify the capture of the island.

Lussin, one of a string of islands lying along the Jugo-Slav coast, poses a direct threat to Pola, the Italian northeast Adriatic base 50 miles south of Trieste.

Capture of the town of Prijepolje, on the River Lim in Montenegro, also was reported in the war report.

[A dispatch received in Berne, Switzerland, last night from the International Information bureau, a German propaganda agency, said that in three days' fighting in the Trieste area a force of Jugo-Slav partisans and Italians lost more than 1,100 dead and 1,300 captured. German losses were not mentioned.]

Accuse Mihailovitch Again.

As these Jugo-Slav patriot advances were made against the Nazis, the rivalry between Gen. Draja Mihailovitch and the Montenegrin leader Josip Broz, popularly known as "Tito," was highlighted with a charge issued here by the latter's supporters that Gen. Mihailovitch was collaborating with the Germans.

A group calling itself "The Association of Jugo-Slav Journalists in London" isued a statement asserting that all the present fighting against the Nazis in Jugo-Slavia is being waged by the people's liberation army under Tito.

Give No Credit to General.

The group charged "Gen. Mihailovitch's detachments still collaborate with the Germans and [Croat] Ustachis."

Asserting there is no connection between the Tito and Mihailovitch armies, the journalists said Mihailovitch, King Peter's war minister, deserves no credit for any victories thus far attained.

The Vichy [German controled] radio said Russian staff officers had reached the Balkans to help organize guerrillas and other partisans against the Germans.

"The allies will invade the Balkans in the very near future," said the Vichy broadcast.

Recently the German radio claimed that a mysterious "Maj. William Jones" was doing a "Lawrence of Arabia" feat in Jugo-Slavia.

1 WILL RUSSIA FIGHT JAPAN?

by Edgar Snow

"NOW THERE'S a question folks all over these United States are right curious about today. 'Cause if the Russians loaned us their bases in Japan's backyard, 'pears like the Japs might be beggin' for mercy in six months. Mr. Snow knows the Russians like his own neighbors . . . so he's got a mighty good idea of what's up their sleeves for Japan. Something kinda different from what our front porch generals are figurin' on down in Van Buren. Guess Mr. Snow's article will jolt 'em and start 'em thinking. It did me."

GERMANS DRIVEN FROM CORSICA, FRENCH REPORT

Say Allied Losses Light; War Booty Large.

ALGIERS, Oct. 5 (AP).—Corsica has been completely liberated by French troops 20 days after they landed on the strategic island, a special French war bulletin, signed by Gen. Henri Giraud, announced today.

Corsica gives the allies a new potential air base closer to vital targets in eastern Germany than any yet taken in Italy, and within fighter range of southern France and the Genoa and Leghorn regions.

German remnants who had been unable to get away from Corsica were rounded up today by French troops, Goums, and American Rangers.

Allied losses were light, and war booty was considerable, it was said.

Giraud Thanks All Fighters.

In an order of the day, Giraud said:

"The commander in chief extends warmest felicitations and most profound thanks to all officers, noncommissioned officers, and soldiers who went to the aid of Corsican patriots who had arisen against the enemy. He bows in pride for those who have fallen for our ideal of France free and generous. Today's success preludes tomorrow's victory.

"Soldiers of the land, sea, and air, you have made the first step toward Europe. You have shown the enemy what you can do. I thank you.

"Forward to victory!"

GERMAN CLAIMS.

The Germans acknowledged the evacuation of Corsica—picturing it as a semi-victory and "operative masterpiece." Berlin said the last German troops were evacuated to the Italian mainland Sunday night to "help in defending the European southern flank."

"Thus," said the Nazi broadcast, "a troop movement has been concluded which . . . as an operative masterpiece is only paralleled by the German divisions crossing the strait of Messina."

The Germans stationed in Corsica since last spring succeeded in taking out "all heavy arms, tanks, and other equipment," the broadcast said, as well as more than several hundred captured Italian and French troops.

WAC and WAVES Husbands May Receive $50 Per Month

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—Higher payments to children of enlisted men of the army and navy were approved today by a house military subcommittee which also decided that payments should be made to the husband of a WAC, WAVE, or other woman in service if he has been dependent on his wife.

The group agreed payments to a wife should remain at $50 a month, the same she now receives. Under its new schedule, however, the first child would be given $22 monthly compared with $12 now and $18 recommended by the senate.

For the second child there would be a monthly payment of $18, with $16 more for each additional child. Existing law provides $10 for all children in excess of one. The senate last July voted to boost the amount to $11, a figure the house group held was inadequate in view of current living costs.

Quick Approval Seen.

The group's recommendation will be submitted tomorrow to the full military committee, with approval expected.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. John J. Sparkman [D., Ala.], voted also to make dependents of service men of all seven enlisted grades eligible for the payments. Existing law applies only to the four lower grades.

Husbands of women in service would be required to prove dependency to become eligible for assistance under the committee's bill. A dependent husband would be eligible for $50 a month.

$18 for First Child.

Dependent children of women in service would receive a scale starting at $18 for the first child and $11 for each additional child.

No change was made in the amount to be deducted from the pay of the service man. This is $22 for those with one class of dependents [wife and children, or parents only] and $27 for those with two groups.

The committee voted to remove any limitation on the aggregate monthly payments to dependents.

CANADIAN PLANE SINKS U-BOAT; 2 OTHERS ESCAPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 5.—Destruction of a German submarine by a Canadian air force flying boat was announced today by the R. C. A. F. headquarters.

The aircraft was operating from an east coast airport when the U-boat was sighted. When the plane dived for the kill the conning tower and front gun of the submarine were awash. Depth charges were dropped within 12 feet of the U-boat as it was diving. The explosion hurled the submarine back to the surface. It sank 10 seconds later.

The submarine was the third of a "wolf pack" found by the aircraft. The other two submerged before an attack could be made.

Donald Nelson Arrives in Cairo from England

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 5 (AP).—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the United States war production board arrived today from England, where he inspected war plants. Nelson planned only a short visit here. James M. Landis, new United States director of economic operations in the middle east, also reached Cairo.

ROOSEVELT ASKS GENEROUS GIFTS TO WAR WELFARE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—President Roosevelt appealed to his fellow countrymen tonight to build up a $125,000,000 national war fund for welfare work and aid to army and navy men, telling them that a share in the fund "is a share in winning the war."

He opened the campaign for contributions in a radio address, broadcast from the White House over all networks.

Drives for all welfare and relief organizations, except the American Red Cross, are being consolidated this year in the fund.

"I ask you to remember," the President said, "that the USO is your share of what we are doing for our own fighting men, and the forces behind the lines. I ask you to consider that War Prisoners aid does what no government can do. I ask you to think of United Seamen's service in terms of the people's debt to the men who took our ships across in the darkest hours of the war.

"And I ask you not to forget that the people of Russia, and China, and of all the other united nations—and especially the unfortunate, hungry men, women and children of all the overrun and enslaved countries—see in your personal and friendly concern the brightest ray of hope."

IN ALGIERS, YOU WATCH SHOW ON AND OFF STAGE

1st Nighters Bring Down House—on Actors.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Oct. 5.—In Algiers' only legitimate theater, a brand new review opened tonight to as wild and vocal a first night reception as history books say took place in the days of William Shakespeare and the famed London pit.

This Casino review was advertised as "gala;" and promised to make itself "understood by everyone;" and there were to be "dancing and the latest tunes." But the opening was as far removed from one on the American stage and the realm of Charles Collins and Burns Mantle as the Casino Music hall on the Rue d'Isle is from Cohan's Grand Opera house in the loop.

From "Sweet Sue," to the grand finale, "Madelon," favorite of the last war, the show plodded thru an assortment of routines by a chorus of six hefty females and various specialty numbers. The master of ceremonies turned out to be a Joe Triguet.

Knows His Languages.

In toothy smile, baggy shirts, and bell bottom pants Triguet made good on the advance billing which said the show would be in English, French, and Spanish. He said, "On with the show," after the first curtain went up, and just before the last number he yelled, "Hi-o, Silver." The rest of the time he spoke in French and Spanish and laughed uproariously at his own gags.

Joe's efforts were not well received, however, by the critical audience of soldiers and sailors, officers, and enlisted men, ladies of the evening, rouged and mascaraed, and the liberal sprinkling of local civilians, many of whom were in shirt sleeves and some in their underwear tops. Toward the end, Joe showed a disposition to wince at catcalls.

A Mexican Hawaii.

There was a diverting moment when a sharp faced Mme. De Farge emerged, attired for a week-end on the Vanderbilt yacht, in slacks, a voluminous skirt, and seagoing skipper's cap. She leered at the front rows and sang, "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby." While the audience roared at her bursting nether seams, this buxom darling insisted "Zat's ze only ting I've plenty of."

Another highlight was a Hawaiian chorus routine, performed in grass skirts of many colored paper strips to the tune of "La Cucaracha." Then, too, there was the drawling voice somewhere above and behind, pleading at every pause for, "Deep in the Heart of Texas." He got his wish finally.

The Casino, a somewhat tarnished showhouse built in 1886 and seating 500 people, has a narrow lower floor and a couple of balconies. Therefore, persons occupying the orchestra seats at 45 francs [90 cents] did so at their own peril, for they were strafed thruout the evening with cigaret butts from above.

Wine for All.

The thirsty were equipped with tall bottles of Algerian wine which they passed around liberally. Others munched at packets of figs and dates. Latecomers were greeted heartily with handshakes and offers of a drink and a fig.

The usherettes, beetle-browed women with sharp tongues, collected 5 franc tips [10 cents] for pointing out seats. Signs reading "Defense de Fumer"—smoking forbidden—plastered the place and were barely discernible thru the pall from hundreds of cigars and cigarets.

As the first nighters finally left the theater, stray flashlight beams picked up a sign over the entrance. It read, "Grand Spectacle of North Africa."

THIEVES STEAL ANTI-FREEZE.

Forty-one gallons of anti-freeze, 23 cases of oil, and seven batteries, all valued at $234, were stolen from a filling station at 2545 South Western avenue by burglars, the owner, Joseph Ardito, reported to police yesterday.

HIGHWOOD MAN AMONG 10 DEAD IN PLANE CRASH

Pocatello, Idaho, Oct. 5 (AP).—The Pocatello army air base public relations office today reported the names of four officers and six enlisted men who were killed in the crash of a bomber last Friday at Elk, Cal. The men included: 2d Lt. Charles F. Barnhart, bombardier, 232 Railway avenue, Highwood, Ill.; 2d. Lt. Leo A. Kaminski, co-pilot, Plainfield, Wis., and Sgt. James O. Baker, armorer gunner, Alexandria, Ind.

Wayne Man Killed.

Blythe, Cal., Oct. 5 (AP).—Ten army air men were killed in the crash of their four engined heavy bomber at the Blythe army air base last night. The air base public relations officer listed the victims as including: Sgt. Joseph O. Camp, 19 years old, radio operator, Wayne, Ill., and William T. Buchanan, 22, aerial engineer, Galveston, Ind.

Crash Kills Nine.

Pueblo, Colo., Oct. 5 (AP).—Authorities at the Pueblo army air base announced today that a Pueblo-based four engined bomber crashed late yesterday near Gulfport, Miss., killing all nine airmen aboard. The bomber was on a routine flight. Among the victims was 2d Lt. Ben H. Mathes Jr. of Anderson, Ind.

Indiana Pilot Dead.

Greenville, S. C., Oct. 9 (AP).—Five men were killed and a sixth was seriously injured today when a B-25 medium bomber crashed and burned shortly after taking off from the Greenville army air base, the public relations office announced. The dead included: 1st Lt. Orville E. Stone, pilot, Indianapolis, Ind.

Michigan Flyer Killed.

Tucson, Ariz., Oct. 5 (AP).—Sgt. Robert L. Day, 22 years old, was one of two men killed yesterday in the crash of a four engined bomber as it left the runway at Davis-Monthan army air field, officers reported today. Day was the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Day, 1616 Dickerson avenue, Detroit, Mich.

R. A. F. Bombs Strategic Military Road in Burma

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 5 (AP).—R. A. F. Wellington bombers and Beaufighters heavily attacked yesterday the strategic Taungup pass road which connects the Irrawaddy valley in Japanese occupied Burma with the coast south of Akyab, leaving fires which were visible 50 miles away, a bulletin said today.

BLAMES RELEASE OF PROSTITUTES ON LA GUARDIA

Probers Told He Wanted Beds for 'Raid' Victims.

New York, Oct. 5 [Special].—Infected prostitutes were turned loose in the streets of New York to provide empty hospital beds desired by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia for possible victims of enemy air raids, according to testimony today before the city council committee investigating the city government.

Testimony to this effect was given by Dr. Edward Horowitz, joint supervisor of the venereal ward in the Kingston avenue hospital, Brooklyn, as the committee delved into reasons for the release from the city institution during the year ending in June, 1942, of 109 prostitutes suffering from venereal diseases.

"Dr. Bernecker explained to us that the mayor needed beds for possible casualties due to possible air raids and that we must reduce our census," Dr. Horowitz said. His reference was to Commissioner of Hospitals Edward Bernecker, who later denied that the Kingston avenue institution ever figured in plans for handling air raid victims.

Patients Kept a Week.

Dr. Horowitz testified that Dr. Bernecker finally permitted the hospital to keep venereal patients for a week, during which authorities could make two examinations. He said a third examination was made "on our own" on the day patients were supposed to go home.

Dr. Hyman Strauss, gynecologist in charge of gonorrhea cases at the Kingston avenue hospital, testified that the examination period for such cases was reduced from 28 days to two weeks by Commissioner Bernecker at the direction of the mayor.

Dr. Strauss called the subsequent home isolation of released venereal patients "a farce and a joke." Previous testimony indicated most of the women wound up in charge of one doctor in a certain hotel where there was no provision for isolation.

Says Sulfa Speeds Cure.

Chairman Walter R. Hart of the investigating committee asked Dr. Strauss if he felt the system of releasing infected prostitutes to private treatment tended to force them to resume their profession.

"I will quote one of the girls who asked, 'How am I expected to live?'" the doctor replied.

Dr. Bernecker testified that Mayor La Guardia's air raid fears had nothing to do with the shortening of the treatment period in venereal cases. He said this was due to the newly discovered sulfa drugs which speed up the cure of such diseases.

Philip J. Kahan of the Kingston institution, denied that the treatment period for venereal cases had ever been shortened to a week. He said that in 95 per cent of the cases complete cures were shown at the end of two weeks treatment.

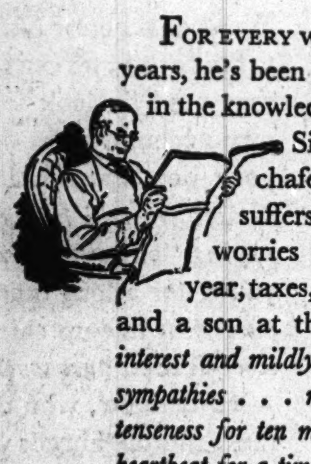
Magic carpet...

This is Sunday . . . day of the long sleep and late breakfast, of worship and no work, of papas pushing baby carriages and people paying calls, of small fry at play and elders taking their ease, of time to waste, read, think . . . the day of the big dinner, the big paper, and the colored comics section . . . magic carpet for millions!



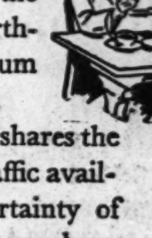
For every waking moment of the past eight years, he's been listening to his own heart beat, in the knowledge that it might stop any time. Simultaneously he runs a factory, chafes at delays and incompetence, suffers fools and hates stupidity, worries about materials, money, next year, taxes, and wills, a daughter in college and a son at the front . . . The Sunday comics interest and mildly amuse, challenge his cynicism and sympathies . . . magic carpet that takes away the tenseness for ten minutes, makes him forget even his heartbeat for a time . . .

The woman in the house sometimes feels a little sorry for herself on Sunday, offday for everybody but a housekeeper. She takes time to sit down and see the paper, headlines and pictures, styles, social notes and store offerings, and the comics section . . . And a magic carpet carries her away for a little while from the dishes in the sink, the baby to mind, and the dinner to get, the chores that await her . . .

The youngster sprawls on the floor, the better to survey the colored panels. These Sunday comics are no strangers, rank with his first knowledge, his earliest memories, his oldest habit, buried in the mists of babyhood. His fresh eyes find more in every frame than any adult's . . . note the bend in a bird's wing, the way a sombrero is worn, the ethnic earmarks of alien people, the data and detail of crossbows and locomotives, the methods of modern air war, the benday blandishments of the heroine . . . learns a little more about everything.

His imagination inflates the plane of color print, identifies himself among the colorful characters. Magic carpet that carries him off to new worlds, adult stature, satisfying adventures . . . is the comics section.

Magic carpet for millions, in every age group, income bracket, and both sexes, is the Sunday comics section . . . and the Metropolitan Group has made it the magic carpet for the national advertiser!



Metropolitan Group has gathered together the comics sections of forty-one great Sunday newspapers . . . with a regular, at home, readership that includes three out of four adults, and all children . . . with a circulation in excess of 15,000,000 copies, going to more than half the better buying families of the country . . . and a concentration in worthwhile urban areas that no other medium can match, no radio network can par.

In the comics section, advertising shares the highest attention and heaviest eye-traffic available anywhere, has the highest certainty of being received. REDS 30 MILES FROM NAZI FORT IN WHITE RUSSIA

Soviet Offensive Comes to Halt Elsewhere.

LONDON, Oct. 6 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Keeping its initiative in White Russia alive despite mud and the Germans, the Red army yesterday overran 46 populated places in the Vitebsk sector and pushed to within 30 miles of that Nazi stronghold, the Moscow radio announced early today. Vitebsk is 110 miles from the Latvian frontier.

In the midnight war bulletin the Russians mentioned only guerrilla activities south of Gomel, another German base in White Russia.

Hurl Back Nazi Attacks.

The bulletin listed more than 1,150 Germans killed in two engagements near Vitebsk and Gomel.

Declaring that Russian troops in the Gomel area had captured an important line, the statement said that the Germans were frustrated in five local attacks designed to restore the position.

The Russians declared four enemy troop laden landing barges had been sunk by aircraft of the soviet black sea fleet. This was a fresh hint that the Germans were pulling out of their slim foothold on the Taman peninsula in the Caucasus, or even withdrawing some forces from the Crimea.

Nazi Attacks Increase.

Moscow dispatches said that strong German counter-attacks were increasing over wide sectors. However, it was not clear whether this German action and current raids had caused the Russian drive to stop, or whether it had been ended first by design, with the German counter-attacks coming as a result.

Both Berlin and Moscow discussed the halt of the Russian offensive. An editorial in the Moscow army newspaper Red Star took cognizance of the German counter-attacks, saying that a repulse of them "is one of the most necessary undertakings for furthering our successful offensive."

Berlin indicated that the German "withdrawal" had been halted on the Dnieper line, and that a stand may now be made there. Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, the German military commentator, said that "the German command has obviously decided upon the Dnieper line as a general line for the end of the disengaging movements."

Earlier the Berlin radio quoted "expert observers of military matters" as saying that "the westward movement of the German army, which has been conducted according to a wholesale plan, has in most sectors of the eastern front been completed."

EISENHOWER HAILS ADM. CUNNINGHAM ON NEW NAVY POST

ALLIED HDQ., ALGIERS, Oct. 5 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower, allied commander in the Mediterranean, extended the well wishes and confidence of all the combatants in the allied Mediterranean theater to Adm. Andrew Browne Cunningham, allied naval commander in that theater, today on his appointment as first British sea lord.

Eisenhower said:

"Adm. Cunningham goes to his new post with the complete confidence of every air man, soldier, and sailor in this entire allied command. His departure is a blow to us, but we are proud of him."

TRAINMAN CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 5 [AP].—B. D. Followell of Mattoon, Ill., a Big Four railroad fireman, was crushed to death today by an engine in the yards here.

6 GERMAN CITIES TORN BY ALLIES' BOMB OFFENSIVE

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP).—Strong forces of R. A. F. bombers punched at least six German industrial cities last night in a fourth successive night of furious aerial onslaught and left the big city of Frankfurt torn by its second raid in 12 hours, and its heaviest of the war.

Frankfurt and Ludwigshafen were the only cities specifically mentioned in the official British report of the night's operation, which also spoke of the Rhineland in general, but the Nazis in a war bulletin filled in the details. They acknowledged heavy destruction to Frankfurt and said Mannheim [Ludwigshafen's twin city], Worms, Offenbach, and Saarlautern also were raided by "terror" bombers.

Keeping up the around-the-clock assault, allied planes struck Nazi targets in France and the Low Countries by daylight. They destroyed four German fighters, shot up several locomotives, barges, and an oil refinery near Ghent, Belgium, and smashed grounded enemy planes. Six allied planes were lost. Some Typhoons penetrated the Paris area and shot down four Nazi planes.

Chemical City Blasted.

More than 500 tons of bombs were unloaded on Frankfurt, a motor, chemical, and rubber city of 500,000 persons, which, in the day preceding the R. A. F. attack, was subjected to a precision bombing by American Fortresses, which aimed at the city's important airplane works.

A secondary force of Lancaster bombers hit Ludwigshafen, across the Rhine from Mannheim and site of the I. G. Farbenindustrie chemical plant—the world's largest. As terminus of Rhine navigation, the twin cities constitute the largest inland port in Europe.

Frankfurt is located on the Main river only a few miles northeast of its confluence with the Rhine, while Ludwigshafen is about 50 miles south. Offenbach lies five miles east of Frankfurt and Worms is another Rhine port about 20 miles north of Ludwigshafen. Saarlautern is near Saarbrucken, capital of the Saar mining and steel region.

Twelve British planes were lost from all of last night's operations, which included Mosquito bomber attacks on objectives in northwest Germany.

Canadian pilots who participated in the mass night attack said the fires left by the Frankfurt pounding could be seen 30 miles away. They reported little opposition.

AUSSIES OCCUPY RAMU VALLEY IN MADANG DRIVE

Take Town Sixty Miles from Jap Base.

ALLIED HDQS. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 6 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Australian forces moving northwest of Lae against Madang, New Guinea, have reached the headwaters of the Ramu valley, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

The troops occupied Kaigulin village, 60 miles south of Madang.

Troops moving up the Markham valley crossed the divide into the Ramu valley and drove the Japanese from positions near Kaigulin before occupying the village.

Kaigulin is 40 miles south of Bogadjim, Madang's defense outpost. The Australians moved on northeastward and battled with the Japanese near the village of Wampun.

Bomb Barge Depot.

In the Solomons, American torpedo and dive bombers struck at the Japanese barge depot of Hamberi cove on Kolombangara, starting large fires. The Japanese have been sneaking barges down, usually at night, from Choiseul, the staging point to which the Vila evacuees are sent for ultimate transfer to Bougainville.

The Japanese raided Vella Lavella Island with 50 planes, aiming at American ground positions on the northwest coast and at the base of Barakoma. Six planes were downed and one defending allied plane was shot down, but the pilot was saved.

Destroy 6 More Barges.

In the central Solomons, where the Japanese are evacuating their garrison at Vila, Kolombangara, American fighter planes have destroyed four more barges and naval units two. More than 40 barges previously were wrecked by naval units off Choiseul, and the total destroyed since the first of September exceeds 150.

Allied reconnaissance units bombed a 1,500 ton enemy cargo vessel near Cape St. George, New Ireland, and forced a smaller vessel aground near the Vitu Islands in the northeast New Britain sector.

Headquarters reported receipt of congratulations by the American government to Gen. MacArthur for the coördination, tactics, and celerity exhibited in the New Guinea campaign. Since Sept. 12 his troops have captured the air bases of Salamaua, Lae, and Finschhafen.

FINDS HUSBAND HANGED.

Mrs. Josephine Koral, 2625 South Kedvale avenue, went to the garage in the rear of her home yesterday and found the body of her husband, Ludvik, 58, hanging from a rafter. She told police he had been despondent over ill health.

Advance in New Guinea

(Story in adjoining column.)

WITHHOLD IDENTITY OF ALLIED AIRMAN BEHEADED BY JAPS

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 6 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Positive identification of the airman whose beheading by a sword was disclosed in the diary of a captured Japanese soldier is being withheld to save the feelings of the victim's family. Officially the flyer was described today at headquarters only as "allied."

Headquarters in releasing the story had said the airman was a member of the crew of a Douglas plane of the air transport command in New Guinea.

[An earlier dispatch from allied headquarters by an Associated Press correspondent referred to the executed flyer as an American, which was passed by the censor.]

The diary, under a last March 29 date, said the airman, 23 years old, was executed according to the "Samurai code" after the bomber he occupied was shot down near Salamaua, New Guinea, March 18.

U. S. REITERATES VENGEANCE VOW FOR JAP CRUELTY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—Asked for comment on the release by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters of a captured Japanese diary which described the beheading of an American aviator, state department officials today cited the note sent to Tokio last April 12.

This note, transmitted thru the Swiss government, protested the execution of some of the American flyers who fell into Japanese hands after the bombing of Tokio. It solemnly warned the Japanese government that for this and any other "acts of criminal barbarity" against American prisoners, the American government "will visit upon the officers of the Japanese government responsible for such uncivilized and inhuman acts the punishment they deserve."

State department officials made clear that the beheading of the American flyer, pilot of an air transport ship, would be put down as one of the cases covered by the warning.

NAVY SHOW ADDS WORLD SERIES TO ITS ATTRACTIONS

Visitors to the free "Back the Attack" navy show in Tribune Square yesterday did not miss a single pitch of the first game of the world series. Loud speakers carrying the exclusive W-G-N-Mutual broadcast of the event were located in strategic spots on the grounds.

The broadcast [which will be a daily feature], the radiant weather, and above all the absorbing display of naval equipment arranged by the treasury department, in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE, kept the grounds alive with visitors.

War bond sales during the 24 hours ending at 4 p. m. yesterday were $50,600, bringing the total during the first 13 days to $829,560. The day's attendance was 6,484 for a total of 244,465 since the exhibit opened.

Today, more than ever, it is a sign of generous hospitality to serve Hill & Hill. This magnificent whiskey is scarcer now because the distillery is devoted to war production. If your store runs short, keep asking for Hill & Hill.

WAR NOTE: Our distilleries are engaged in the production of alcohol for war purposes. This whiskey comes from reserve stocks.

She is reading Louis Bromfield's part of a momentous new book —which is being previewed in November Cosmopolitan

MR. BROMFIELD'S story is holding the lady spellbound. It's the story of a German girl, Gretl, who was young and good and gay. But that was before the shadow of the swastika fell across her life. That was before the ruthless Nazi Baron Von Hagen came and saw and coveted her blonde loveliness . . .

But we can't describe "Thou Shalt Not Covet" half as well as Louis Bromfield is telling it to the lady above. All we can say is, it's as fine as anything Bromfield has ever written. Told with an almost-biblical sweep and scope and power, "Thou Shalt Not Covet" points a moral that the whole German people should long ago have heeded. It's great reading all the way—complete in November Cosmopolitan.

And so is another wonderful piece of reading "Sergeant Schmid, Marine." Here's a war story that packs more thrills than anything you've read in a long, long time. It's true, every word, this epic of Guadalcanal. Turn to page 49 and meet Sergeant Schmid, who got 200 Japs and the truest girl in Philadelphia!

But perhaps we're getting a little ahead of ourselves. You can't enjoy any of these things until you've got your copy of Cosmopolitan. Hustle down to the newsstand now and ask for the November issue.

Has the Labor Pendulum Swung too far?

Thurman Arnold pulls no punches in "Labor Against Itself," an article with a message for every American

What does the future hold for the American Federation of Labor—the C.I.O.—the United Mine Workers? Thurman Arnold, former Assistant Attorney General under the New Deal, makes some pretty startling prophecies. He reminds us that union labor today is something less than the apple of the public's eye—predicts a curb to the financial and political power of the unions—a curb that will come from within labor's own ranks. "Labor Against Itself" is "must" reading for every citizen with a healthy interest in his government.

"BOARDWALK"—a 4-part Serial by Libbie Block. Meet Private Pancho Pine—and step up to adventure! Will his heart remain faithful to Mary Lee after he meets Gillian—highly respectable daughter of a hard-boiled mother? Start "Boardwalk" in November Cosmopolitan.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LABOR-BACKED ASPIRANT LEADS IN DETROIT VOTE

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5 (AP).—Early unofficial returns from Detroit's nonpartisan municipal primary gave Frank Fitzgerald, who received organized labor's endorsement, a substantial lead in the field of 14 candidates for two nominations for mayor tonight.

The 43 year old incumbent, Edward J. Jeffries Jr., trailed Fitzgerald but remained well ahead of Charles Bowles, who was recalled in 1930 after a little more than six months in the mayor's office, and Frank Murphy, a former lieutenant governor of Michigan.

In 400 of the city's 1,057 precincts the unofficial vote for the three leading candidates was: Fitzgerald, 33,561; Jeffries, 19,610; Bowles, 5,418.

Embezzler Granted Stay Fails to Surrender Self

William Fredin, 35 years old, Basin City, Miss., failed to surrender to the United States marshal yesterday at the expiration of his stay of sentence of a year and a day for embezzling bank funds, imposed by Federal Judge William H. Holly on Fredin's plea of guilty. Maurice Walsh, assistant United States attorney, said he would ask forfeiture of Fredin's $5,000 bond.

F. W. Adams' Wife Wins Divorce with $17,000

Mrs. Marguerite Ann Adams obtained a divorce and a $17,000 settlement from Frank W. Adams, attorney, before Judge Julius H. Miner in Circuit court yesterday. She charged cruelty. Under the decree she receives $6,000 on the sale of their home at 411 Sheridan road, Wilmette, and $11,000 at the rate of $200 or more a month.

YES, speak the only language the Nazi Germans understand—the language of bursting shells, fired by the used cooking fats you and every other American woman turn in! Rationing needn't stop you—the government asks for your fats only after you've got all the cooking good out of them. But then, every drop is desperately needed. Just one tablespoon will fire five machine gun bullets. Even with rationing, you can save that much every day. Rush each canful to your meat dealer.

3 U. S. ADMIRALS SHAPE STRATEGY TO WHIP THE JAPS

King, Halsey and Nimitz Meet in Hawaii.

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 4 [Delayed]—(AP).—A Pacific war strategy conference has been held at Pacific fleet headquarters here among the three top ranking navy commanders, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, announced tonight.

Attending besides Adm. Nimitz were Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, and Adm. William F. Halsey, commander of the South Pacific force of the fleet. It was the first visit Adm. King had made to the Pacific theater since the war began.

Return to Headquarters.

The terse announcement disclosed that King and Halsey had returned to their headquarters "after conferences at Pearl Harbor" with Nimitz.

The statement did not mention when the meeting took place, but presumably the report was released as soon as King had returned to Washington and Halsey to South Pacific headquarters.

The announcement said only that principal members of the staffs of Admirals King, Nimitz, and Halsey also participated in the conversations, which concerned plans for the Pacific campaign.

Shape Pacific Strategy.

The first meeting of the three admirals in the Pacific war theater undoubtedly shaped definite strategy for increasing the weight and tempo of offensive blows against Japan.

Their meeting here recalls that Halsey made a trip to Australia to confer with Gen. MacArthur a short time before Halsey's command started the New Georgia campaign June 30.

On the same date, MacArthur's forces occupied the Trobriand and Woodlark Islands and made a landing at Nassau bay in New Guinea which was climaxed ultimately with the capture of Salamaua, Lae, and Finschhafen.

Possible Objectives Cited.

The admirals' conference points to the enemy's extended perimeter of Pacific island outposts as possible objectives of the United States' growing military and naval power.

In choosing where to strike, the men drafting Pacific strategy could aim at any point in the vast war theater from the Kuriles just northeast of Japan proper to Bougainville Island in the northern Solomons, the enemy's last stronghold there.

Two recent carrier task force raids hitting the Marcus Island and Gilbert Island area prove that the fleet's strength has been increased to a point where the navy's Pacific ships and men are now ready for a fight and are looking for it.

Hero of 20 Bombing Raids Home to Wed Sweetheart

Sgt. Jack Oakley, son of Mrs. Anna Humphrey, 4350 Van Buren street, radio man on 20 bomber missions in the Southwest Pacific, has returned home to be married. The girl is Elizabeth Ann Bergin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bergin, 4330 Jackson boulevard. The wedding is to follow a round of parties and receptions. Oakley, 23 years old, won the distinguished flying cross and the air medal with oak leaf cluster.

Two Indicted Policemen Fight Shooting Charge

A motion to quash the indictment of Joseph Murray and William Hogan, suspended policemen, on charges of assault to kill Howard Darnell, Detroit naval inductee, was presented to Judge Harold G. Ward in Criminal court yesterday by the defendants' attorney, James M. Burke. Darnell was shot during an altercation in a North Clark street tavern Aug. 31. He is improving at Wesley Memorial hospital and will be removed today to Great Lakes Naval Training Station hospital, said Assistant State's Atty. James A. Brown. He told the court he would be prepared to oppose Burke's motion on Oct. 14.

We haven't liked it, either

...and we've done something about it!

A lot of the fun in railroading went out when the demand for reservations far exceeded the supply. When we haven't enough space to sell, when we have to keep callers hanging on the telephone, when we can't give you what you want, our job of handling reservations just naturally isn't as pleasant or interesting.

We, at the New York Central, know it's been a "headache" to you. And we think you'll be glad to hear we've done something about it. Now we have increased our Reservation Staff to 107 people. It used to be 32. With that we're not promising any miracles—like perfect service or more accommodations. Not as long as our Chicago phones are ringing 10,000 times a day (by actual count). Not as long as telegrams are averaging 7,000 to 8,000 daily. Not as long as TWICE as many travelers are riding the rails.

Besides, the railroads are carrying 2,000,000 troops a month. And that's the job that ties up half the Pullmans and a third of the coaches we used to have for YOU.

Increasing man power is not the final answer. There is the bigger question of being unable to get more Pullmans and coaches.

Frankly, however, we feel that this new expanded reservation staff at New York Central will mean a definite improvement in service. We are determined to keep on doing the best we can. But we've no illusions. Your phone calls and telegrams tell us we're up against ONE WHALE OF A JOB!

POWER OF JAPS ON DOWNGRADE, SAYS ROOSEVELT

President Assumes New Role of War Reporter.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—President Roosevelt today hailed the retirement of the enemy from the central Solomon Islands as a signal defeat for Japan.

In his new role of reporter of the war, vying with Winston Churchill, British premier, who continually "scoops" him on the news, the President at his press conference described the operations in Italy and in the southwest Pacific.

Evidence of the withdrawal of the Japs from the central Solomons was furnished, Mr. Roosevelt said, by the increasing number of barges that were being destroyed by allied aircraft. Barges are employed by the Japs in inter-island communication, carrying troops and supplies. This barge traffic has been particularly heavy in the last 30 days and was occasioned by the Japanese evacuations, said the President.

Asserts Few Escape.

Few of the retreating Japs escaped with their lives, according to Mr. Roosevelt's information, for the American and Australian airplanes annihilated the barges.

The Japs also were reported evacuating other neighboring islands in this region. The President said these movements establish conclusively the increasing weakness of the Japs in the Solomon Islands and New Guinea sector. This retreat he viewed as similar to the evacuation of Kiska in the Aleutians, from which the Japs fled when they found themselves outflanked and doomed to defeat. He thought it showed up the hollowness of the legend of Japanese invincibility.

Asked whether he had any comment to make on the decapitation by the Japs of a captured American flyer, the revolting account of which was given in a captured Jap diary, the President replied in the negative, adding that he thought the country has drawn its own conclusions. It is not the first instance, he said, of barbaric treatment by the Japs of the foes who fall into their hands.

Japs Termed Uncivilized.

What such instances demonstrate, the President went on, is the lack of civilization of the Japanese. Nothing so lacerates the sensibilities of the Japanese as the accusation that they are uncivilized, but under the circumstances he was not disposed to spare their feelings.

The state department made it clear that this government will hold criminally responsible the Japanese officers who beheaded the American. Several months ago the President served notice on Japan that similar grim justice will be meted out to the Japs responsible for the execution of the captured American bombers of Tokio.

Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to give more information on the progress of the war stem from the unfavorable reaction in and out of congress to the Churchill scoops. Ever since the prime minister's report on the meeting which produced the Atlantic charter more than two years ago, the American public has found itself compelled to rely on Mr. Churchill for more comprehensive, authoritative, and revealing accounts of military and political events than have been vouchsafed by Mr. Roosevelt, the war and navy departments, and Elmer Davis' office of war information.

10 Churchill Scoops.

Capping the climax was the recent Churchill speech to parliament which contained 10 important items of news not to be found in Mr. Roosevelt's review of the war in the special message to congress a few days before. The 10 scoops were:

1. Failure of German submarines to sink a single allied ship in the period ending a few days before the Churchill speech.
2. Statistics of the submarine war on allied shipping and circumstances pertaining to it.
3. Invasion of Sardinia by American forces.
4. The project to send American paratroopers to seize the air fields at Rome and the developments that compelled abandonment of the plan.
5. Account of Gen. Eisenhower's negotiations with the Badoglio government for the unconditional surrender of Italy.
6. Account of the escape of Mussolini, who was taken from his Italian guards by German paratroopers.

Parley Plans Told.

7. Plans for bringing about a meeting of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill with Dictator Josef Stalin of Russia.
8. Account of the participation of Italian warships in the seizure of Corsica.
9. The renewal of submarine attacks on allied shipping with new tactics.
10. Disclosure that the Germans are using a new kind of aerial bomb in their attacks on allied convoys.

Much if not all this information was in the possession of American reporters on the battle fronts and in Washington, but publication was prevented by the censorship. There was no end of speculation on the reasons for the Churchill scoops: whether Mr. Churchill merely was a better reporter than Mr. Roosevelt, or Mr. Roosevelt was ignorant of the facts, or Mr. Roosevelt was deferring to Mr. Churchill as the master mind of the Anglo-American coalition who therefore properly would be the spokesman and revealer of secrets of the conduct of the war.

UAW ASKS HALT TO BUROCRATIC LABOR CHAOS

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 5 [Special]. —Immediate inauguration of a "comprehensive national war man power program" to halt what was termed the prevailing burocratic confusion and help provide adequate labor forces for industry was demanded in a resolution adopted today by the national convention of the United Automobile Workers, CIO affiliate.

The convention opposed adoption of compulsory labor service thru a national service act, and called on President Roosevelt and Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war man power commission, to end the man power confusion.

There is no man power shortage in America, Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president and head of the union's General Motors division, told the 2,000 delegates.

MISSING MAN DEAD IN RESERVOIR.

The body of Philip Zanzara, 38 years old, 6759 South Halsted street, was found in a water reservoir at the plant of the Corn Products corporation in Argo yesterday. His wife, Mary, had reported him missing Aug. 17.

Your heart on her lapel... THERE GOES THAT GIRL OF YOURS

There she goes, that girl of yours, so darned busy winning this war that sometimes you wonder . . . Her plant foreman is known to have a way with lady riveters . . . The uniforms flock thick her nights at the U. S. O. . . . And, say, who's the lug that drove her home from the Blood Bank the other night?

Take it easy, pal. You couldn't hold a good woman down these days if you wanted to. But you could . . . well, you know those little bunches of flowers the girls are so set on . . . wear them on one shoulder.

Try it. It's no trouble. The florist makes them up to order. See that it's pinned tight and turn her loose. Better, isn't it? There she goes . . . yours . . . wearing your heart on her lapel!

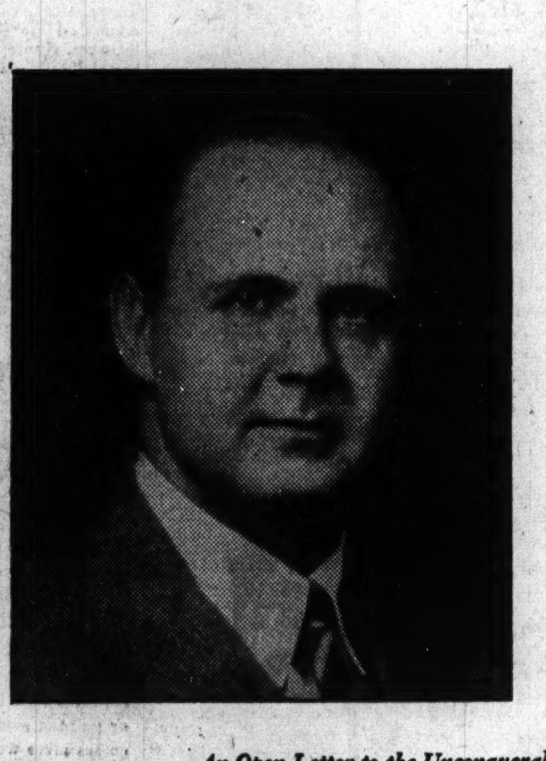
IN THE CAUSE OF HONOR AND PEACE

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE UNCONQUERABLE DUTCH



"REMEMBER . . . forget nothing . . . fight . . . fight . . . fight . . ." The ghastliness of war, aggression and occupation has not obliterated our belief in the sacredness of human freedom. Executions and concentration camps designed as the tombstones of liberty will not stay the Dutch from fighting for Victory. The ghosts of the martyrs and the fallen lead us on the road to Berlin and Tokyo. They carry with us our unstained flag. They urge us on, for Victory cannot wait.

We are deeply grateful to The Saturday Evening Post for publishing Mr. Auslander's message as an inspiration to all whose courage and faith will in the end restore decency to all the world.

A Maple Bedroom of Ageless Beauty

Three Solid Maple Pieces:* 4-Drawer Chest, 3-Drawer Dresser and Full or Twin Size Bed for Just $58

A solid maple bedroom is always a wise investment! First of all, its beauty and charm are ageless—as good in all the tomorrows as it is today. And the fact that it is solid means that there's practically no "wear-out" to it! Besides, when it's a copy of an authentic Early American suite, as this one is, its design is ageless, too, and the simplicity of its lines is very restful. We believe so heartily in such a suite as this one that we recommend it highly and urge you to see it early, if you are in need of a new bedroom suite. Terms may be arranged, you know, at your nearest Wieboldt store.

LONDON OPENS PACIFIC SHOW; PRESS SILENT

Public, However, Flocks to War Exhibit.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—"'Orrible, ain't it?"

This remark, by an old lady from London's East End, sums up the reaction of visitors to the "jungle front" exhibition which was opened here today to acquaint the British with the Pacific war.

The old lady was looking at an enlarged photograph of jungle weary Australian troops slugging thru kneedeep mud in the Buna campaign.

Ignored by Dailies.

The exhibition, which will run three weeks, followed a reproof administered by United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox. He had complained in a press conference here that the British public was not being told enough about the Pacific war.

Altho sponsored by the ministry of information and the United States office of war information to stimulate publicity on the Pacific war, the opening of the exhibit was ignored by two of London's three evening papers. The third carried two short paragraphs about the displays. Of nine morning papers only one mentioned the show. It devoted six lines to it.

Despite the cool reception from the papers and the fact that the British press frequently buries Pacific war news, the public showed its keen interest by filling the exhibition rooms to capacity. The exhibition consists mostly of large photos taken in the New Guinea and Guadalcanal campaigns, especially during the Japanese drive to cross the Owen Stanley mountain range to Port Moresby in New Guinea.

No Jap Trophies.

The central display, mounted on a turntable, shows an American .50 caliber machine gun manned by models of two United States soldiers. There are displays also of allied equipment, such as rifles and mortars. A ministry of information attendant said it had been hoped that Japanese battle trophies could be exhibited but none could be found here.

Soon after the exhibition opened, a British major from the war office dashed in breathlessly, snatched a piece of equipment from a service rifle, and exclaimed, "This is still on the secret list!" Then he ran out again.

COUPLE HELD IN GIN THEFT.

Frank Burroughs, 37 years old, of Toledo, O., a truck driver, and Miss Beulah Schaller, 20, of Bowling Green, O., were ordered held in $2,500 bond each yesterday for removal to Cleveland, O., for trial on a charge of stealing 11 cases of gin from an interstate shipment.

British Children's Shoes Poor; Official Checks Up

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Clothes Ration Controler Hugh Dalton began a tour of shoemaking factories in the Midland areas today to discuss with manufacturers the question of improving the quality and quantity of children's shoes. There have been many complaints recently of a shortage of shoes and their poor quality altho production of children's shoes is estimated at 30,000,000 pairs yearly, enough for four pairs for every child.

D. S. C. AWARDED 3 YANK HEROES OF BUNA BATTLE

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 5 (AP).—Two men who braved enemy fire to carry a rope across a flooded river at the height of the Buna campaign in New Guinea last January today received distinguished service crosses. The awards were made by Gen. MacArthur to Pvt. Raymond Milby of Louisville, Ky., and Pvt. Marvin K. Peterson of Oconto Falls, Wis.

The two men were part of a small patrol which volunteered to swim the swollen Konombi river, near Tarakena, in daylight and under heavy fire. Armed only with pistols and grenades, they helped tow a rope to the opposite bank. The entire company subsequently was able to cross with the aid of the rope, and a bridgehead on the far bank of the stream was secured.

A D. S. C. also was presented today to Pvt. Steve Parks of Cameron, Wis., another hero of the Buna fighting, who braved Jap fire to rescue a wounded man.

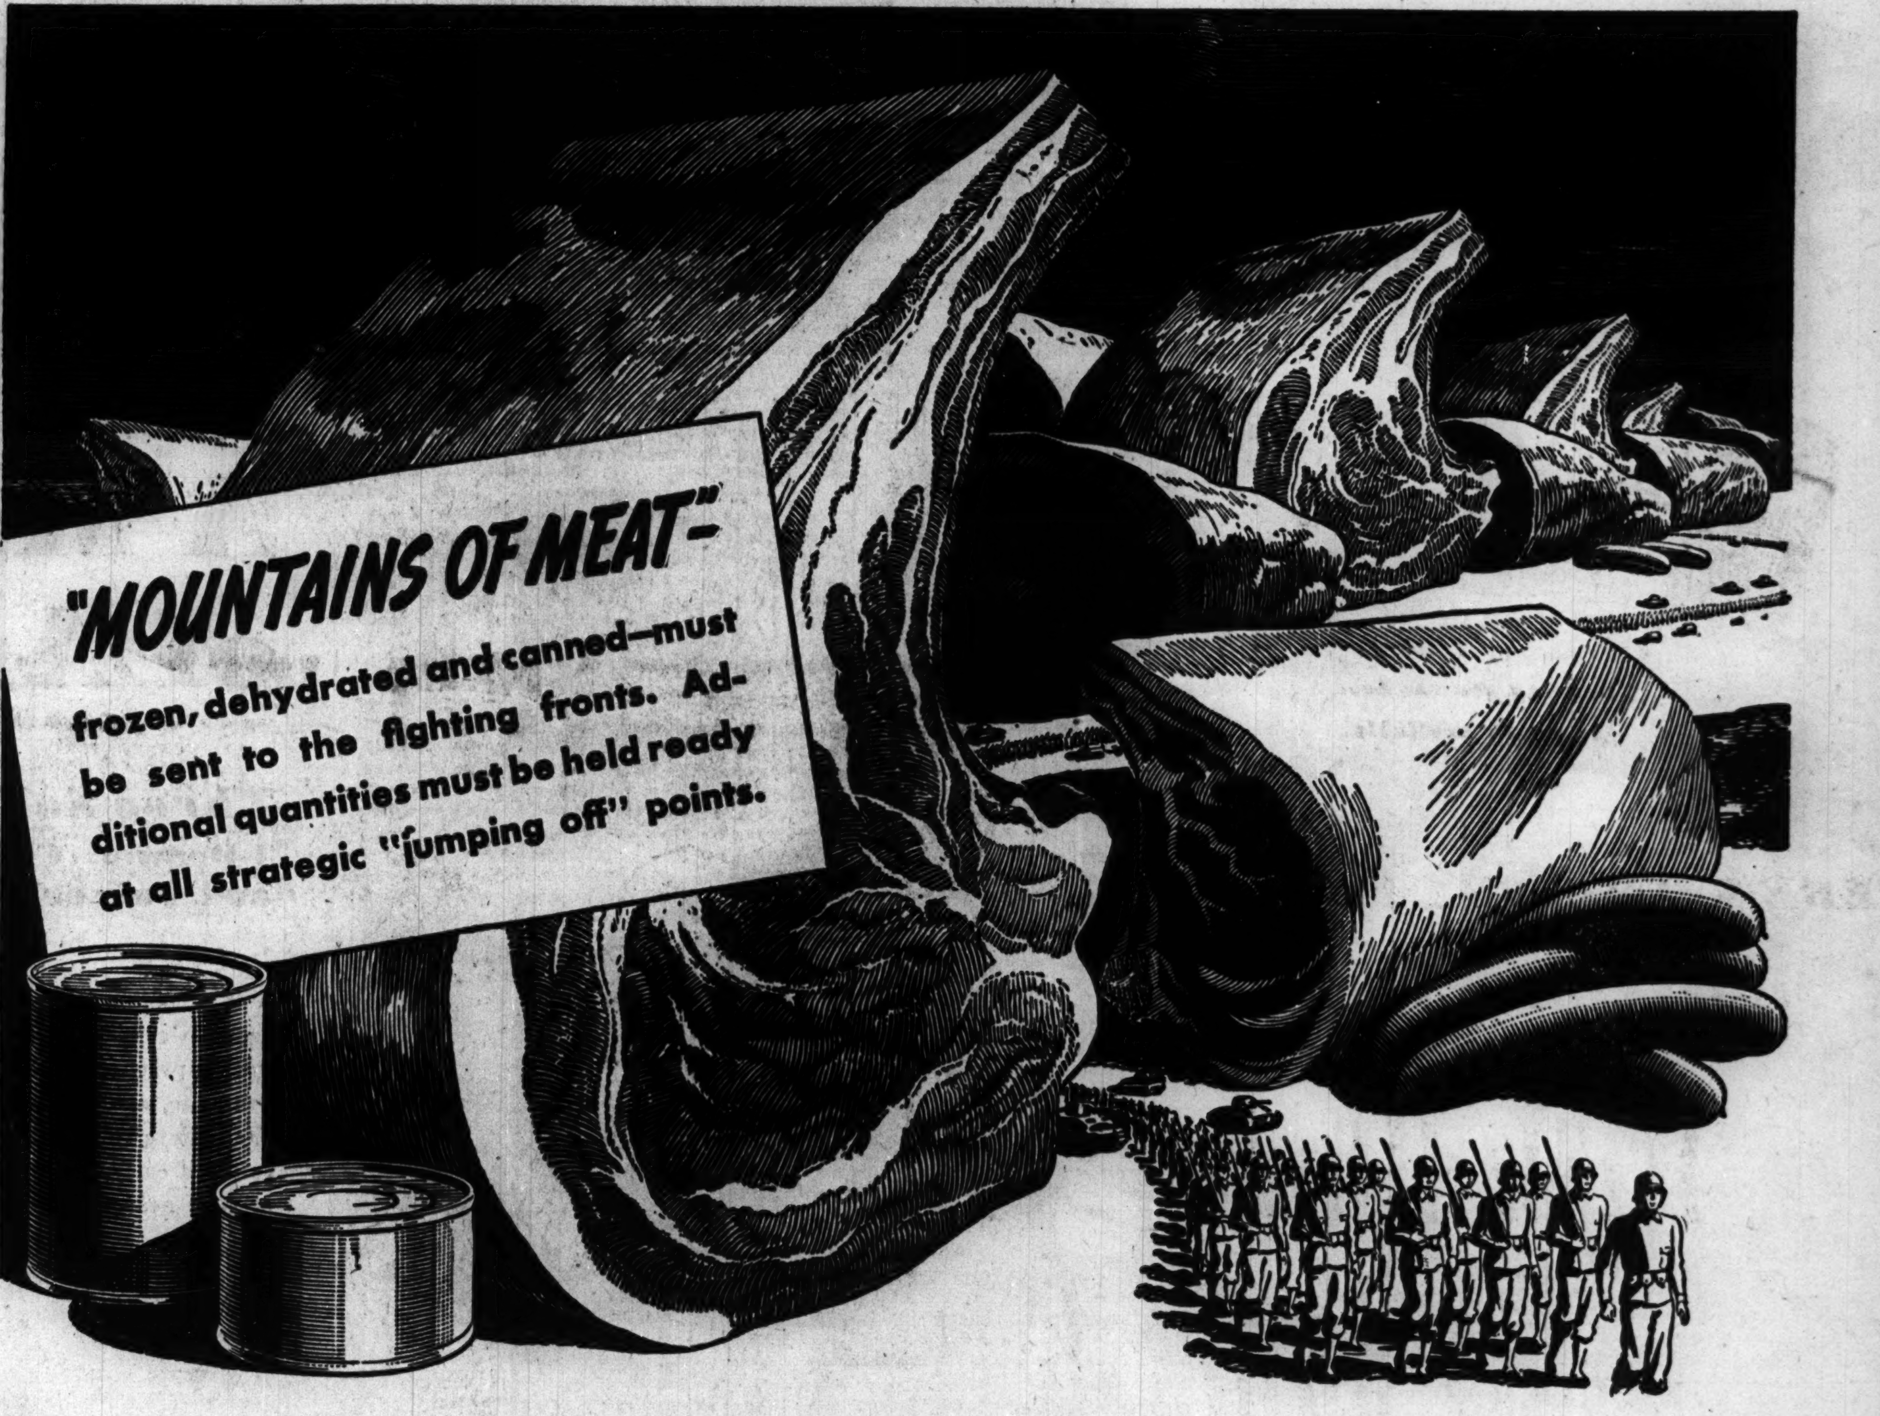
Helping Back the Attack with MEAT



When you feel that you are not getting the kind or amount of meat you want, remember—it's for a boy who may smell powder a lot more than he smells meat cooking —and who hears bombs a lot oftener than he hears the sizzle of a steak.

The high-quality, complete proteins, the B vitamins and the minerals of meat are essential to the good physical condition of our fighting forces.

A 90-day advance supply of food is needed for every man in training. An eight-month reserve is needed for every man overseas. Every ship sunk, every shift in the progress of the war can increase the need.

Such are the calls coming in for the sides of beef and pork which used to be available at your neighborhood meat store.

The meat and livestock industries have taken on a job of helping feed our fighters, providing meat for our fighting allies through Lend-Lease, and trying to meet the demands of a harder working civilian population with plenty of money to spend.

More than 1200 American meat packing houses and nearly 1000 sausage makers are bending into this gigantic task. Millions of patriotic livestock producers are working with them in "backing the attack."

PROTEINS ARE ESSENTIAL TO LIFE

All meat—beef, pork, lamb, veal, and sausage—contains complete, highest quality proteins.

All meat contains essential B vitamins (thiamine, riboflavin, niacin) and important minerals (iron, copper, phosphorus).

The human body does not store these nutritional essentials to any appreciable extent; you must get them from the daily food you eat.

Remember, the flavor of meat is not rationed. Even a little meat changes the character of the whole meal.

Supplement the proteins of meat with meat's "allies in protein"—poultry, fish, milk, eggs and cheese. Keep up on proteins.

YOUR GOVERNMENT ASKS YOU TO HELP—HERE'S HOW:

Produce Food—Let's not permit a square foot of good earth to go idle if it can produce something to eat. Start planning next year's Victory Garden now.

Conserve Food—20 to 30 per cent of America's food has been wasted every year. This waste in itself is more than enough to feed our armed forces. Eat every crumb, drink every drop, and, when it's time, can all you can.

Share Food—Through rationing, civilians are asked to guarantee that our fighters will have plenty. Rationing is Uncle Sam's way of saying, "Home folks, hold back—we need it for the boys."

Play Square with Food—Pledge yourself to accept no rationed foods without giving up ration stamps . . . and to pay no more than top legal prices. That way you can kill the Black Market in meat, butter and other rationed foods.

AMERICAN MEAT INSTITUTE. . . . Chicago

Leaders of the meat packing and sausage industries are assembled in Chicago this week for a wartime meeting to discuss critical food problems which confront the industry and the nation.

BOMBING BILL'S COMING HOME TO THAT SPAGHETTI

Bomicino Completes 300 Hours in Air.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 26 [By air mail].—First Lt. William Bomicino of the Jolly Roger bomber unit has completed 300 combat hours and is now automatically grounded and waiting to go home, which is 1248 Campbell avenue, Chicago. A record like his might as well beat him there:

Maj. Charles Gallup.

Lt. William Bomicino

"Bombing Bill" Bomicino, bombardier on a Liberator, Mission Belle, has completed 40 missions, made 12 night raids to Rabaul, five night and two daylight attacks on Wewak, and been on 12 single ship daylight reccos [reconnaissance missions].

He's been in four aerial scraps in which 10 Zeros were downed, and has been awarded the distinguished flying cross and oak leaf cluster, the air medal, and the Purple Heart. He flew his last combat mission Aug. 29—a daylight strike on Wewak.

Bomicino and one other officer, 1st Lt. J. G. Knowlton, Eugene, Ore., are the only officers left of the original crew.

Tosses Flare Out.

A Zero bullet hit a flare in the waist, setting the plane afire, but Staff Sgt. Don Crandall, Bloomfield, Ia., threw the flare out the window, saving the lives of the entire crew. He grabbed it barehanded, held it long enough to pry it loose from its rack, and has, quite naturally, been recommended for an award.

Bomicino wants some Chianti and a mess of his grandmother's spaghetti when he gets home. In fact he once made the mistake of saying: "The rest of the fellows can have the women; I'll take spaghetti." Turned out later he didn't mean it quite literally. Had quite a job explaining it to his girl.

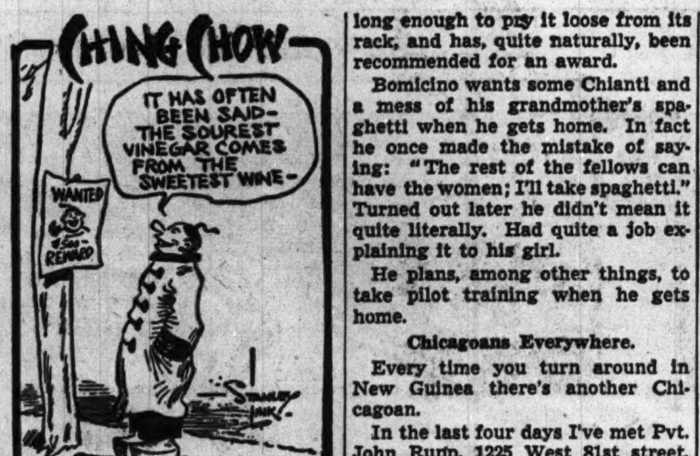
He plans, among other things, to take pilot training when he gets home.

Chicagoans Everywhere.

Every time you turn around in New Guinea there's another Chicagoan.

In the last four days I've met Pvt. John Rupp, 1225 West 81st street, who was doing K. P. at the moment and produced some lovely raisin pie; Pvt. Joseph Di Prima, 624 North St. Louis avenue, former manager of the Garfield Bears, a semi-pro football team; Corp. Donald Mason, 5053 Drexel avenue, Chicago actor, a nephew of Reuben Cahn, TRIBUNE editorial writer; Capt. Louis Cordogan, Aurora, Ill., co-pilot on a Fortress I rode on a couple of days ago; Pvt. Ralph Kohn, 4300 Ellis avenue, and Sgt. Tom Broderick, 1355 West 97th place, crew chief for a night fighter squadron. Broderick was chatting with a former school chum, 1st Lt. John J. Ratto, also of Chicago.

Maj. Charles Gallup, 2703 East 76th street, to keep our Chicago gossip up to date, has a new girl friend. She's Dalkeith Destiny, a 6 weeks' old wire haired terrier, who dropped in at the press hut tonight to pay her respects. She brought Chuck along, of course, since no lady would venture unaccompanied into a place like that.



'SICK' MILKMEN WARNED TO END STRIKE TODAY

Supply of 400,000 N. Y. Families Cut Off.

New York, Oct. 5 (AP).—Chairman William H. Davis of the war labor board tonight ordered thousands of milkmen who left 400,000 families in the metropolitan area without milk deliveries today to return to their jobs by 9 a. m. tomorrow or jeopardize their right to severance pay and other benefits.

Davis wired the International Teamsters' union [AFL] and its New York local from Washington that "continuance of the strike by members of your union at the Sheffield Farms and Borden plants is seriously endangering the health of the people of metropolitan New York."

The Ailment Diagnosed.

"This strike," the telegram said, "is in flagrant violation of labor's no-strike pledge. The national war labor board orders all strikers to return to their jobs immediately. Any failure to comply with this order by 9 a. m. or normal reporting hour thereafter, Oct. 6, puts in jeopardy all the benefits of the Ware decision."

Drivers and some other employes of the Sheffield Farms company and the Borden company had reported "sick."

The ailment was diagnosed by spokesmen for the two companies as dissatisfaction by members of a milk drivers' local of the Brotherhood of Teamsters with a recent WLB decision permitting a reduction in routemen and a continuation of skip-a-day deliveries.

Starting yesterday when 260 drivers for Sheffield reported ill, the work stoppage expanded until today there were 3,500 Sheffield men and an unestimated number of Borden employes absent.

Fenton Hibbits, president of the local, said union leaders were "unalterably opposed to the action."

Patrons Appear at Plants.

Men, women and children appeared at loading platforms of company milk plants to buy needed milk, carrying it off in vehicles ranging from baby carriages to push carts and taxicabs.

An overnight shipment of 600,000 quarts of raw milk was to be converted by Sheffield into byproducts to prevent spoilage, because the company reported many pasteurizers failed to appear for work. Officials said the supply of pasteurized milk might be exhausted today and might prevent future deliveries to hospitals and institutions, permitted by the union.

DR. FRANKLIN'S OFFER.

When the internationalists and Anglophile New Dealers began their campaign to force America into an alliance with Great Britain which would reduce this nation once again to colonial status, THE TRIBUNE offered the suggestion that such a union was possible and easily attainable on American terms.

These American terms are, simply, that any portion of the British empire which wishes to join with the United States can do so by petitioning our congress for statehood in our federal Union. This is the alternative to Union Now and the common citizenship proposed at Harvard university last month by Winston Churchill, and now by Leslie Hore-Belisha in London.

The idea of American statehood expanded beyond our continental boundaries was original, so far as we knew, and was greeted as a novelty by the many who commented on it. The foreign sympathizers within our government and the internationalists on our eastern seaboard would have none of it, and that was all right with us.

We have since learned that the idea was not a novel one. The plan of an American statehood that would embrace parts of the British empire desiring to join us is about as old as our national history. In 1775, Benjamin Franklin presented to the continental congress a set of articles of confederation and perpetual union that proposed expanded statehood.

This document, which Franklin biographers say was offered by him as an individual and not as a member of any committee, was the first sketch of a design for American confederation.

Article 13 of Franklin's plan reads: "Any and every colony from Great Britain upon the continent of North America, not at present engaged in our association, may, upon application and joining the said association, be received into the confederation, viz. Ireland, the West India Islands, Quebec, St. John's, Nova Scotia, Bermudas, and the East and West Floridas; and shall thereupon be entitled to all the advantages of our union, mutual assistance, and commerce."

Franklin's confederation was in opposition to Lord North's Union Now plan, which provided that the colonies return to the allegiance of the British empire. These are the only two alternatives that have yet been devised for a world union that could include the United States of America and the British empire. We are confident that they are the only two that can be devised.

Benjamin Franklin's confederation—the expansion of American statehood which THE TRIBUNE revived 167 years later—is the American patriot's plan. The Union Now federation, worked out by a Rhodes scholar and hailed by the royalty worshiping New Deal clique, is the modern edition of Lord North's plan. It is a Tory scneme.

Any one worthy of his American citizenship must insist that those who wish union with us can have it, on our terms.

THE SELFRIDGE FIELD VERDICTS.

The court martial proceedings at Selfridge field have at length been concluded with a finding of guilty against Master Sgt. Myron B. Collins. He was ordered dismissed from the service in dishonor for having accepted bribes and, in addition, was sentenced to 18 months at hard labor in a military prison.

Of the five defendants, all of whom were convicted, Sgt. Collins was the only one to be sentenced to a penitentiary term. The colonel commanding the field was not even dismissed from the service, but merely reduced in rank, altho it was proved that he had shot a soldier without provocation and had been drunk repeatedly. A lieutenant colonel, a major, and a warrant officer were let off with dismissal from the army. The testimony given by Sgt. Collins against the other men was an important link in the prosecution's chain of evidence against them.

No doubt the sergeant deserved what he got, even tho he had helped the prosecution. The question remains, however, why the others, and especially Col. Colman, were let off so lightly. We refuse to believe that the courts martial were holding the noncommissioned officer to a higher standard of conduct than was expected of commissioned officers nor that the courts, composed of officers, were determined to punish the sergeant for testifying against his superiors, but it is inevitable that just those interpretations will be placed upon the findings.

Accordingly, we believe that it is the duty of the war department to review these cases with more than ordinary care. Before finis is written on this record, it should be abundantly clear to all ranks in the army and to all citizens that military justice is no respecter of rank or person.

Certainly it is difficult to understand why an officer who got drunk and shot a soldier should be given a mere demotion while a sergeant, who was guilty of accepting a petty bribe, should suffer the disgrace of a dishonorable discharge and the added punishment of 18 months at hard labor. Not one man in a million, in or out of the army, regards the second offense as the graver.

POLICE IN POLITICS.

A new light on political organization in this community has been provided by the latest outbreak of murders in Chicago's gambling circles. Danny Stanton, public enemy and gambler, was slain. His successor in the south side racket field, Martin [Sonny Boy] Quirk, was shot to death in similar manner a few months later.

The state's attorney's office believes it has solved both of these murders. It has named one John Williams, operator of a south side gambling place, who is still being sought. Williams, it is now disclosed, is the son of Mrs. Ann Williams, Democratic committeewoman for the 13th ward and, until her discharge by Commissioner Allman, a policewoman on the city pay roll.

The police department insists that Policewoman Williams was assigned to the state's attorney's office, altho State's Atty. Courtney has denied this heatedly. Mrs. Williams had been a "temporary" policewoman since 1935, drawing a steady salary on the basis of 60 day appointments, regularly renewed.

Several facts stand out prominently in this case. No committeewoman or committeeman or other political machine cog should be given a job in the police department under any circumstances.

The Democratic political machine allowed Mrs. Williams to avoid civil service examination by giving her continuous employment thru the renewal of a "temporary" appointment to the police force, thereby showing up a serious flaw in police department regulations.

There is no reason to believe that Mrs. Williams was the only practical politician in the department. If there are any public spirited members in the city council they will see that the incident is not allowed to close here. A thoro investigation of political policemen is in order.

LOAN OR GIFT?

It was to be expected that the successor to Sumner Welles as undersecretary of state would be a man with a demonstrated talent for interpreting the foreign policy of the White House to the press, congress, and foreign diplomats. The appointment of Edward R. Stettinius, the lend-lease administrator, therefore came as a complete surprise, even to many insiders. As a result of a recent incident, he conspicuously did not meet the specifications.

Last August, while Mr. Roosevelt was in Montreal, Mr. Stettinius sent to congress a report on lend-lease operations over the President's signature. Stettinius had been given the authority to sign the President's name on lend-lease matters. In the letter of transmittal, the statement was made for the first time by a government authority that lend-lease was not intended to be lending and leasing, but giving.

The exact language used was as follows: "Congress in passing and extending the lend-lease act made it plain that the United States wants no new war debts to jeopardize the coming peace. Victory and a secure peace are the only coin in which we can be repaid."

This statement raised a furor from one end of the country to the other. Members of congress from their homes let it be known that they would call for a showdown as soon as the recess was over. They quoted the President's message of Jan. 6, 1941: "For what we send abroad we shall be repaid within a reasonable time following the close of hostilities, in similar materials or at our option, in other goods of many kinds, which they can produce and which we need."

Lend-lease shipments are now at the rate of over a billion and a quarter dollars a month. Even at the wartime rates now in effect, the income tax on individuals barely yields enough to pay for lend-lease. The total for lend-lease shipments since Aug. 31, 1941, now exceeds 15 billions of dollars, and will be up to 30 billions by the middle of next year. Now the President was saying in the report that the receivers of this would not have to pay, in accordance with the understanding.

The whirlwind of criticism forced the President to repudiate the statement which had been signed for him by Mr. Stettinius, altho in doing so he was saying that the man who was in charge of lend-lease and was making the arrangements with the foreign countries, had a mistaken notion about the nature of the transactions. The President issued an informal retraction and then sent a revised letter of transmittal with the objectionable sentences stricken out.

Mr. Stettinius, who didn't know the President's mind well enough to be his spokesman on lend-lease, the activity in which Mr. Stettinius has been exclusively engaged for some time, has been made undersecretary of state, an office in which he will speak for his country in matters in which he has had no first hand familiarity. The appointment makes sense only if by it the President wanted foreign countries to understand that he was repudiating his repudiation of Mr. Stettinius, and that lend-lease is a gift as far as they are concerned, altho it is not yet the time to tell the truth to the American people.

If we are never to be paid for the goods we are supplying under lend-lease let the President have the courage to say so frankly to the American people. It will certainly help the common man to understand the financial plight of the government when he is told that all of the money now collected from individuals as income tax is barely enough to pay for the goods supplied as gratuities to foreign governments but labeled lend-lease. Let Mr. Wallace tell about this in one of his talks to the common man.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 32.

1. There are how many colors in the flag of France? 2 3 4 5.
2. Slander is normally linked with which type of communication?
   Written Printed Oral Cartoon.
3. Which one of these substances will deteriorate the most in oil?
   Wool Silk Rubber Plastic.
4. Rope is usually produced from which one of these sources?
   Straw Wood Cotton Hemp.
5. Which one of these fruits has the smallest seed?
   Olive Plum Peach Nectarine.
6. Some diseases are caused by germs that are visible under the miscroscope, while others are produced by a virus that is so small it cannot be seen under our most powerful microscopes. You deserve one point for each correct judgment below in determining the cause of the five diseases listed.

ROADS FOR THE AGES.

The roads of ancient Rome have crept into the dispatches from Italy, since the military mind thinks in terms of transportation. So we find an item from headquarters to the effect that the British 8th army, moving up the Adriatic coast, has its strategic eye on Rimini, which marks the start of the Emilian way, "the historic path of conquerors." Incidentally, a little north of Rimini is the small stream called the Rubicon, where Julius Caesar threw dice with fortune.

The Emilian way, at Rimini, took over traffic from the Flaminian way, the Great North Road out of Rome. It ran northwestward across the valley of the Po toward the passes that led into Gaul. The course of these two highways, when traced on a map, indicates that the easiest route north, for ancient and modern Italy, is the longest way around. The legions marched toward Gaul as if they were playing a dog's leg hole in golf.

The Roman zeal for impressive and far-flung roadbeds to carry heavy wheeled traffic was never equaled in world history until the American passion for motorcar travel was born. Their roads, 14 feet wide and often three feet or more in thickness, formed a network that held the empire together. They ran in straight lines and conquered obstacles instead of curving around them. In many stretches over marshy country or along mountain sides they were like causeways. The surfacing was of hard stone in polygonal blocks.

These were roads for the ages, and portions of them have survived in lands that once thrived under the Pax Romana. England's Watling street, Ermine street, and Dere street, with which archaeologists are familiar, are old Roman roads, and since 1920 many miles of their courses have been restored to use, with new pavement, of course.

* * *

Rome's most mentioned road was the Appian way, which ran south to the rich city of Capua. That stretch was called "the queen of roads." It was eventually extended in a southeastern direction to Brundisium [Brindisi], the jumping-off port for the orient at the heel of the boot. The allied 5th army picked up the Appian way at Benevento.

THE RED-BROWN ROAD.

The red-brown road is distant far
From turbid city streets;
Upon its cool, sequestered aisles
No glaring noontide beats.
Begirt by slopes of pink and gold,
And arched by fronds of green,
It winds its way, then runs astray
To view the river's sheen.

It welcomes home the fretted soul
Of him who comes again
To find surcease from petty quests
Amid the hives of men.
The torture of a thousand cares
No more exists for him
Who wanders as a joyous boy
Beside the river's rim.

The red-brown road, the orchard lands,
The river, calm and free;
The daisy field of goodly gold,
The warblers' minstrelsy—
They bring lost voices back to earth,
They make us dream anew;
But ah! we lack the old-time grace
To make those dreams come true.

OCTOBER PHILOSOPHY.

With rationing rampant, perhaps it were wise
On unrationed rapture to rationalize:
No coupons are needed, no permits are due,
To take what October is offering you—
Bright scarlet of maple, deep purple of ash,
The blue of the bluejay who wings like a flash
Where saffron of hickory lightens the heath
With crimson of sumac spread richly beneath;
The azure of asters, the rubies of haw
Are yours without process of edict or law!
It's not patriotic, the thought that you mutter
About having biscuits without any butter,
But if you're recalcitrant, make no mistake—
I'd trade you October for one juicy steak!

The New Science of Leg Reading.

If you want to tell at a glance just what the relations between any young couple are, the following system never fails:

If she wears:

Nylon stockings, they are deeply in love with one another, or engaged, or he is the casting director in the new play she's trying to get a part in. [Tsk: Never end a sentence with a preposition!]

Rayon stockings, she thinks she might grow to like him in time, or her legs are cold, or she wants everybody to know, "See, I'm patriotic! I wear rayons!"

Liquid stockings, they are married.

THE OUTLOOK AFTER APOPLEXY.

BRITTLE arteries—particularly those within the brain—have a fashion of snapping under tension. Whenever the blood pressure is elevated even temporarily, a conduit may break—leading to apoplexy. The reason is clear. The escaping vital fluid produces pressure.

Symptoms usually come on suddenly. Despite efforts to identify early warnings and thus ward off a catastrophe, about all we can say is that whenever there is marked dizziness and irritability, associated with intense headaches, we may suspect slight oozing from some tiny capillary within the skull.

The actual rupture may be hastened by any form of exercise. Thus we caution our elderly friends not to attempt to lift or move heavy objects and not to strain at stool.

If the attack is mild, consciousness may be preserved. But if bleeding is extensive, coma may appear rapidly. As a rule, one side of the body is paralyzed. After calling a physician the patient should be put to bed with the head slightly elevated above the level of the body. If the accident occurs on the street or in the office, clothing about the neck should be loosened.

The temperature is generally below normal. This means that additional heat may be required, but care must be taken not to burn the skin because sensation may be lost. From time to time the sufferer should be turned from one side to the other in order to lessen the danger of blood stagnating in the lungs, with the development of pneumonia.

Naturally, no one should attempt to give food or beverages to an unconscious person—not even a drop of medicine. If the tongue has dropped backward in the throat, it will need to be drawn forward so that breathing will be easier. Ofttimes bleeding will prove helpful. This has the effect of lowering the pound within the arteries and thus reducing the force of the oozing within the skull. Unless the patient is anemic, a pint may be removed with advantage.

There is real value in administering strong sugar solutions in order to withdraw fluid from the brain. But this procedure must be left to the discretion of the attending physician. There is always a tendency to want to do something. With most of these victims, elimination will be involuntary and the best management is to let the patient alone, at least for the first 24 hours. Thereafter, supporting liquids may be given if the tissues become dry.

This plan does not apply if there has been an accident—with a collection of blood beneath the cranium. Here the release of the clot may be lifesaving.

If we provide skilled nursing and keep the patient warm, absorption may take place—followed by recovery. Much depends on the location of the "break," but it is not surprising that in many instances nature will absorb the exudate. While some residual paralysis may persist, the individual can carry on efficiently for years to come.

Does one brain hemorrhage mean another? Not necessarily. The condition which led to the first, however, must be recognized and treated. This calls for more rest, light meals, reduction in weight, and the usual management designed to combat advancing arterial disease.

CONFIDENT OLD AGE.

J. J. H. writes: My health, at 77, is superb due, I dare say, to good living habits and a mental attitude toward life that brooks no such thing as worry, come what may. Learning to swim at the age of 6, I have enjoyed that sport since, even now. "Now if you tell me to clean up this table," the architect said, indicating the circular coffee table littered with glasses and cups, "I can. I will make a clean sweep of this refuse and give you back your table shining and beautiful and ready to be used again. But if you say, 'Don't touch Cousin Nellie's glass,' or 'O, Uncle Willy's cup can't be moved!' or 'Aunt Hattie wants her saucer left right there,' my hands are tied. I can't do a thing. I'll end messing up the table more than it was when I started. That's the way with the United States and Great Britain and the AMG in all the countries we are moving into." . . . "Your Declaration of Independence is fine," the Irishman was saying. "So was 'The Rights of Man' and your Bill of Rights, but I have one right no one has ever put down in writing or pretended to fight for. It's my right to be wrong. I'm wrong, many times, and I admit it, but it's my right! The next Atlantic Charter some one draws up should include that." . . . "It's strange how every man thinks himself a liberal," the foreign correspondent was saying. "The definition of a liberal now should be any man with hate in his heart and a fountain pen in his hand." . . . "What I'd like to know," the girl said querulously, "is where all the empty towns are today and how I can get to one of them. There must be hundreds. Everywhere you go, the trains are full, the hotels are full, the restaurants are full, the cities are full, the towns are full. Why, America must be full of deserted villages, but where are they? That's where I'm going. Or," in pained afterthought, "do you suppose every one will go home after the war?" . . . "Probably not," her hostess replied. "Maybe Willkie is right. The world is shrinking, and all the empty towns have shrunk out of existence." . . . "The man who can clean up, and not even wait until the war is over to do it," the engineer from Alaska said reflectively, "is the man who can cross the silkworm with the loom—and a Power's model."

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 20.—Hello, Suckers: My garbage is picked up twice a week on schedule. We don't walk three blocks in order to retrieve our empty cans, nor do we have to shovel carelessly spilled garbage back into the cans. Street car conductors don't talk out the corner of their mouths, and once seated you get there and aren't compelled to take the car behind.

Our local taxes have been cut and were already proportionately lower than yours. Firemen and school teachers get the real folding stuff, and on time. If you're involved in an auto accident on the street you don't lay there bleeding to death until the pie wagon comes. As Mr. Garrett points out, this country has never been isolationist and never will be; but unless the policy of the last several years is changed by a congress which places the interest of the United States before that of any foreign country, we will find ourselves in the midst of "Union Now" or "One World" before we know it.

AMERICAN DIPLOMATIC GROUP IN DETENTION, Baden Baden, Germany, July 31.—We continue to remain in Baden Baden, comfortable enough and well treated by the Germans, but the time is beginning to seem long. It will be nine months next week since we left Vichy and the prospects of an early exchange do not appear to be good, from what I can learn.

It seems that proposals and counterproposals have been made, but Washington and Berlin, according to the last exchange of notes in July, do not seem to be able to agree and the matter is now at a deadlock. I don't know if there is anything to be done about it. I hope it doesn't last too long.

While the time seems monotonous I have been able to do a certain amount of writing, reviewing the last three or four years, so I hope the time has not been altogether lost.

My health has been excellent, and that of my wife also. We are able to follow events thru the German, some of the French, and up until recently some of the Italian newspapers. If it were not for restricted liberty our situation here in this lovely hotel on the edge of a park would be ideal with the present warm, summer weather.

RESCUE 4 YANKS PINNED 60 HOURS IN WARSHIP CELL

Water Floods Rooms on Sides and Above.

ALLIED HDQ., ALGIERS, Oct. 5 (AP).—Four American soldiers are alive today because of ingenuity and courage while trapped for 60 hours in a warship radio compartment surrounded by water after a bomb blew a huge gash in the ship's side.

The men had to stay in the cell, which was slowly filling with water, until the warship could reach drydock, where they were cut out.

They were R. J. Garmuchsky of Canton, O.; Joseph Costa of Fall River, Mass.; James F. Lowes of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Charles J. Clark Jr. of Covington, O.

Water poured into the compartments all around them and dripped thru the cracks in their safety door. The compartment over their heads also was flooded and all in it were killed.

One telephone line was working from their cell to the bridge. After many hours, men working on the bridge managed to pump air down to the trapped men.

Hear Ice Cubes Dropping.

Lowes, 19 years old, tried to read and sleep. Clark and Costa queried the bridge as to when they were going to get out. Costa, the only married man, worried about his wife, who is expecting a baby.

On deck the men worked at scheme after scheme to get food and water to the trapped men. First they tried dropping ice cubes down the ventilator.

"We could hear the cubes dropping, but they didn't come out," Garmuchsky said.

"They tried to pass down a wire. Then a rubber hose. But nothing worked. That's when I stumbled onto an idea."

Because the air was being pumped in, it was going up the vent in a strong current. Garmuchsky tied a piece of thread to some toilet paper and threw it into the vent. It sailed up to the deck. The thread then was used to pull down a large wire and finally a rubber hose thru which water was sent down.

Drill Holes to Compartment.

The crippled ship lurched slowly toward a port. Capt. Robert Cary had radioed ahead the plan of the cell, asking that a cofferdam be constructed so that the men could be brought out as soon as the ship arrived.

After 60 hours the ship reached port and the British rushed the cofferdam on board, while they tried to get the warship into drydock. Working in the cofferdam in a flooded marine compartment the men started drilling holes into the radio compartment.

The men were pulled out one by one and the next day all were back on duty. Recommendations have been made that all four be cited.

NAVY REPORTS CHICAGO SAILOR AMONG MISSING

WASTE IN WAR TOWN GOES UP ANOTHER $240,000

Indiana Houses to Be Moved to Ohio.

Another chapter of the story of how the federal government has wasted millions of dollars in the construction of unneeded housing at the Kingsbury ordnance plant near La Porte, Ind., was revealed yesterday when the national housing agency announced it will spend $240,000 to move 200 of the dwellings 250 miles to Clinton, O., where, the NHA said, they are "badly needed."

The houses, part of the 2,970 constructed within the last year at a cost of more than $13,000,000, are of the demountable type. They were set up as part of the complete new town of Kingsford Heights, whose operating cost to the government totals $97,840 a year and requires the services of 53 employes, said Congressman Robert A. Grant [R., South Bend], in whose district the project lies. This, he said, is more than the rent that will be collected in a year "if no more homes are rented." Fewer than 300 of the houses now are occupied.

Fewer than 10,000 Workers.

The project was planned after the war department estimated it would have 30,000 workers at the Kingsbury plant. There never have been half that many workers employed there, Grant said, and the NHA said they now number fewer than 10,000, altho it was recently announced that employment at the plant will be stepped up.

The town was scheduled to be completed a year ago, but work was not finished until last spring. The contractors said the war production board held up priorities on electrical wiring, pipe, and other materials.

Then employes of the plant had to be coaxed into renting the houses, at rates ranging from $31 a month for single bedroom units to $41 for those with four bedrooms. All the houses are stove heated, but otherwise are classed as modern.

William A. Divers, regional representative of the NHA, said 1,000 more of the Kingsford Heights units will be moved, probably to areas near other war plants in Indiana. The other 1,770 units at Kingsford Heights will remain there with the expectation that they will meet the "maximum possible demand" for accommodations at the plant.

Under Government Lease.

Divers admitted the cost of moving each house to Clinton would be $1,200, or half the average new cost of the homes. This, he said, includes taking them down, removing them and setting them up again and also the cost of installing utilities, sewer, and water facilities at the new site. If 1,000 other units are moved at the same figure, the total cost will be $1,440,000.

The land on which they are now located is under government lease and is to be returned to the farmers from whom it was rented, it was announced.

"Proposed contracts for the erection of a community theater, two additional school buildings [there is one now], a motion picture theater, three child care centers and additional store buildings [of which there are now two] have been suspended," the FHA announcement said.

A beautiful woman once told me take up the habit of two-act powdering...

She puts on her powder so that it covers the peaks and low points of her fine-grained skin. "How else can powder do the effective job of flattery it's supposed to," she said. First . . . pat, pat, pat powder generously over your make-up base . . . even over your closed eyes until you look be-floured. Then . . . whisk off the superfluous with a soft brush or cotton. This fills in the uneven surface of normal skins, gives the smooth finish that no dabbing or wiping can accomplish. Powder this way and powder clings and glows and stays smooth as a satin ribbon on your skin.

We have every well-known powder, including the right one for you, here at Marshall Field & Company, where face powders and the complexions they are made for are our business. Cosmetics—First Floor, North, State. Also Evanston, Oak Park, Lake Forest

An amount will be added to quoted prices of all our merchandise to cover additional expense due to the Illinois Retailers' Occupation Tax.

From top to bottom

Helena Rubinstein's Town & Country Face Powder is a mist-sheer, very adherent powder in two blends for dry or moist skins. $3.50

Dorothy Gray's Elation Powder is luxuriously sheer. It clings delicately and long to your make-up base . . . looks natural as the bloom on a peach. $3

Coty's Air Spun Powder is smooth, soft. Imperceptible, you think, until someone remarks, "Is it a new powder you're wearing, or is it an inner glow?" $1

Harriet Hubbard Ayer's Yu Face Powder is blended with scientific accuracy in textures and complexion shades to flatter every type of skin. $3

DuBarry's Face Powder is a light clinging powder. In shades to give skins a glowing-with-health look that stays for the day over your make-up base. $2

Alexandra de Markoff's Powder has gossamer lightness, amazing clinging qualities. It looks natural, lies smooth as satin on a foundation base. $1.75, $3

Elizabeth Arden's Illusion Face Powder is sifted many times through silk to insure uniformity of color and texture. It gives a natural silken finish. $1.75, $3

Frances Denney's Powder is subtly blended in 10 different shades, so that your complexion can be toned to any costume color you wish to wear. $1.50, $3

SYNOPSIS: Lady Hyacinth calls at the office of her husband, Peter Gloam, and demands money for a venture in shipping antiques to America. With her are her two cousins, Joanna Fripp and Cyril Brockett. Wren Dancey is Peter's secretary; Sam Molesey the bookkeeper, and Harold the office boy. The office has been bombed. Ronald, now Capt. Warre, calls to see his uncle. Sound of falling bricks is heard in the inner office where Lady Hyacinth and Peter are quarreling. After a loud thud Lady Hyacinth calls for help. Peter has suffered a stroke. Before he is buried and during a violent air raid, Lady Hyacinth arranges for removal of their furniture, by van, to a Dorset cottage. Parker, the cook, tries to tell Wren of the amazing things Lady Hyacinth has been doing, but, interrupted, she runs to an air raid shelter, and on the way is murdered. One of the van drivers, Mike Riley, is the next victim of foul play. A bomb has sent Lady Hyacinth to the hospital with a broken leg. She sends Wren to Dorset to look after the furniture. Wren is happy to be alone, but her rejoicing is cut short, for Joanna descends upon her. There are strange noises in the cottage, and the local constable warns Wren of a light showing, but on investigation she finds nothing. The body of the constable is found near a brush. Cyril, his arm in a sling, arrives with Lady Hyacinth's cat, as an excuse. Sam Molesey drives him down. Groucho, the cat, leads Wren and Cyril to a gruesome discovery—blood and a tuft of the constable's hair under Lady Hyacinth's antique bed. Cyril persuades Wren it would be unwise to disclose this piece of evidence, but tells her a service man's button was found in the constable's hand. Ronald arrives. He is sure Lady Hyacinth hid something she plans to dispose of illegally, and that Cyril and Joanna are after it, too.

INSTALMENT XV.

EARLY INTRUSION.

"Peter's books!" said Ronald. "What's happened to them, do you know?"

"They're here. Under Jo's bed. I—I took them, Ronald, and Sunday morning I just forgot to tell you what I'd done. It didn't seem safe to leave them in town. I had to bring them along and—and let you know," Wren swallowed. "It's your property I'm guarding," she blurted. "You see, I typed a copy of Peter's will."

"All right," she flashed. "Your aunt was talking thru her hat, and I'm fifty-seven varieties of fool. All the same, those books are worth money. Now you're here, will you take charge of them yourself?"

He promised, too solemnly for her liking, tho he meant it when he said, "Quite so, now you mention it those first editions may represent four-fifths of my negotiable assets when this war is over. The will hasn't been read."

His head slumped on his chest.

"Don't do it!" she cried brusquely. "O, Ronald, you can't sleep here!"

His head sought an easier niche in the bolster. "Have a heart," he yawned. "I'm dog tired. You can't expect me to sleep in a field?"

He did look done up. The one and only inn attainable without hours of dark driving was The Thistle, and that, Cyril had mentioned, was full up. . . .

"N-no, but look, Ronald, there's nothing but this sofa——"

"Don't worry, I'll be out of this by seven."

With a nonchalance that infuriated, Ronald had fallen asleep!

Seven silver chimes issued from the Louis Seize clock. At the third, Wren jumped and stared at the Regency sofa. Ronald had gone.

At eight sharp Wren was shaking Joanna; and Joanna simply refused to rouse.

Something weird about this. For a ghastly second it almost seemed Joanna was . . . but no, her flesh was quite warm. Wren shook more frantically.

"Three policemen want to talk to us. Drink your tea, get on some clothes."

"Policemen! What about?" A yellow gleam leaped in her eyes.

Tissue paper—twisted lengths of it—lay untidily on the floor. One bit was poking out from the lid of a carved Italian chest which to a certainty had been locked the previous day. . . .

In the hall, a lean soldierly man—it was Maj. Godstone, chief constable—left off his admiration of the big Venetian glass.

"That's rather fine, Miss Dancey. Bit risky just here, but you'll be getting it hung up, I daresay?"

Apologizing for the early intrusion, the chief constable explained that he was merely deputizing for the superintendent and must be back in Dorchester by 10.

The two detectives were standing awkwardly just where Wren had left them, midway the living room—Inspector Enticott, rubicund and unalarming, Sgt. Peters gnarled and nutcrackerish, with grizzled hair and a saturnine eye. Wren felt two-thirds comfortable when her swift glance had assured her Ronald had left no betraying evidence behind.

"So you took possession on Wednesday," Maj. Godstone began. "In company with your friend?"

"No, Miss Fripp arrived next evening."

"O, you had your first night alone! Your cottage, I take it?"

"O, not mine! Its been taken by Lady Hyacinth Gloam, chiefly to store certain belongings out of London. She was coming herself, but in last Saturday's big raid she broke her leg."

The chief constable's eye sharpened. "Did you say Lady Hyacinth Gloam?" With a glance at the inspector he continued. "But surely she's Lord Berhaven's sister?"

"Miss Fripp is Lady Hyacinth's cousin. I'm only Mr. Gloam's secretary—or I was."

"Quite so," the chief constable murmured. "I understand, Miss Dancey, that you and Miss Fripp came in for rather a nasty incident yesterday morning. That so?"

Wren's shudder was real. "The corpse, you mean? Yes, and then Water Diviner threw a fit."

"Epilepsy. Just so. Swayne's field, of course, lies some distance from your house. In fact,"—Maj. Godstone rose—"our sole excuse for bothering you at all lies in the assumption, by no means established, that Constable Podder's last action concerned itself with a prowl round this cottage."

"No disturbances during these three nights?"

"Disturbances? O, none at all!" Lights in the cottage. Sooner or later they'd be bound to hear about them. More petrifying, what if Ronald's rigamarole was true, and the dim vigilant figure under the lime-tree had been one of these very detectives taking secret toll of the cottage?

"And Mr. Brockett, who rang Dorchester," resumed the chief constable chattily, "has brought down Lady Hyacinth's cat."

"We've got all that," the inspector grunted. "Two London gentlemen reached Larchwood Thursday late, put up at the Thistle——"

From outer regions a child piped excitedly, "Mum, Mum, there be the cat! Same wot give our Tobey bad eye."

"Juggins!" came Mrs. Swayne's scoffing murmur. "Wednesday morning that wurr. This cat beant here."

"But Mum, I seed him! 'Tis same funny collar, blue tag——"

"Be shut, ee!"

A light cuff sounded as the door widened and Groucho swept disdainfully into the room. Queer prickles along her spine, Wren noted the slight gathering frown on the inspector's red brow. But had any one but herself registered the curious interchange between the daily helper and her 5 year old son? Maj. Godstone merely cast an animal lover's eye on Lady Hyacinth's pet.

"Odd creatures, cats. My wife has a Siamese . . . Quite right, inspector, we must be moving along. I really see little object in questioning Miss Dancey's friend——"

"Not," the inspector conceded, "if this young lady can furnish us with the owner's address."

Children's Benefit Tag Day Yield Put at $90,000

Receipts from the 36th annual tag day Monday of the Chicago Children's benefit league will total nearly $90,000 when returns from all 50 charities have been reported, Mrs. Harry Starkey, league president, said yesterday. This figure compares with $68,793 raised on the league's tag day last year.

UNNEEDED TAX BOOST ASSAILED BY LEGISLATORS

Rep. Dewey Wants Levy Limited to War Cost.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—Steeper income tax rates merely to siphon excess savings from the American public were assailed tonight by Rep. Charles S. Dewey [R., Ill.]. He spoke on the American Forum of the Air in a discussion of the treasury department's program calling for 10½ billion dollars additional revenue next year. The program was broadcast by the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Dewey urged increases in tax rates be limited to what is actually needed to help finance the war. Contending that American industry and families will need nest eggs to finance post-war adjustments, Dewey cautioned against squeezing taxpayers.

Criticizes Morgenthau View.

He criticized Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. for insisting the 10½ billion dollars in extra revenue must be extracted from taxpayers next year regardless of the actual need for the funds, disregarding the possibility of cutting government expenses.

Dewey also urged that corporation income tax law be revised to permit American enterprises to set aside adequate reserve funds for conversion to peace time operations.

Dewey said he doubted the treasury department's fears the American people will go on a spending spree using their excess savings. He noted the public now has liquid funds totaling 64 billion dollars consisting of 21 billions in E, F, and G war bonds, 27 billions in deposits in individual savings accounts, and 16 billions in cash.

"If the American people were intent on a spending spree, the power to spend is now in their hands," he said.

Urges Slash in Spending.

Support for curtailing government spending came also from Rep. Frank Carlson [R., Kas.], who recalled that the Byrd committee recently reported that 300,000 federal employes could be pruned from the federal pay roll without impairing the war.

Rep. Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.] favored easing of the tax rates on the lower income groups by repealing the victory tax, raising the credit for dependents to $400, levying stiffer taxes on luxury purchases, and lowering exemptions and raising rates of estate and inheritance taxes.

Rep. Thad F. Wasielewski [D., Wis.] criticized the treasury for complicating the tax structure with the new proposals for post-war tax refund and insurance plans.

URGES ECONOMY TO CUT NEW TAX DEMAND BY 40%

Taber Joins Savings to Sales Levy.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 [Special].—A plan for cutting 40 per cent from the administration's 10½ billion dollar new tax goal "by a reasonable degree of economy in government spending" was proposed today by Rep. John Taber [R., N. Y.], ranking Republican member of the house appropriations committee.

Taber's plan, which called for cutting contemplated expenditures in the next fiscal year by $8,438,000,000 and allowing for a 4 billion dollar increase in army expenditures, was regarded as spearheading a Republican drive to emphasize economy in writing any new tax legislation.

Also for Sales Tax.

Taber also proposed a sales tax as part of a substitute program and a suggestion for a 10 per cent sales tax to raise 6 billion dollars was laid before the house ways and means committee by M. L. Seidman, chairman of the taxation committee of the New York board of trade. This committee yesterday gave a chilly reception to the treasury program, which featured greatly increased income taxes and other levies.

Discussing the tax situation at a press conference, Taber said the United States is now spending more money in the war effort than Britain, Russia, Germany and Japan combined, adding "the time has come for congress to stop, look and listen if we are to avoid national bankruptcy and economic chaos."

Lists Possible Savings.

Taber said on the record of the first three months of the current fiscal year it appears the government will spend only 90 billion dollars, 16 billion dollars below the estimate made by President Roosevelt in his budget message. The administration could, if it wished to, reduce expenditures for the next fiscal year without difficulty, he stated.

Possible savings were listed by Taber as follows: navy yards and docks, barracks and training camps, $1,500,000,000; public works such as docks, shops, drydocks, $1,500,000,000; army expediting production [building factories] $1,500,000,000; engineer service, $500,000,000; military construction, $500,000,000; military posts, $500,000,000.

Also housing agency, $150,000,000; community facilities, $75,000,000; board of economic warfare, $20,000,000; office of price administration, $25,000,000; office of civilian defense, $13,000,000; office of war information, $15,000,000.

Net Savings Over 4 Billions.

In addition war shipping board revolving fund, $2,000,000,000; labor and federal security [miscellaneous items] $50,000,000; interior department, $25,000,000; conservation and use of agricultural lands [triple A payments] $25,000,000; crop production loans, $40,000,000.

Taber said his itemization of possible reductions totals $8,438,000,000, and that this would leave a net saving of $4,438,000,000 in spite of anticipated army expenditures of 4 billion dollars during the fiscal year.

Seidman told the ways and means committee that "if ever a federal sales tax is justified, now is the time." He said such a tax could be collected as painlessly as any tax can be collected and proposed to couple it with a tax incentive plan for bond buying' as a means of siphoning off excess earnings which he described as an increasing stimulant to inflation.

Would Place Time Limit.

Some committee sentiment for a sales tax was indicated by questions put to Seidman by members. Rep. A. W. Robertson [D., Va.] inquired if most opposition to a sales tax did not stem from fear such a tax would be continued after the war once the government learned how easy it was. Seidman admitted this possibility and said a sales tax should be limited to the duration.

Heaven knows, we've tried...

For years we battered on your doors, beat on your desks, bent your ears...and sent our best salesmen around with our best story.

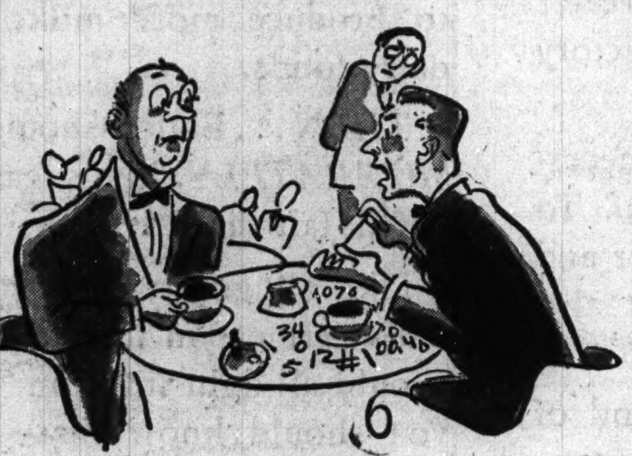
No missionary in the field afar ever showed more persistence in dissipating the myths about Philadelphia...the city whose past is better known than its present!

We tried to tell the man who was never there, but learned all about it in his little red history book...that Philadelphia was a major market place and not a museum piece.

To alien minds which conceived the principal occupation of the inhabitants as guiding visitors through Independence Hall, we brought the facts of life from the U. S. Department of Commerce ...viz. that Philadelphia is one of the largest industrial and commercial centers of the world.

We proved that though a place has tradition, people live in today; and while Philadelphians are loyal in their leanings, they catch on fast.

Despite our sustained efforts many national advertisers never lost the Historical Idea about Philadelphia...or realized that the best medium of twenty years ago might not be the best now.



We never thought we'd see the day that we had to say "No" to nice fresh advertising from good firms which pay their bills on time...

But to that choice and sequestered category of beefsteak, baked beans and the other items that call for ration stamps—newsprint and newspaper space come closer every day.

All newspapers are on short rations; and despite the unprecedented demand for its columns, The Inquirer cannot claim exception.

This newspaper in 1942 carried its highest volume of advertising—more than 18,000,000 lines; and had the largest advertising gain of any newspaper in America—1,280,000 lines.

With smaller papers, but much larger demand, The Inquirer in the first eight months of this year carried 13,800,000 lines—gained 2,500,000!

While some national advertisers outside were unaware of what went on in Philadelphia newspapers—Philadelphia advertisers were not. Retail advertisers and department stores have been stepping up their expenditures in The Inquirer every year for the past seven years.

So now we have been forced to limit classified, restrict retail advertisers to a pro-rata of last year's space, and ration national advertising.

And for the national advertiser who sends us schedules today, all we can promise is to use the shoehorn, and do the best we can. The linage at the moment is of little concern to us...but we do not want to deprive national advertisers of the opportunity of getting acquainted with the best families in Philadelphia. By best families, we mean the people who have the most money, spend the most money, make The Inquirer the most productive medium in Philadelphia.

When newsprint is no longer short, and the Philadelphia market and The Inquirer are again open to everybody...we hope that more national advertisers will be aware of what they have missed in both the market and the medium—and take steps to repair the omissions!

TRIP TO DELIVER GOLD TO NAZIS IS TOLD AT TRIAL

Federal Agent Testifies Against 3 Suspects.

Harry A. Schaetzel, a United States secret service agent, related from the witness stand in federal District court yesterday, how, posing as a western miner, he made a trip to New York purportedly to sell gold to Nazi agents from a submarine offshore. Schaetzel testified that payment for the gold was to be made in old size American currency shipped to this country from Germany by submarine.

The man who escorted Schaetzel to New York, Elbridge Gerry Bates, 42 years old, of 571 Hill avenue, Glen Ellyn, a sales representative for an electrical supply firm, and two others are on trial before a jury of six men and six women on charges of conspiring to violate the trading with the enemy act.

The two other defendants are Frank S. Smith, 51, owner of the Perfection Furniture company, 2267 Clybourn avenue, and a rare coin dealer, and Kurt Erich Schimkus, 37, of 14139 South Western avenue, Blue Island, a research chemist.

Schaetzel, posing as Harry A. Dexheimer, a miner, met Bates in the La Salle hotel Oct. 20, 1942, thru a Myron Landau, a mutual acquaintance, he testified.

Bates told him, Schaetzel said, that he was in contact with a man named Kobelt in the east, who already had sold German agents $83,000 worth of gold.

Kobelt, he said, had contacts with agents from a German submarine off the Massachusetts coast.

Bates agreed to meet him later, Schaetzel testified, and Schaetzel then notified the Chicago office of the federal bureau of investigation, which assigned a man to the case.

On Nov. 1, 1942, Bates, Schaetzel, and Landau made a trip to New York. Bates warned his companions of the necessity for care, Schaetzel testified, saying:

"If we are caught, it is very serious. We could be tried like those saboteurs in Washington and executed."

In New York, something went wrong with the plans, and the three returned to Chicago.

Later, when Schaetzel insisted on being placed in direct contact with some of Kobelt's agents, he was sent to a designated telephone booth in the North Western railway station to await a telephone call with the code words "This is it." Schaetzel said he received the call, and believes it was from Schimkus.

2 FAMOUS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRAS TO OPEN SERIES THIS WEEK

Two world famous symphony orchestras are scheduled to open weekly broadcast series this weekend on the Blue and Mutual networks. The Boston Symphony, under the direction of Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, will be heard Saturday from 7:15 to 8:15 p. m. over WCFL, and the Cleveland Symphony, conducted by Eric Leinsdorf, will make its bow on W-G-N and Mutual from 8 to 9 p. m. Sunday.

Bob Burns, the Arkansas Traveler, resumes his NBC series tomorrow night. . . . Capt. Norman Ross, former Chicago announcer, is teaching classes on safety in flying at the army air forces safety division, Winston-Salem, N. C.

GAS TRUCK SETS TROLLEY AFIRE; 30 ESCAPE BLAZE

Thirty persons who remained calm in the face of possible disaster escaped injury last night when a westbound 63d street trolley car on which they were riding was set afire in a collision with a motor truck and trailer near Prairie avenue. The damage was estimated at $30,000. The truck was demolished.

Explosion of gasoline in the tank of the truck enveloped the truck and trailer and the street car in flames. The passengers, several of whom suffered from shock, emerged thru the rear entrance of the car without disorder. One, Miss Raye Noven, 19 years old, 5434 Ingleside avenue, a student at Englewood High school, was treated at Woodlawn hospital.

Michael Scanlon, 36, of 7256 South Honore street, the motorman, told police that the truck sidewiped the street car. The driver, Floyd Gettig, 42, of Benton Harbor, Mich., was charged with reckless driving. Gettig and James Meyers, 1615 South Avers avenue, who also was riding in the cab of the truck, were not hurt.

5,000,000 DAIRY FARMERS TELL YOU

HOW TO GET MORE BUTTER

You want more butter. Everybody wants more butter. But raising the point value DOES NOT CREATE a single pound of butter. You can't afford the butter you need at 16 points for every pound. The only way you can afford to have more butter is to reduce the point value and that takes production... IMMEDIATE production... GREATER production.

For too long, this country has been trying to operate under a food policy of "Sharing the Scarcity." From hard experience we know now that this war takes greater and greater production of the things needed for Victory —number one is food!

To get ships, planes and tanks it is necessary to provide men, money and material. To produce more milk from which butter and other dairy products are made—that also takes men, money and material.

The new 16-point value on a pound of butter is not the answer. This merely stops consumption. It deprives you of butter.

But you don't need to go butter hungry. Point values on butter can be reduced through greater production—provided this nation takes action to get these things done now!

1. ADJUST DAIRY PRODUCTS PRICES—Today it pays a farmer more to put his effort into raising other crops than producing milk. The farm price for milk production needs to be raised in relation to prices on other farm products so that farmers can afford to produce the milk needed for more butter, cheese, fluid and evaporated milk and ice cream.

2. PROVIDE MANPOWER—Make it possible for the dairy farmer to get and keep labor on his farm.

3. RELEASE MORE DAIRY EQUIPMENT NOW. Dairy farmers must have quick delivery of milking and farm equipment—and replacement parts. News stories promising equipment in the future do not solve the problem this winter.

Yes, it does take Men, Money and Machinery to produce more milk, butter and other dairy foods.

THEN... Butter should be RATIONED SEPARATELY, like sugar. So everyone can get his fair share of the butter that is available.

Like all good Americans, the 5,000,000 dairy farmers in this country agree that we should all fight inflation. But in all fairness you should know that—TODAY DAIRY FOODS ARE COSTING AMERICA THE SMALLEST PERCENTAGE OF OUR WAGES IN THE LAST QUARTER CENTURY.

We are a fortunate people. We Americans have more food than any other nation, but we still need greater food production to take care of our total needs.

Yes, the answer to the question HOW TO GET MORE BUTTER is to reduce the point value by making it possible for the dairy farmer to produce more milk, butter and other dairy foods.

U. S. INDICTS 27 AS SUPPORTERS OF NAZI LEAGUE

Four Members Arrested in Chicago.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 5 (AP).—A federal grand jury today returned an indictment charging the German-American Vocational League, Inc., one subsidiary and 27 officers and members with illegally conspiring to act as Nazi agents without proper notification to the United States government.

The German-American Vocational league, also known as D. A. B. [Deutsch-Amerikanische Bernfogemein-Schaft] and described as directly affiliated with the German labor front, has headquarters in New York and branches in Rochester, Newark, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Kansas City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Seattle.

Subsidiary Operated Camp.

The subsidiary is the D. A. B. Recreational Resort, Inc., a New York corporation, which operated Camp Bergwald at Pompton Lakes, N. Y.

The indictment charged that the league, under direction of the German reich government, "served the interests of the same by making use of its local chapters for the purpose of spreading and disseminating the propaganda issued by the government of the German reich."

The principal objective of this propaganda, the government charged, was to obtain acceptance of national socialism in the United States and to prevent American participation in the war.

Linked to Nazi Party.

The indictment set out alleged relationship between the league and the National Socialist workers [Nazi] party in Germany from January, 1933, to January, 1942, the period of the alleged conspiracy.

The defendants were accused of conspiring to violate the notification act of June, 1917, by acting as agents of a foreign government without prior notice to the secretary of state and with violating the foreign agents registration act by failing to register properly with the department of justice.

Penalties provided under the conspiracy statute are imprisonment for not more than two years or a fine of not to exceed $10,000, or both.

The justice department said that three of the individuals named in the indictment were in Germany and 24 in the United States. Of those in this country, one was in the army, one in jail, two interned, three excluded from the west coast by the army and 17 at liberty.

Four Chicagoans Indicted.

Among those indicted were four Chicagoans. They are:

Otto Greiner, 44, national deputy in charge of the middle west district, who was arrested at 55 East Washington street, Chicago, where he is employed making artificial eyes. He resides at 7824 North Karlov avenue, Skokie. He came to the United States from Germany in 1924 and was naturalized in 1942.

Gustav Schmidt 50, 2233 Leland avenue, Chicago, member of the national board of directors, and a district leader in the middle west. Schmidt was arrested in a Sears Roebuck store at 63d and Halsted streets in Chicago where he was manager of the linen department. He has been a naturalized citizen since 1930.

Hans Nissen, 37, 1464 Catalpa avenue, Chicago, formerly president and treasurer of the Chicago branch of the league. Nissen was born in Kiel, Germany, came to the United States in 1923 and was naturalized in 1933. He is employed by the Bowman Dairy company.

Emil Roedel, 65, 4145 Broadway, Chicago, formerly secretary to the German consul at Los Angeles, Cal., and recently excluded by the army from the western defense area. He came to this country in 1904.

All four Chicagoans were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on warrants asking their removal to Newark. Bonds for each was set at $5,000 and the hearing continued until Thursday.

Among others named in the indictments are:

Fritz Schroeder, New York, national leader of D. A. B. and president of Recreational Resort, Inc.

Joseph Lieblein, New York, vice president, treasurer and youth leader of D. A. B., who, the justice department said, recently was inducted into the army and stationed at Camp Ripley, Minn.

Emil Socha, New York, editor of the D. A. B. magazine, Der Deutsche Nord-Amerika.

Theodore Koehn, New York, editor of the D. A B. magazine, In Retrospect.

Albert Keisler, member of the national board of directors and formerly of New York where, the justice department said, he was barred from the eastern defense command, now living in Detroit.

Karl T. Marx, New York, contributor to D. A. B. publications.

Herman Warth, Guttenburg, N. J., member of the national board of directors.

Albert Robert Bertram, New York, D. A. B. national secretary.

DICK TRACY

COURTNEY MAPS GAMING REALM TO GRAND JURY

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Grand jurors were listening yesterday to State's Atty. Courtney's outline of a proposed investigation of the gang dominated gambling racket in Chicago. Meanwhile, ex-gamblers were walking Randolph street and complaining that all the handbooks were closed. Strolling politicians were saying they hoped Courtney's move meant the end of the Guzik syndicate, which they said is composed of former bootleggers and former brothel keepers.

Courtney's activities were twofold: Exposing the gambling syndicate's operations and following thru on confessions concerning the murders of Danny [Public Enemy] Stanton and Martin [Sonny Boy] Quirk, gambling bosses for the Guzik syndicate. James Fawcett, alias Forsyth, a professional gunman and killer, and John J. Williams, owner of a string of gambling houses near 63d street and Kedzie avenue, were named as principals in the murder of Quirk.

Courtney and his first assistant, Wilbert F. Crowley, spent two hours in the grand jury room. It was understood they told the jurors about the raid on the Dome, a large casino operated by Guzik at 7466 Irving Park road until Sept. 8, and about the confessions of James Egan and Anthony De Lordo.

Courtney's raid on the Dome touched off an explosion that resulted in the indictment of Lt. Myles McDonough and Policeman Philip Schwartz of the sheriff's staff.

Lid Blown Off Gambling.

The arrest of Egan and De Lordo furnished the material for this grand jury's efforts. They said Quirk, who had killed Stanton to acquire Stanton's 34 protected handbooks, was killed in a plot engineered by Williams and Fawcett.

The first gambling witness to appear before the grand jury impaneled Monday was Joe Cutter, said to have been an employe of Williams.

Gangsters Take Over.

The gamblers have a knowledge of conditions the grand jury may find enlightening. The Scarface Al Capone crowd, at the end of prohibition, turned to kidnaping and syndicated gambling.

Until that time, the Randolph street moaners declared, politicians, such as ward committeemen and aldermen, had the last word as to who could operate gambling houses, and where. But under Capone—then Nitti, and more recently under Jack Guzik, the pander—the politicians, by their own word, have been subordinated to the "syndicate."

Raid Operations Gather Speed.

Courtney's police raided several of Williams' dens Monday night, seizing a roulette wheel, several slot machines, and an empty safe. Summerdale police seized three slot machines in the Chicago Town and Tennis club at 1925 Thome avenue without arrests. On Monday they took two slot machines from the Rodman Social club, 4923 North Damen avenue.

Willow Springs county highway police seized two slot machines at the Hickory Hill Country club, 8201 West 95th street, in Palos township, and arrested George Vaughn yesterday. They also seized machines in Cicero, at 1413 South 49th court, arresting Albert Bragis; at 2145 South 52d avenue, where Sam Palivan was arrested ,and at 5147 West Cermak road, where Gus Jarvis was arrested. All prisoners were released on $100 bond each for appearance Thursday in Willow Springs county highway police court.

AFL CONSIDERS RULE ALLOWING AUDIT OF UNIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—A proposal of the Brotherhood of Teamsters to vest top officials of the American Federation of Labor with power to audit the books of affiliated unions became an outstanding issue today at the federation's 63d annual convention, in session here.

The resolution, which, if passed, would effect a radical change in the federation's nature, was referred to the committee on laws, of which Daniel J. Tobin, teamsters international president, is chairman. The AFL at present is a confederation of autonomous unions which manage their own affairs without interference and pay a per capita tax of 2 cents a month as a token of affiliation.

The convention program today included the reading of a message from President Roosevelt and addresses by Secretary of Labor Francês Perkins and Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board. The President's message, which was read by George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer, expressed gratification for the "splendid task" done by American wage earners.

St. Luke's 17th Fashion Show Today Sell-Out

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH the 17th annual St. Luke's Fashion show about to be run off this afternoon and tonight in Orchestra hall, the committee finds itself in the unusual position of having promised to have an even larger show next year. Four new shops are exhibiting this year, bringing the total to 35, and there will be 121 models, about 20 more than usual. At that, the committee was obliged to refuse requests for additional models, as the performance will run about 2½ hours as it is.

Good news from the practical point of view—and the committee is practical as can be where finances are concerned—is that the auditorium is a sell-out. Any one unable to use his tickets is urged to return them today to Orchestra hall for resale. If there is sufficient demand, the first two rows of seats in the balcony may be sold, tho the view is not all it should be from that point. Blocks of seats at either side of the runway are being sold as boxes, as are the seats at the far sides of the theater, in addition to the regular boxes. All other seats are unreserved, so it will be a case of first come first served in the scramble for places.

This show will be the first the honorary chairman, Mrs. John W. Gary, has missed. She will be absent because of illness. Mrs. Walter B. Wolf is the general chairman. The list of boxholders reads like a Chicago Who's Who, with Armours, Ryersons, Cudahys, Swifts, Hibbards, Borlands, and Stevensons prominent on it. The feature of the show will be an exhibit of dresses made of newspaper designed by fashion editors of Chicago newspapers. Mrs. Morris R. Eddy, whose mother-in-law, Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, has been a member of the fashion show committees for many years, will model THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

A number of young women who serve as nurses' aids at the hospital and a group of debutantes and post-debs will sell programs. The afternoon performance will start at 2:30 and tonight's at 8 p. m. The evening performance will be informal, so that the audience may come straight from war jobs to the auditorium. Dinner parties will be early affairs by request, as the performance will start promptly.

Engagement.

From her home in San Diego, Cal., Mrs. Armistead B. Carter has sent word of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ellen Webb Boyden, to Lt. Clemens Roscoe Mong Jr. of the marine air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mong of Neodeshe, Kas. Miss Boyden, who always is called Webb, is a daughter of William C. Boyden and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter of Chicago. She and her fiancé were here a week ago, visiting the Carpenters and Mr. Boyden.

Miss Boyden attended the Francis Parker school in San Diego, Cal., and the Girls' Latin school here and has completed one year at Stanford university. Lt. Mong is a graduate of the University of Kansas. He is stationed at Camp Kearney, Cal. Miss Boyden has an older sister, Mrs. Stephen M. Kew, who, with Lt. Kew and their baby, lives near his army camp in Texas.

Weddings.

After 72 days of travel on an American freighter by way of the Persian gulf and Montevideo, Miss Helen Alice La Fontaine has arrived from Turkey to be married to Hubert Norman Pullar, British vice consul stationed in Chicago. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow in St. James' church. Since neither Miss La Fontaine's nor Mr. Pullar's families are in this country, the British consul general and Mrs. Wilfred H. Gallienne are giving a small reception after the ceremony in their apartment. Mr. Gallienne is giving the bride away, and Mrs. Gallienne herself is baking the wedding cake.

Mr. Pullar, a native of Bridge of Allan, Scotland, met his fiancee in the British consulate general at Istanbul, Turkey, where she had

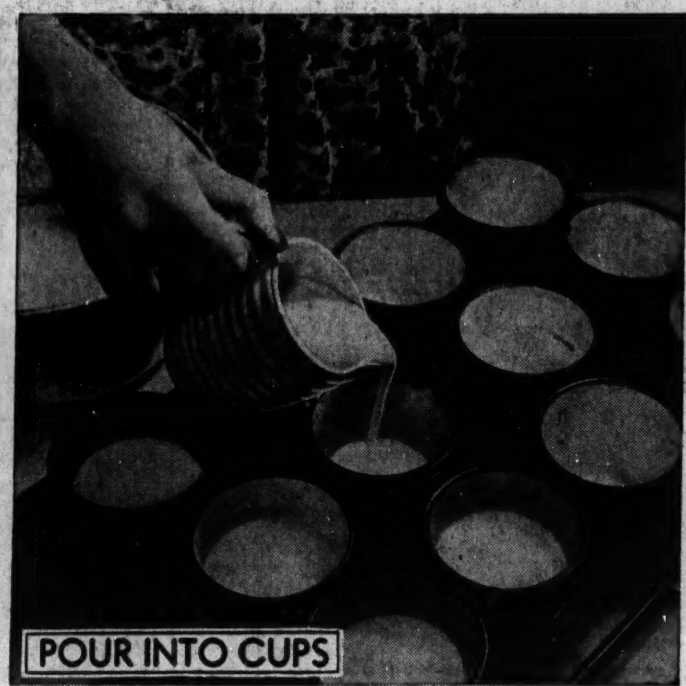
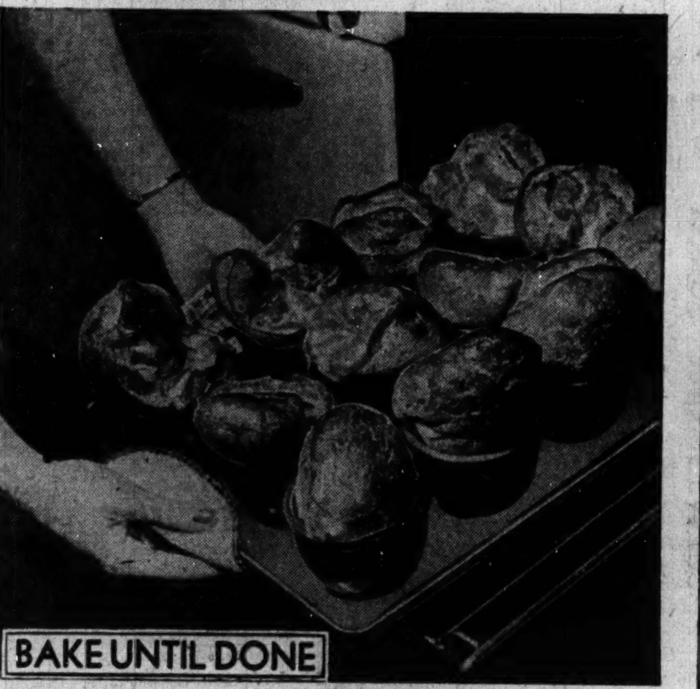
Mary Meade Shows How to Make Delicious Popovers

1. Beat 2 eggs until light. Add 1 cup milk. Add 1 cup flour sifted with ¼ teaspoon salt, beating constantly. Add 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine.



2. Pour batter into preheated, greased popover pans or custard cups like these pictured. Cups should be placed on a cookie sheet.



3. Bake 25 minutes in a hot oven, 450 degrees. Reduce temperature to moderate, 350 degrees, so that the popovers may dry out, 15 minutes longer.

4. Remove from pans at once. If popovers are baked ahead of time, or if some are left over, reheat them in a paper bag in a hot oven.

Casserole of lamb with vegetables: Use 2 pounds lamb shoulder, cut in cubes. Dredge the meat with flour and brown well in hot fat. Season with salt and pepper and place in a casserole. Over the meat arrange onions, sliced potatoes, carrots, and cooked string beans. To the fat left in the pan add 4 tablespoons flour and stir until blended. Add two cups stock or bouillon and let cook until thickened. Add 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Pour this gravy over meat and vegetables and cook, covered, in a moderate oven until both meat and vegetables are tender, about 40 minutes.

Lieutenant Governor Asks New Aid from 'Kitchen Tin Mines'

Lt. Gov. Hugh W. Cross has asked Illinois housewives to salvage at least twice the number of tin cans now being collected. This request is concurrent with the intensified nation-wide appeal to obtain more than 400 million cans per month.

"Since the war began, tin cans have become an increasingly important factor in the production of two of our most vitally needed metals—pure tin and high grade steel scrap," the lieutenant governor said. "Every woman should remember that the only tin mine that America possesses is in her kitchens. The largest source of raw tin is in enemy hands."

Mrs. Roosevelt and Royalty Aid Art Show

BY ROY GIBBONS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—Royal coronets and an aggregation of social register fortunes sufficiently sizable, experts estimate, to take care of a good share of America's 1944 income tax payments will be represented here tomorrow evening at an ultra fashionable art preview being held under the joint patronage of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands.

The blue blooded turnout is sponsoring an exhibit called "The Art and Life of Vincent Van Gogh," a Dutch painter who cut off one of his ears and later committed suicide on July 29, 1890, by shooting himself. Proceeds from the affair, to which the advertised admission is "$5, tax included," will go to the benefit of the American and Dutch war relief, an announcement states.

The sponsoring committee includes the names of 54 women constituting the cream of top flight society in this country.

Prominent as one of the backers is Madame Jacques Balsan, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, whose marriage to Charles Richard John Spencer-Churchill, the ninth duke of Marlborough, on Nov. 6, 1895, was one of the social sensations of the last century.

She divorced the duke in 1921 and later secured a papal annulment of her wedding on Aug. 19, 1926. Her present husband is a former lieutenant colonel in the French army.

Numbered also among the galaxy of moneyed and royal members associated on the committee with Mrs. Roosevelt are Baroness Van Boetzelaer, wife of the first secretary of the Netherlands embassy in Washington. Her husband, it is said, will open the show because of the illness of Dr. Alexander Loudon, Dutch ambassador to this country, who was scheduled to do the honors but probably will not attend.

Other sponsors include Baroness H. Van Tuyll, the former Margaret Kelsey of New York City, whose husband, now in the service, was a member of a prominent Dutch shipping industry prior to the war.

Another titled member of the same group is Baroness J. C. Van Eck, whose husband is connected with the Shell Oil company here.

To these names, among others announced as associates of Mrs. Roosevelt in backing the affair, is listed that of Mrs. Marshall Field, wife of the thrice married publisher who spent most of his life as an expatriate in England.

The names of Mrs. Vincent Astor and members of the direct and distaff sides of the Vanderbilt dynasties also are generously sandwiched into the imposing list, which includes Mrs. W. Averell Harriman, wife of the lend-lease administrator, who has just been appointed ambassador to Russia, and Mrs. Harold S. Vanderbilt.

The exhibition, which is being held at the Wildenstein galleries on East 64th street, is said to constitute the largest number of Van Gogh paintings ever assembled for a single display of his work in this country.

A total of 68 canvasses, including the "Woman of Arles," "The Night Cafe," and "The Public Gardens," together with some of the artist's letters with English translations, also will be on view.

Dresses Made of Jersey Give Furs Contrast

BY REA SEEGER.

Early bird shoppers are finding the smartest and newest contrast dresses for fur jackets and long fur coats now while the first collections are complete. Among the newest are the stunning dresses of clinging jersey, soft, fluid material with a hint of silk among the gossamer woolen threads. This is the fabric that makes the most successful costumes, the simple affairs that look so deceptively ordinary but are sensationally flattering when put on.

Subtle drapery, shirrings, clever insets, and figure molding to emphasize the curves are possible with such jersey. After the jersey comes the color. Eye catching tones of tawny gold, burnished copper, and pale green gold are attractions in one showing in a Chicago shop.

Designed to wear with and to contrast mink, beaver, or other brown furs, the dresses are a knockout. Skirts are simply gathered to the waistline, shirrings are managed artfully at the extreme sides so the diaphragm panel is smooth and slender. Bodice tops are marvels of intricate draping, with soft, rather high necklines.

The blaze of dazzling contrast is achieved with decorative belts. Wide gold kidskin belts are lavishly studded with simulated jewels, barbaric chunks of various gems, like rubies, emeralds, and topaz.

Wide belt, glittering with sequins in many colors, offer another bright belt line accent, and less dressup models are contrasted with simple gold kidskin belt minus the glitters.

These gold colored clinging jersey dresses are tremendously effective foils for the beauty of dark brown mink or luxurious sables or practical beaver coats.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

Dear Fans: This is "Larceny with Music" broadcasting. I just want to say briefly:

I'm a modest little number with a few fair songs to sell,
And as sung by Jones and Carlisle
They go over rather well.
As for acting—you've seen far worse
In a more pretentious show,
For my cast's composed of experts,
I would like to have you know.
Narrative's about a crooner
[A. Jones],
With an agent [Wm. Frawley] full of blare,
Who lands Ken a hotel job by
Whispering that he's an heir.
Hotel owner [Leo Carrillo], trusting, crafty,
Who's in hopes he'll benefit
Hires K. Daniels to sing for him;
Plays right into ag-nt's mit;
Fires his queen of "chamber music"
[Kitty Carlisle].
Ha! He THINKS he fires her, Pal!
Takes not in consideration
Fact that Kenny LIKES the gal . . .
Complications follow swiftly
In this situation's wake.
If you want to know about them,
Come see me—for goodness sake!
Lest I seem a little braggy
Best admit sometimes I'm draggy,
But I'm sweet and clean and gay—
D'rector brought me up that way.
[Be seeing you, I hopes, you dopes.]

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 5.—Rosalind Russell is wanted for a picture at Twentieth Century. I'm hoping it's for Mrs. Wilson. That's what I'd call fine casting. Nothing to the story that Ronald Colman is to play Woodrow Wilson. No gripe against Ronnie, but it would curl the hair of most Americans to have an Englishman play the "Life of Woodrow Wilson." . . . Feuds do flourish at Warners. Ida Lupino and Alexis Smith are the latest. Not on speaking terms. . . . What's this I hear about Jane Russell and her new husband quarreling? . . . Much comment about row Tallulah Bankhead and Walter Slezak had on "Life Boat." They don't speak. Here's why. When Italy surrendered Tallu naturally exclaimed, "Isn't it wonderful!" Whereupon Slezak, born in Vienna, replied, "I feel sorry for the poor Germans and hope the allies won't be too hard on them." Tallulah came back with, "You sound like a Nazi spy!"—and the battle was on. . . . Leland Hayward's collapse is more serious than folks realize. No rooms in the hospital, so he was given a blood transfusion in the corridor. Franz Werfel, author of "Song of Bernadette," suffered a bad heart attack. He's too ill to be moved to a hospital.

Jane Russell.

O, My Gosh!

Visiting marines asked June Ellison of "Two Sisters and a Sailor" "If lady soldiers are called WACs, female sailors WAVES, what are lady marines?" "Feathernecks, of course!" . . . If Gen. Claire Chennault has his way, world premiere of "See Here, Pvt. Hargrove" will be held in Chungking. . . . Gabriel Heatter is en route here to work in "Curly" for a weekly $8,500. Quite a hunk for a nonactor. . . . Since Carl Brisson's success at Club Versailles, New York, he's called "The Grownups' Frank Sinatra." He's booked for a solid year of night clubs. His only regret—he can't whip out here to see his new grandson.

What Next?

Our writers' congress, now ended, couldn't agree on policy. After attacking state laws prohibiting interracial marriages, they hissed the mention of Eddie Rickenbacker's life being put on the screen, and refused to let Bob Miller, war correspondent recently returned from Guadalcanal, talk. Theme of Miller's undelivered speech was the contention that public should be given whole truth rather than half truths, which are misleading, about handling of war stories in the Pacific area. So what the whole thing accomplished, except a mighty large headache to President Robert G. Sproul of U. C. L. A., isn't quite clear. However, it did bring intolerance among our writers out in the open—which is always illuminating.

A Smile, Maybe?

The day Joan Barry's baby was born Charlie Chaplin rented space at his studio to another company. All Charlie's pictures have been made there—and, of course, many screen tests of girls whom he's discovered, which have never seen the light of day. So now they're doing scenes of a caterpillar in "Mr. Curly" at the Chaplin studio! . . . Grandma Cobina Wright Sr. is passing out cigarettes to all her friends. It's a boy. . . . Sabu, the elephant boy who entered the army six months ago, gets a medical discharge and will go into the next picture with Maria Montez and Jon Hall. . . . Judy Garland is attempting to turn songwriter. At least she and Kay Thompson are trying. . . . Did you hear about Ray Milland's tussle with a chimpanzee? Ray didn't win.

Other Days.

Ginger Rogers' next is "The Gibson Girl," which I hope they'll shelve for a couple of years. Hard to switch your thought from giant bombers to a bicycle built for two. . . . When Pat O'Brien and 70 people go to San Diego for "Marine Raiders" they'll live in their own tent city. No other accommodations. . . . Margaret Lee, Harry Cohn's assistant four and a half years, is doing mighty well at free lance writing. She's completed "Bridge Across the Sky" with Jules Schermer, and the screen play of "Ellen of Troy."

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

In Uniform.

She is one of many girls in uniform—a uniform not so generally seen as some. It is the gold-buttoned, insigniaed beige suit of the American field service, worn with a contrasting dark brown Montgomery beret.

She was hatless when I saw her, however, her dark, long hair in a right down-the-middle part. And, as tho planned, her white collar was worn outside her jacket. I went to call on her because some one told me about her—"You really should meet Joan Belmont while she's in town . . . a career girl worth interviewing."

We at once began to talk of her work. "It's primarily public relations," she explained, "making the American field service better known. And it's a sort of girl behind the stretcherman organization because the men go overseas in the American field service as volunteer ambulance drivers and medical aids. The girls in the home office in New York take full charge of finances [even rendering an account to the state department], do all the clerical work, cable funds to the men overseas, and edit the bulletin with excerpts from letters written in Italy, North Africa, and India where our men, with the approval of the army, are serving the allied forces."

Saleswoman of an Idea.

"How did you get into this work?" is the inevitable question. She laughed. "I'm that rare thing, a New Yorker born in New York. You know," she added, "they say there aren't any." After school and some special courses at Columbia she decided she wanted to write—did sell an article in fact—and cherished the ambition of becoming a news writer. But the budding writer didn't immediately flower. There were interruptions, months working as a salesgirl in a specialty dress shop, then modeling in another shop. Later she took a promotion job with a large company and it was "very interesting to see how the different departments functioned together." From that position she slid into her present one, of which she speaks with a magnetic quiet intensity: "It's selling an idea and an idea in which I believe."

All-American Girl.

She's emphatic in saying she considers public relations work holds infinite opportunity for women "because it's such a vast field there are bound to be angles better handled by women, just as there are angles better handled by men." After the war she thinks she might like to try public relations in some connection with flying. She is learning to be a pilot and hopes to crowd in some extra lessons during a long overdue vacation.

Altho she particularly likes to do work that combines people and writing, she, nevertheless, is interested in all sorts of careers and has immense respect for any fellow white collar girl. The All-American Girl, she calls her. She believes there is no replica of this All-American Girl in any other country. She herself likes to swim and ride, enjoys the movies and her work—"seeing time, money, and energy converted into something useful and seriously needed." As she finished I noticed her small finger ring of a quaint and charming design. I asked about it. It was her great-grandmother's, she said. Joan has worn it since she was 12 . . . "couldn't get along without it," remarked this modern career girl, who was in Chicago to sell an idea.

Christian-Jewish Round Table Will Shape Year's Plans

Executive board members and the woman's committee of the Chicago Round Table of Christians and Jews will meet at luncheon Friday in the Morrison hotel to shape the 1943-'44 program of the organizations. To be emphasized this season, states Dr. James M. Yard, director, are work in neighboring army camps and an educational project in the public high schools. The customary round table discussions with religious and community groups thruout the Chicago area will be continued.

volunteered for work at the outbreak of the war. Miss La Fontaine was born in Turkey of British parents and educated in England.

The marriage of Miss Polly Neeves, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Kendrick Neeves of Glencoe, to Lt. Robert Hayes Gurley of the army air force, took place on Oct. 2 in Los Angeles. Lt. Gurley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Gurley of Evanston, who were in the west for the wedding.

The Frank H. Towners' home in Evanston will be the scene of the marriage at 4:30 p. m. today of their daughter, Jacquelin, to Pvt. Thomas W. Kelley of the army air force. Here for the wedding are the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lillian M. Towner of Streator, Ill.; her aunt, Mrs. Arthur Towner of New York; her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Reidy of Rock Island, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Irmin Plumb of Streator. Pvt. Kelley, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Kelley of Scranton, Pa., will take his bride to Connecticut, where here is stationed at Bradley field.

Miss Carolyn Fairfax Robertson and Lt. Patrick Francis Sammon Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Sammon of Oak Park, will be married today in St. George's church, New York. The bride will wear a gown made from silk which her grandmother brought from China 35 years ago, and will be attended by her cousins, Miss Margaret Fairfax Brashears as maid of honor and Sandra Stoeger as flower girl. A reception will follow in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Edward Barbour Towns, and Col. Towns, who is to serve as best man. Lt. Sammon and his bride, who is the daughter of Bolling Lynn Robertson of Short Hills, N. J., will live in New York while he is stationed at Governors Island.

Here and There.

Home on his first furlough from overseas duty, Staff Sgt. Henry Faurot III. is enjoying a reunion with his family and friends. For the past year Sgt. Faurot has served as a waist gunner in bomber flights over northern Australia and New Guinea, and for his participation in that theater of war has been awarded the Purple Heart, the distinguished flying cross, and the air medal with three oak leaf clusters.

Mrs. Alfred C. Gross will introduce not one but two granddaughters on Sunday afternoon, for in addition to her granddaughter, Miss Sallie Anna Thomas, who lives here, another granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Hamilton Grant, will come from Pelham Manor, N. Y., to share the party. Miss Grant is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana H. Grant, who will be here also. Mrs. Grant and Miss Thomas' mother, Mrs. René P. Travelletti, both bowed to society at similar teas in the garden of Mrs. Gross' Evanston home. Miss Grant and Miss Thomas have spent every summer together at Mrs. Gross' summer home, Yorkholme, in York Village, Me. Miss Grant attends Wellesley college.

Mrs. Henry Bartholomay left yesterday to spend a week in New York, but will return in time for the opening of the Chicago Symphony orchestra season on Thursday night and Friday afternoon next week. Following the concert next Friday Mrs. Welch Dickinson will entertain at cocktails.

Frank Lloyd Wright, noted architect who is passing thru town with Carleton Smith en route to New York, met a number of old friends at dinner last night and will greet others at a luncheon today. Mr. Wright is to select the site for the new Museum of Nonobjective art that is to be built in New York. He also is designing a house for Mr. Smith to be built in Dutchess county, N. Y.

Thru the Looking Glass

"This is the way we wash our face———". Remember the nursery rhyme you chanted as a child, with accompanying gestures of rubbing the hands over the face? That ditty might well have been enlarged upon, for many of us have grown up without learning how to wash our faces to keep them clean and free of blemishes.

Thoro cleansing doesn't begin with soap and water. It begins with the use of a good cleansing cream, smeared generously over face and neck and worked in lightly to help loosen grime and soil. The cream is removed with tissues in gentle, firm swipes; the skin shouldn't be pulled.

A soap and water scrubbing follows and most complexions react best to a bland, emollient type soap. If wash cloths are changed frequently they're safe to use, but if there is a doubt of their freshness, use the hands. Work up a rich lather with the soap, using tepid water and massage it completely over face and neck, working it well up around the hair line, a favorite gathering place for substances harmful to the skin. Wash diligently about the crevices at the nostrils, mouth, and chin. If the skin has been exposed to much dust and dirt, a second soaping will insure perfect freshness. The final step is a good drenching with cold, cold water. Splash it on until the skin tingles and glows and feels perfectly free of soap.

Since a complete job as above requires a little time, it is best done before retiring when time is not as precious as in the morning. Too, it's fatal to a radiant complexion to let the day's accumulation of grime remain on the face overnight.

LOUISE DOOLEY.

Women in War Work

From now until Nov. 13, an intensive SPAR recruiting caravan will visit 10 Indiana towns, to interest young women in becoming members of the coast guard reserve. The caravan will leave Chicago today.

Ensign Carolyn A. Wolfe will be in charge of the group, which will include Yeomen Ann Esterl, Margery Small, and Phyllis Baguley, and Seamen Barbara Swenson and Betty Hicks. There also will be two coast guard battle heroes, a musical trio, a violinist, an accordion player and a guitarist.

Seaman Hicks, national women's golf champion, will recount the thrills of "boot" training, which she finished recently at Daytona Beach, Fla., before being assigned to the Chicago public relations office of the coast guard.

Lt. [j. g.] Mary L. Kennedy is senior officer in charge of SPAR procurement in the Chicago area.

Women enrolled in the WAC have increased their good looks and physical fitness far beyond the average maintained by their civilian sisters, according to Dr. Martha Brown, dermatologist on the staff of Michael Reese hospital. Speaking yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the Roseland Kiwanis club, Dr. Brown said:

"The training, physical development, scientific and regular meals, plus the feeling of usefulness that comes to all WACs, are such that no charm school could secure better results.

"We need healthy women more today than ever, not only because they are good to look at, but they will have a supreme duty later to a generation made miserable by war. A true beauty hint to the young women of America today would be to join the WAC and be of full usefulness to their country."

Dr. Brown's talk was given in connection with the 70 day drive for members of the women's army corps, inaugurated on Sept. 27 with a proclamation by Gov. Dwight H. Green.

Capt. Margaret R. Stewart, in charge of WAC recruiting in Illinois, yesterday announced that women, who as members of the WAAC received honorable discharges, may enlist as privates in the WAC.

Capt. Stewart further stated that if applications are received within 90 days after discharge, the applicant may request reassignment to the organization from which she was discharged. Such requests will be granted whenever possible, after the applicant has had approval of her last commanding officer.

WAC recruiting offices for Illinois are located at 175 West Jackson boulevard.

The importance of knowing the fundamentals of home nursing is being appreciated by more and more women, increased enrollment in courses conducted by the Red Cross indicates. Twenty-five classes are now in operation and registrations are being accepted for another series to start shortly after Nov. 19.

Women in industry have proved particularly appreciative of the opportunity to learn how to care for members of their family who are ill, especially since so many doctors and nurses have gone into the services.

Women employees of the Western Electric company recently started their home nursing classes, with 165 enrollees, the Goodman Electric company has 35 pupils, and the Illinois Central railroad is setting up a teaching center. Mrs. E. W. Blatt, R. N., director of the service for the Red Cross, has announced that women working in the loop, under the leadership of Mrs. Peter T. Swanish, training supervisor of division 7, OCD, are enrolling members thru each building in the loop desiring a group of its own.

Approximately 100 women who serve evenings, Saturday afternoons and Sundays with the Gray Ladies' hospital and recreation corps of the Red Cross took time off last night to gather for dinner at the Top of the Town club, 185 North Wabash avenue. These women, all of whom have full day time jobs, have established an excellent record in hours given in hospitals in the Chicago area.

Red Cross' 2d Home Service Office Opened

The Red Cross opened its second home service district office in the city yesterday on the second floor of the food mart at 1606 West Adams street, in quarters formerly occupied by the United States employment service. Mrs. Kathlee R. Belmore was placed in charge as supervisor of the new center, which will be known as the midcity office. Mrs. Gertrude B. Jayne will be assistant supervisor.

Coincident with the opening, Red Cross officials renewed their plea for more volunteer case aids for the home service department. Women between 22 and 60 years old who are American citizens and meet the education requirements are needed. Since the home service corps has its own course of training for the aids, no previous social service experience is required. Those wishing to volunteer may call for a personal interview at room 918, 616 South Michigan avenue, which is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on the first five weekdays and from 9 a. m. to noon Saturdays.

The first home service district office was the south side branch opened in April at 6208 South Drexel avenue, where Miss Lynne Fowler and her staff of 85 professional and 35 clerical workers are handling a case load of 3,660 continued service cases and have performed close to 900 immediate services since August. It is planned to open a northern city office as soon as a suitable location can be procured.

The district offices will decentralize the home visiting work of the service, tho central headquarters will be retained at 616 South Michigan avenue for all after-hour and emergency services, recruiting and training, and administrative work.

Child's Health Is Reflected in His Behavior

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The two little boys were only 16 months apart, and they usually played fairly happily together. But not this morning. Jackie, the younger of the two, snatched the toys away from Billy, and refused to give up the trains when he'd had his turn. He did nothing but quarrel and whine, until finally his exasperated mother slapped him and made him sit on a chair until he promised to be good.

Later at lunch Jackie played with his food, but didn't eat it, and afterward climbed on the couch of his own free will and fell asleep. This last aroused his mother's fears and recourse to the thermometer verified her suspicions. "I might have guessed," she thought. "Jackie isn't normally so disagreeable."

A grownup often knows why he feels and acts as he does, but a child doesn't. It's up to us to observe them carefully and interpret their behavior. And this is not always easy for us to do.

Let me give you a few hints: Disposition, spirits, behavior in general tie up quite closely with physical condition. If your little boy or girl is irritable, lazy, ill tempered, or discontented, and you are unable to account for his actions, look thoroly into his physical condition. He doesn't know what it's all about, so it's up to us to interpret signs.

Illinois Eastern Star Invests $14,000,000 in War Bonds in Year

War bond purchases in excess of $14,000,000 during the year topped a war activities report on the 130,000 Illinois members of the Order of the Eastern Star submitted yesterday to the state grand chapter at its 69th session by Mrs. Ada Emery, defense chairman. The meeting, presided over by Mrs. Esther Gielow of Chicago, worthy grand matron, and Arthur L. Johnson of Rockford, worthy grand patron, will continue thru today in the Medinah temple at Wabash avenue and Ohio street.

Visiting leaders from grand chapters in 14 other states were present yesterday among the guests at the assembly.

Slated for election at the morning assembly today are Mrs. Agnes MacMeekin, 4872 St. Paul street, to succeed Mrs. Gielow as worthy grand matron of the state chapter, and Alex K. Rexton, 4432 Adams street, as worthy grand patron. The session will close tonight with installation ceremonies.

106 Nurses' Aids Capped in Red Cross Ceremony

A group of 106 Red Cross nurses' aids were capped in a joint ceremony last night in the auditorium of the Peoples Gas building. The volunteers were trained at four hospitals—Illinois Research, Wesley Memorial, Swedish Covenant, and Billings Memorial. Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel, chairman of the nurses' aid corps of the Chicago Red Cross chapter, presented the caps and certificates.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra had a surprise up its sleeve yesterday when members of the board announced that the 18th season will open at Orchestra hall Wednesday evening, Nov. 10, with Hans Lange as guest conductor and Dorothy Maynor, the gifted Negro soprano, as soloist. This inaugurates not only a new season, but a new policy. Altho the board expressed its regret at the loss of Nicolai Malko's services as permanent director, it has decided to tackle one concert at a time, engaging a guest conductor and soloist for each performance. Meanwhile, since the orchestra's ranks have been raided by war depleted organizations which no longer snub women players, the Women's Symphony won't be snobbish about it. It will, when necessary, replace women with men.

Meanwhile, Désiré Defauw and Mr. Lange will add to their Chicago Symphony orchestra duties the job of choosing young musicians for the Civic orchestra, the training school which in its notable career has sent more than 400 players to orchestral posts thruout the country. They will hold auditions for young men and women players at Orchestra hall, hearing stringed instruments on Friday, and the woodwinds, brasses and percussions on Saturday. Approximately 110 players will be chosen for the group, which receives training in orchestral repertory, full orchestra rehearsal, section rehearsal, sight reading, harmony and theory. Tuition for the course includes $20 payable on application, and $6.50 for a season ticket to Thursday night concerts by the Chicago Symphony orchestra. An additional $15 is listed as payable on call, a precaution which to date has not become a reality. Applicants for auditions must register at the orchestra office on the sixth floor of Orchestra hall, 220 South Michigan avenue.

Russia in the news will tinge even the opening of the Metropolitan opera's diamond jubilee season, when "Boris Godunoff" lifts the curtain Nov. 22. Edward Johnson, general director, made this announcement in New York yesterday, and added that while the season will offer no new operas, it will stage 10 revivals, including Verdi's "Falstaff" with Lawrence Tibbett in the title role and Sir Thomas Beecham at the conducting helm. George Szell will conduct the Wagner cycle and Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," while Bruno Walter will conduct "Tristan and Isolde" and Erich Leinsdorf will be on leave from the Cleveland orchestra for "Parsifal" performances during Holy week. Seven new singers will be introduced, six of them Americans, including Donald Dame, tenor; Patricia Munsell, coloratura soprano; Christine Johnson, contralto; Thelma Altman, mezzo soprano; John Baker, baritone, and Christina Carroll, soprano. The seventh is Martial Singher, well known baritone of the Paris opera.

Two Chicago musicians will be added to the staff of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo for the Civic Opera house engagement opening Oct. 15. Thaddeus Kozuch will be the soloist in Tschaikowsky's Piano Concerto, which is the setting for Nijinska's new ballet, "Ancient Russia," while Freda Draper, contralto, will sing in the enlarged version of "Prince Igor" and in the Pittaluga novelty called "The Cuckold's Fair."

Shipstad and Johnson will open their "Ice Follies of 1944" at the Chicago Arena Nov. 5, with Bess Ehrhardt, Frick and Frack, Betty Atkinson, Heinie Brock, and the waltzing Maxsons also in the cast.

Episcopal Bishops Vote Amendment to Keep Present Head

Cleveland, O., Oct. 5 (AP).—Retention of the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker of Richmond, Va., as presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States for another three years was anticipated by some church leaders tonight following action on retirement age limits.

Also mentioned at the church's 54th triennial convention as candidates for the highest office were Bishops Henry Knox Sherrill of Massachusetts, Robert E. Strider of West Virginia, Frank W. Creighton of Michigan, and W. Bertrand Stevens of Los Angeles.

Bishop Tucker, 69, would retire next Jan. 1 under existing canons. Today, however, the house of bishops approved an amendment which would permit a presiding bishop to continue in office until the general convention following his 70th birthday anniversary. The proposed change needs concurrence of the house of deputies to become effective.

Controversy over proposed liberalization of canons governing remarriage of divorced persons reached the floor of the convention late today, but debate on the issue was postponed until Thursday. Under present church laws, remarriage is condoned only for innocent persons in divorces based on adultery.

Civilians Lose 3 Dried Fruits in 1943 Packs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—Civilians will get none of the 1943 pack of dried apricots, peaches and pears and only half of the dried prunes and raisins as the result of the buying programs of government procurement agencies, the office of price administration said today.

The OPA disclosed the poor outlook for civilian dried fruit supplies in fixing maximum prices which processors and primary distributors can charge, effective Oct. 9, for 1943 packs of dried apricots, pears, peaches, prunes, raisins, and figs. The new price ceilings are substantially above 1942 levels and reflect higher raw fruit and labor costs, the OPA said, but consumer costs will be raised only in the case of figs and a few other relatively minor items.

Government demand for dried fruit from the new crop will be heavy, the OPA said. The army, navy, and other procurement agencies are buying the entire 1943 pack of dried apricots, peaches, and pears and none of these is expected to reach the civilian market, the OPA explained.

"Only about half of the packs of dried prunes and raisins will reach the civilian market, the balance going to government procurement agencies for direct war use," the agency said. "For the half reaching the civilian market, the government is planning purchase and resale programs which will hold these two commodities at the 1942 price levels, with the exception of two raisin specialty items of negligible importance."

The price pegging of dried prunes and raisins is effected by the Commodity Credit corporation thru indirect subsidies to producers by the payment to growers of so-called support prices intended to encourage maximum output. The CCC in turn resells the fruit at a loss to maintain controled retail prices. The subsidy program has been condemned by farm groups and the farm bloc in congress, which have insisted on higher prices for agricultural products.

Most of the dried fig crop will be diverted to civilian use, largely as fig paste for confections, the OPA said. The 20 per cent of the crop which will reach the retail market as dried figs will cost 50 per cent more than a year ago, it said.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

With a certain type of partner, it is a winning philosophy never to invite a slam. These players are so ready to accept all invitations, regardless of their own holdings, that the invitation in itself is tantamount to bidding the slam. For example:

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable and 30 part score.

NORTH
♠ A K 10 5 3
♦ J 7

WEST
♠ J 7 4 2
♦ 10 8 6 4 3 2
♣ A 2

EAST
♠ Q 9
♥ 10 9 6 5
♦ K 9

SOUTH
♦ A Q 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
6 hearts [!]	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the club ace [thereby making it unnecessary for declarer to guess that suit] and, on East's high card signal, continued with the club deuce. The king was put up and the diamond jack was immediately led. East covered, declarer won and cashed the queen, but his third diamond lead, ruffed in dummy, was overruffed by East, and that was that.

As it happened, declarer could have made his 12 tricks by means of a squeeze [i. e., after taking the diamond finesse, he could have run all his hearts and eventually West would have had to unguard either the diamond or the spade suit], but this would have been double-dummy play, and the real point was that the contract itself, depending as it did on a highly favorable position of cards in diamonds and clubs, was far from sound.

It requires little analysis of the bidding to discover that it was South who was entirely responsible for the bad contract. His three heart bid on the second round was all right, but he had nothing to spare in that call. Hence, when North correctly "went along" with South's strong bidding by showing the club suit, South should have been quite satisfied to bid only four hearts.

The best way to prove that North's bidding was sound is to pose this question: What would South have bid if he had held exactly the same hand but with the club ace substituted for the club six? The answer, obviously enough, is that he would have bid precisely the same three hearts that he did bid. With this hand, however, the slam would be an absolute laydown; indeed, there would be a fair play for 13 tricks. With the stronger hand, South's three heart bid followed by a six heart bid, would be eminently correct, but with his actual hand, having jumped in hearts on the second round, he had nothing left with which to accept any slam invitation.

YANKS WIN, 4-2; CARDS FACE BONHAM TODAY

FOR WANT OF THE BALL THE GAME WAS LOST

MICHIGAN, IRISH SQUADS PONDER THEIR DEFENSES

Daley, White, Hirsch Plague Notre Dame.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the period Notre Dame and Michigan will concentrate on plans for defensive formations for their game Saturday afternoon in Ann Arbor. The Wolverines have a high regard for the forward passing skill of Notre Dame's Angelo Bertelli. The Irish are concerned with stopping Bill Daley's plunges and the wide runs by Paul White and Elroy Hirsch.

Up until this week Coaches Fritz Crisler of Michigan and Frank Leahy of Notre Dame have spent more time drilling their men for attack rather than for defense. Each coach has produced a high scoring eleven and it follows that each, thinking of the strength of the other's attack, is now immediately concerned with defensive plans.

The disposition of the Notre Dame and Michigan players to defend may produce several surprises Saturday. Michigan used a six man line for a defense against Northwestern and only varied this for a seven man line goal defense. The Michigan six man line, from left end to right end, was as follows: Art Renner, Merv Pregulman, George Kraeger, John Gallager, Bob Hanzlik, and Rudy Smeja.

Hirsch Plays Safety.

Bob Wiese and Fred Negus backed up this line. The left defensive half back was Bill Daley and Paul White was the right half. Elroy Hirsch was the safety.

Last year, however, when Michigan also was worried over Bertelli's forward passing, the Wolverines unexpectedly used a five man line with three backers-up. The center man of this trio, Elmer Mader, who normally was a defensive end, went wide on either side to cover Notre Dame's man in motion from the T formation attack.

It will be interesting to see if Michigan again employs this formation to defend against Notre Dame's passes and sweeping runs. The Irish have the same possibilities as a year ago for striking at the line with Creighton Miller and Julius Rykovich carrying the ball. Jim Mello, the starting Notre Dame full back, also is a threat on a straight plunge with Bertelli handling the ball under center.

Five Man Line Valid.

Last year Notre Dame employed a five man line against Michigan and it is noteworthy that Northwestern last Saturday used this formation, altho the Wildcats did not use this defensive lineup in their opening game with Indiana university. The reasons why Notre Dame and Northwestern have used a five man line against Michigan are quite valid.

Michigan's running attack potentially threatens at all points. Daley's powerful plunges have gained 396 yards this season. He has carried the ball 52 times. White and Hirsch are fast and the five man line defense offers the best defense against their running. Northwestern stopped these men but couldn't stop Daley when the Wildcats had pulled up within a touchdown of the Wolverines.

Daley may be unstoppable. His record proves he is an exceptional back, but Notre Dame will have better tacklers backing up its line in Ann Arbor than Northwestern had for the Michigan game last week Herb Coleman, Irish center, and Mello, the full back, are heavier than the Northwestern line backers and they tackle more sharply.

What About Passing?

The question the Irish must consider in preparing a defense is: What about Michigan's forward pass attack?

Michigan only threw three forward passes against Northwestern. Bill Culligan, substitute left half back, failed in the first period. White's second period pass was intercepted and in the last quarter Hirsch, left half back, had a pass failure.

This brings up the status of Jack Wink, substitute quarter back on the Michigan squad for Wiese. Last year Wink was Wisconsin's best forward passer and he threw from the T formation. Wink has been reported slowly getting into condition after a knee operation. Notre Dame must consider the possibility Saturday of Wink throwing forward passes and if he does, he may pass from a T formation.

Sorrow and grief must ne'er retard its speed,
But ever there are overtones, aside, apart,
Which may be heard by none but the lonely heart.

McLaughlin Joins Badger Back Field

Madison, Wis., Oct. 5 [Special].—Scrimmage in large quantities was handed the Wisconsin football squad today as Coach Harry Stuhldreher tried out new men for the varsity and then sent the regulars thru a hard session. The first eleven was changed little from the starting lineup of last Saturday except that Paul McLaughlin replaced Cliff Washburn at left half and during the pre-scrimmage signal drill, Clarence Esser alternated with Fred Doar at right tackle.

Of the newcomers, Ray Dooney at full back, Glenn Peek at left half, and Harry Hildreth at right half looked the best. Dooney is badly needed if he can round into shape quickly as the former Notre Dame freshman has plenty of drive and power. Then too, the loss of Len Calligaro, only regular from last year and a full back, has weakened the Badger attack a great deal. Calligaro appears lost for the remainder of the season with Stuhldreher holding little hope he will regain eligibility.

The Badgers will get another scrimmage session tomorrow after which they will ease off for the Illini. The Badgers, with one conference victory, hope to make it two in a row over Illinois.

ILLINI LOSE GRIDER.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 5 [Special].—Sam Grider, junior full back from Georgetown, Ill., and acting captain in the Purdue game, is lost to the Illinois football team for a week, Coach Ray Eliot announced today.

While Grider and George Bujan, Christopher, are sidelined with injuries, Theron Bradley, Avon, becomes the No. 1 full back for the Wisconsin game.

INDIANA LOSES GUARD.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 5 [Special].—Indiana university probably will go into the game with the Cornhuskers Saturday without the services of Robert Ravensburg, regular guard, because of a shoulder injury received in the Wabash game.

Edward Schienbein, a freshman half back, reported in Indianapolis for an army physical examination. If he passes he will be lost to the squad in about two weeks.

The Hoosiers may also lose Donald Dwyer, a freshman guard from Chicago, who is in Chicago applying for admission to the coast guards. Coach Bo McMillin today received Nebraska's formations and devoted practice session to defensive spacing to meet the Cornhuskers' balanced and split line offensive. A brief scrimmage was held.

HEAVY NEBRASKA DRILL.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 5 (AP).—Nebraska university's Cornhuskers went thru a heavy workout today in preparation for the game with Indiana Saturday, with Coach Ad Lewandowski reshuffling both line and back field. Newcomer first string backs were Allen Trant and Big Buzz Hollins. The new varsity alignment indicated that eight of 11 starters will be youngsters fresh from high school competition last year.

VICTORY FAILS TO THRILL YANKS; CARDINALS ARE SULLEN IN DEFEAT

New York, Oct. 5 (AP).—The triumphant New York Yankees, off to a lead in the world series, got no particularly exciting thrill in bowling over those swift St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 2, in the opening game today.

Winning world series battles is an old custom with the Yanks. It's the ninth series for their kindly manager, Joe McCarthy, and the 14th for boisterous Art Fletcher, their graying coach.

Fletcher, emitting a few yips and yells, attempted to stir up a little excitement as the Yanks clattered into their dressing room, but the players paid little attention to him. Instead they swarmed around their winning pitcher, 34 year old Spud Chandler, the ex-Georgia football star.

Glad It's Over.

Chandler dropped into a chair and took a relaxing deep breath.

"Boy, what a ball game," he puffed. "I'm glad that's over. I still have butterflies flying around in my stomach. The toughest inning was the eighth when they had two men on and Walker Cooper came up. He's a dangerous hitter and I really bore down."

McCarthy—bespectacled now that the game was over—warmly praised Chandler's pitching effort.

"He pitched a great game," he began. "He stopped those good hitters of theirs from getting those extra-base blows.

"We were playing the Cards' style of ball game today. We were running and they were standing still."

Lauds Work of Johnson.

McCarthy liked the showing of Rookie Billy Johnson at third base, playing in his first world series contest. Johnson, too, thought he did all right.

"I thought I done pretty good," the rookie youngster admitted, "especially after we got ahead."

Nick Etten, the Yankee first baseman, who, in a rage, threw the ball into the dirt in the fifth inning, thereby setting up the Cards' second run, was positive that he had caught Ray Sanders, the St. Louis first baseman, coming into first.

"I didn't hear Umpire Beans Reardon call him out, but I was sure that I had him," Etten related. "It was a good lesson to me. After this, I won't try to umpire."

New York, Oct. 5 [Special].—The portable victrola sat silent in the corner of the St. Louis Cardinal dressing room. The hill-billy records that Trainer Doc Weaver had stacked neatly alongside the machine in anticipation of a boisterous victory celebration stood untouched, gathering the dust of defeat. The Red Birds, seated silently in front of their individual lockers, spent a motionless moment like a kayoed pug in his corner, before starting to dress—slowly and sullenly.

This wasn't the same spirited gang of Cards that had responded so surprisingly cheerful to last year's opening game defeat. The confidence of bouncing back, so noticeable in '42, was glaringly absent. For the Cards hadn't staged a last inning rally to reassure themselves as they had last year. They had gone down meekly, 1-2-3, in the ninth, and the contrasting effect was tremendous.

Shout When You Win.

Boss Billy Southworth, however, denied that his charging gang was depressed. "You shout when you win," he philosophized, "We can play a whole lot better than we did, both defensively and offensively." Then he flashed that broad Southworth smile and added: "Some days you can't lay up a dime."

Concerning the key play of the game, when Lanier's 0-2 pitch to Gordon dipped crazily into the dirt and then ricocheted off Catcher Cooper's leg and high into the air while Crosetti sped home all the way from second with the tie breaking run in the sixth, Southworth said: "Cooper just happened to spin the wrong way and lose sight of the ball. That's the breaks. In all my years, I never saw a wild pitch bounce so high."

Fast Outside Pitch.

Losing Pitcher Max Lanier explained the pitch as a curve that sank suddenly. "I had complete control of the ball . . . it didn't slip out of my grip or anything."

Concerning the pitch that Joe Gordon looped into the left field stands, Lanier, who enjoyed surprising success against both left and right handers with his low hook, described it as a "fast outside pitch that he caught just right."

"I guess I pitched too carefully for my own good," he analyzed. "Next time, I'm sure I can beat 'em."

Old Spirit Isn't There.

Pvt. Terry Moore, the ball hawking ex-Cardinal who robbed several Yanks in last year's classic with spectacular circus catches, rushed up to his successor, youthful Harry Walker, and congratulated him on his dazzling tumbling spear of Spud Chandler's blast to deep center. "That was a real honey," enthused the man who originated such honies. "Now, let's see history repeat itself, gang, by going out taking the next four."

Well, "could be." But the old spirit of '42 just doesn't seem to be there.

STEFANITA WINS BELMONT PARK'S LADIES HANDICAP

New York, Oct. 5 (AP).—Stefanita, 3 year old daughter of Questionnaire-Stefana, owned by George D. Widener, captured the 73d Ladies' handicap of a mile and a half at Belmont today, while Warren Wright's Mar-Kell, proclaimed champion of her sex after taking the Beldame, was a poor fourth.

Stefanita, paying $8.80 and clocked in 2:31 4-5, triumphed by a length and a half over William Woodward's Vagrancy, triyng to win the race for the second straight year.

Blunt Snaps Savold's Streak; Wins Akron Bout

Akron, O., Oct. 5 (AP).—Eddie Blunt, Brooklyn Negro heavyweight, snapped Lee Savold's winning streak at 10 tonight when he punched out a 10 round decision before 3,400 fans. Blunt weighed 218, a 24 pound advantage over Savold. It was a split decision, two judges giving Blunt the verdict and Referee Kayo Christner favoring Savold. The only knockdown came early in the ninth round when Savold battered Blunt to the canvas for a two count.

Yankees Glad This Wallop Curved Foul

New York, Oct. 5 (AP).—A mere matter of some 12 inches prevented the Cardinals from tying the score at 4 to 4 in the seventh inning of today's opening game of the world series with the Yankees.

With Ray Sanders on first and one out, Martin Marion belted one of Spud Chandler's curves on a line into left field. It looked like a homer, but the ball curved and went into the stands, foul by a foot. Marion then grounded into a double play.

Babe Ruth still is the crowd's favorite. While the big fellow waddled to his box seat fans strained to get a glimpse of him. He appeared to be in good health, bronzed and hearty and not too heavy, his hair slicked down. Jim Farley sat in a nearby box seat.

Four official errors and four more mistakes that don't show in the box score brought this comment from a Pittsburgh reporter: "This is more like the Phils and Athletics playing."

Today's hero: Joe Gordon, Yankee second baseman, who was a dismal failure in the series last year.

Today's goat: Walker Cooper, Cardinal catcher, whose running around in circles looking for the ball on Max Lanier's wild pitch in the sixth inning let Frankie Crosetti score from second base with the winning run.

Mrs. Max Lanier wasn't on hand to see her hubby lose. She stayed at home in Denton, N. C., because one of their two children is ill.

Johnny Murphy, the Yanks' ace relief hurler, warmed up rapidly in the bullpen in the eighth inning after singles by Lou Klein and Stan Musial, but Chandler got Walker Cooper to hit the first ball pitched to Bill Johnson for a forceout, ending the inning.

Charley Keller, Yankee slugger, belted three drives into the right field stands during batting practice, but the only one he poked into the seats during the game was a harmless foul.

Chandler threw 107 pitches in the nine innings, 74 strikes and 33 balls. Lanier threw 105 pitches in his seven innings on the mound, 72 strikes and 33 balls. Harry Brecheen threw 19 pitches in his one inning, 10 strikes and 9 balls.

Chandler now has allowed only 14 hits and six runs, two unearned, in 22 innings of world series pitching.

Before the game Third Base Coach Art Fletcher of the Yanks, said he expected to direct plenty of traffic at the hot corner. He did.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—The New York Yankees were back on the world series beam tonight and plotting to make it two straight tomorrow over their 1942 conquerors, the St. Louis Cardinals. This afternoon, in Yankee stadium, the American league champions whipped the Cardinals, 4 to 2, before 68,676, with Spud Chandler and Joe Gordon twin heroes.

The Yankees will storm back tomorrow under the protective cover of Ernie Bonham's right hand pitches. Looking dismal as they did, and thus lending generously to a game that was a far cry from usual world series strife, the National leaguers went to bed this evening not knowing for sure whether Mort Cooper, 21 game winner, or Al Brazle, southpaw rookie, will be Bonham's mound opponent. Brazle, as late as last July, was pitching for Sacramento in the Pacific Coast league.

The Rivals Are Jittery.

The opener lacked the glamor, barring the feats of Gordon and Chandler, of most series struggles. There was schoolboy blundering and a deluge of hits definitely on the phoney side. There was a taint attached to three of the Yankee runs, the lone exception being a terrific drive Gordon slashed into the distant seats against Max [Lefty] Lanier. One Cardinal run was a gift from Nick Etten, a brainstorm error by the Yankee first baseman which enabled the National league champions to tie the score in the fifth.

Chandler stood out like a flaming torch despite the fact that six of the seven Cardinal hits came in pairs. The Nationals scored on him in the second on two hits, but both were touched by infielders. One of those trick hits gave the Cards a tie in the fifth just after the Yanks had scored twice. Thereafter the Cards were as cold as decoy ducks, waiting in vain for a chance to display some of their free for all running. And the Yanks settled it for sure with a two run sixth which caught their opponents in such a high state of confusion that Lanier was forced to recapture his own wild pitch.

Lanier's Error Costly.

Lanier, in the fourth, dropped a ball at first base, this error costing a run before Gordon slammed his homer later in the inning. Then, in the sixth, the Yanks landed on the left hander with three hits, two slightly on the flukey side. But the accruing damage was due mainly to the vanishing pitch that gave one Yankee a ride home from second and another a trip from first to third base.

Gordon, the goat of the 1942 series, bounced back with more than his homer, which was the lone demonstration of real Yankee power. They, too, enjoyed a sprinkling of slightly discolored hits. Gordon was almost an entire infield in one uniform. He piled up eight assists, tying a world series record held by several former greats. Along with this he figured in four putouts, the total leaving him one shy of the series mark set by Bucky Harris of the Senators.

After Chandler had gone thru the opening inning flawlessly, Walker

TONY SKORONSKI TIES SMITH FOR JOCKEY HONORS

Wins Aboard Cherry Wine for 23d Victory.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Tony Skoronski, now top man among the Hawthorne riders, sent Cherry Wine over the finish line to win the race which drew the best horses on yesterday's program, a six furlong event for juveniles of the $4,000 class. This was his third successful effort in the first four races of the afternoon and it brought his total to 23 winners for the meeting. This equaled the figure which Freddie Smith set before he left for a brief vacation before starting to ride at the Churchill Downs meeting.

Before winning with Cherry Wine in the fourth at 10 to 1 odds, Skoronski had brought in Orchard Run at even money in the first and Liberty Flash at 10 to 1 in the third.

Sluggish at Start.

Cherry Wine, which was scoring his second victory of the meeting, was rather sluggish at the start. Approaching the stretch, however, he improved his position steadily, then held on powerfully in a hard chase thru the stretch. He got up in time to beat the 35 to 1 shot, Paragram, by a head while Valdina Malden, the pacesetter, was saving third money. Cherry Wine paid off at $22, $9.60, and $5.20 across the board.

Skoronski's third race winner also rewarded his backers handsomely, Liberty Flash returning $22.20, $9.20, and $5.60. It was all the better because Liberty Flash scored in the tightest kind of a photo finish. There was only a little more than a distended nostril to separate him from the second horse, Tetragel. The latter had taken the lead away from Katy in the stretch but Skoronski coaxed one last fling of energy out of Liberty Flash to get him up in time.

$8.80 Daily Double.

Skoronski's winner in the opening race, Orchard Run, made up the first half of an exceptionally short priced double, the pay-off on this horse and Wise Sue being only $8.80. Orchard Run followed Court Counsel's early pace, wore this rival down in the stretch and won by a length. His pay-off was $4.40, $3, and $2.60 across the board.

Bruno Pucci was bruised up quite a bit when thrown just as the horses crossed the finish line in the eighth race. The boy lost his balance when his mount, Mokananne, stumbled. Yank Bomber was the winner of this event.

MORGAN PARK WINS 1ST FROM LEMONT, 39 TO 6

Morgan Park Military academy opened its football schedule by defeating Lemont, 39 to 6, yesterday on the Morgan Park field. The victors were led by Richard Price and Bud Hall, the former making three touchdowns and the latter two. The host club scored 18 points in the first quarter to lead, 18 to 0, at half time. Lemont's score came in the third quarter.

WRIGLEY FIELD IS TRANSFORMED FOR FOOTBALL

The annual transformation of Wrigley field's baseball diamond into a football field was accomplished yesterday under the direction of Bobby Dorr, the groundskeeper. Up went the goal posts and down went green sod on the cut out portion of the infield.

The field will take a beating for five straight Sundays, beginning with the game coming up with the Cardinals. On successive Sundays the Bears will defend their Wrigley field terrain against the Phil-Pitt Eagles, Brooklyn Dodgers, Detroit Lions, and Green Bay Packers. Sunday's game will be the Bears' first 1943 appearance in Chicago.

Everything seems to work against the Cardinals so they won't be surprised to learn the Bears will be in better shape Sunday than they were in the previous league games in Green Bay and Detroit. Johnny Siegal, the veteran end whose blocking helps the running attack, has shaken off the limp which accompanied a torn knee ligament. Bulldog Turner played against the Packers and Lions with a sprained ankle but the effects of the injury are almost gone.

Ray Nolting, veteran left half back, who has decided to end his brief retirement, will arrive too late to play in Sunday's game but may be available for the Phil-Pitt contest.

LISS IS NAMED ACTING CAPTAIN AT MARQUETTE

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 5 [Special]. —Right Tackle Leonard Liss, a junior veteran and naval trainee, today was selected as Marquette university's captain for Saturday night's game with Lawrence college here. Liss, who weighs 223 pounds, attended Lawrence before transferring to Marquette two years ago.

WPB to Permit Surplus Shells for Sportsmen

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—Present distribution of shotgun ammunition thru dealer allocation is meeting emergency requirements for the control of live stock and crop depredators, and there are no present plans for state-by-state quota distribution of shells, the war production board [WPB] reported today.

WPB explained that under the present program, manufacturers of shotgun shells given priority in shipment of their limited stocks to dealers in crop and live stock areas where wildlife threatens the production of vital war foods.

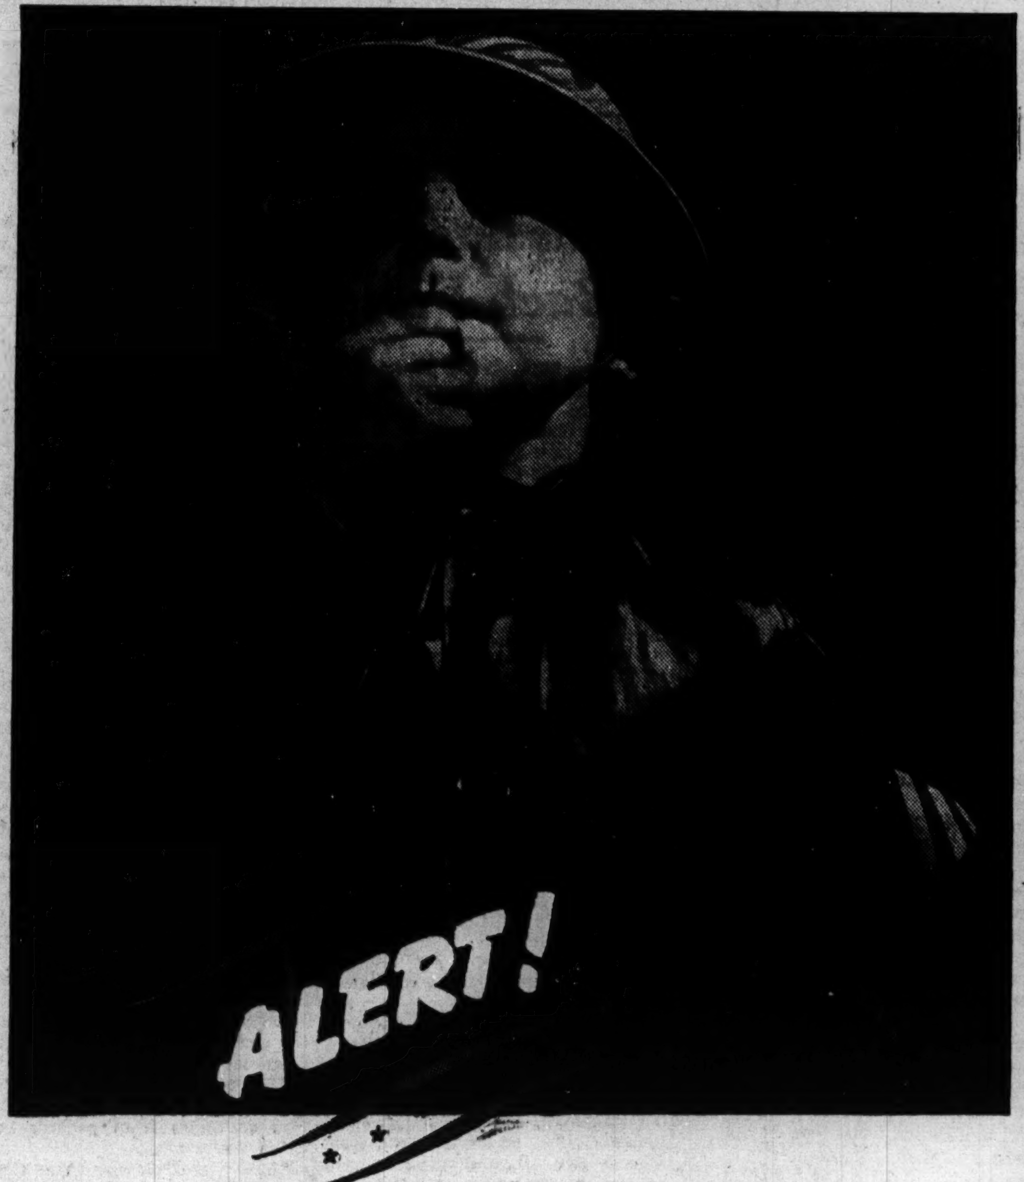
There have been complaints that some dealers have not received shotgun shell shipments, WPB stated, but added that investigation disclosed they are located in areas not menaced by crop or live stock pests.

Only surplus shells remaining after stockmen's and farmers' needs have been filled will be allocated for purely sporting use, WPB reiterated.

TOBIN LEAVES HOSPITAL FOR CHAMPAIGN HOME

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 5 (AP).—L. M. [Mike] Tobin, 64 years old, publicity director of the University of Illinois athletic department, who has been in a hospital here for nearly two months, left today for his home in Champaign, Ill., Dr. C. J. Smiles reported.

Tobin was stricken with a heart attack while spending a vacation in Spring Brook, Wis. His left leg was amputated Sept. 1, because of a gangrenous condition as a result of coronary thrombosis.



BUD, playing grown-up, typifies the millions who responded to the call for volunteers to guard the home front. They studied first aid, fire fighting, plane types. They kept lonely vigil at isolated posts. They took their jobs with deadly seriousness—showed the world that America knew the meaning of "Alert!"

America's railroads know the meaning of that word, too.

Because of their alertness munitions plants operated at capacity; fighting men and materials moved with great dispatch; our entire war machine meshed and moved smoothly and swiftly.

ROCK ISLAND'S Program of Planned Progress typifies the alertness so vital to the continued efficient operation of America's railroads. For it visualizes improvements—what is to be done, when and how. With the transition from war to peace, ROCK ISLAND will be ready!

As yesterday—and today—so tomorrow ROCK ISLAND'S sole purpose is to provide the finest in transportation.

Chicago knew mellow
CHAPIN & GORE
when "Hay-burners" were new

When horse cars appeared on State Street in 1859, home-owners protested bitterly, because they "hated to see State become a business street"!

EVEN in horse car days, Chapin & Gore Kentucky distilled Bourbon was enjoyed by Chicagoans. They were proud to introduce visitors to Chicago's own prized whiskey—mellow, smooth C&G, made by the slow, careful "sour mash" method. Entertain your friends with C & G, and ask for it at your favorite tavern the next time. You'll find it reasonable in price, and delightful whether you prefer it straight or in mixed drinks.

PASSING DRAWS ATTENTION OF BUCKEYE TEAM

Varsity Drills Against Great Lakes Plays.

Columbus, O., Oct. 5 [Special].—Work on forward pass offense and defense was stressed in today's practice session of the Ohio State football team in preparation for the game with Great Lakes at Great Lakes Saturday.

With only three more days of practice the Buckeye coaches were attempting to do something about the Ohio aerial attack which saw 11 passes hurled in the game with Missouri without a single completion and three interceptions.

Toward the end of the session today, under the lights for the first time because of the change of time in central Ohio, it looked as tho Bob McQuade, 160 pound substitute full back, would get most of the passing assignments. His passes have been accurate and of the floating type, easy to catch. However, Dean Sensenbaugher and Ernie Parks, half backs, still will toss a few, if practice possibilities mean anything.

Several new plays were given the team as an offensive measure and a scrimmage session was ordered against the third and fourth squads, the latter demonstrating the sailors' plays as brought back by scouts.

The Buckeyes will leave by day coach for Chicago Friday morning and workout on a Chicago field Friday afternoon after which they will be quartered in the Morrison hotel until game time Saturday, according to Harold G. Olsen, assistant director of the athletics.

BLUEJACKETS DRILL LONG.

Lt. Paul Hinkle ordered a long kicking and tackling drill for the Great Lakes Bluejackets yesterday in an attempt to tighten their defense for Saturday's game with Ohio State at the naval training station.

After criticizing the Bluejackets' open field tackling against Pittsburgh last week, he picked two of the fastest backs on the squad to impersonate Ernie Parks and Dean Sensenbaugher, Ohio State's freshman speedsters, in a long tackling drill.

Meanwhile, Steve Lach, Ken Roskie, and Buist Warren engaged in punting practice. Lach, who has scored three touchdowns in 14 rushing attempts in his two games at Great Lakes, also polished his passing to increase his triple-threat potentialities.

N. U. TESTS NEW PLAYERS.

Coach Lynn Waldorf and his Northwestern coaching aides plan to take full advantage of Saturday's open date to get a more accurate line on the playing ability of a number of the new men who joined the squad this year as transfers from other schools.

Because of the limited practice time this fall, the Wildcats were forced to rely largely on players experienced in Waldorf's system of play for the opening games with Indiana and Michigan. The next two weeks will give the coaching staff an opportunity to make a closer observation of the new men. A number of stiff scrimmages will be held between now and the Great Lakes game, Oct. 16, to test the relative ability of various players.

Three Transfers Star.

Three transfers already have established themselves as regulars. They are Herman Frickey, half back; Jerry Carle, quarter back, and Herb Hein, end. All are former Minnesota players. In addition to this trio, the coaching staff has been impressed with the play of Joe Partington, center, and Ed Nyden, end, of Nebraska.

A number of sophomores who came up from last year's freshman squad have turned in good performances in the first two games and probably will see increasing service. They include Ray Justak, 200 pound guard from Whiting, Ind., Duane Sickels and Jack Harker, a pair of rangy ends, and Frank Clawson, guard.

M'SPADEN, BYRD TO COMPETE AT TAM O' SHANTER

The nearest approach to determining a national golf champion for 1943 will be conducted Saturday and Sunday at Tam o' Shanter when Harold [Jug] McSpaden, victor in the All-American Open, meets Sam Byrd, winner of the Victory National—the only national golf events of the year.

The championship match will consist of two 18 hole rounds, the first to start at 2 o'clock Saturday and the second at the same time Sunday. In case of a tie the match will continue over extra holes until the winner is decided. The winner of the play-off will receive $1,000 with $500 going to the loser.

Arrival of the two contestants from Philadelphia is scheduled for tomorrow with practice rounds planned for tomorrow and Friday.

SGT. JOE LOUIS TO BOX TONIGHT AT CAMP ELLIS

Camp Ellis, Ill., Oct. 5 [Special].—Sgt. Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, will appear in a boxing exhibition in the new amphitheater at 35th and S streets here tomorrow night before an anticipated 15,000 soldiers and civilians. Accompanying the Brown Bomber will be Sgt. George Nicholson, heavyweight sparmate; Corp. Walker Smith, welterweight contender, whose ring name is Ray Robinson; Pvt. George Wilson, also a 147 pound challenger from Cleveland, who fought as Jackie Wilson, and Corp. Bob Payne, trainer.

CORNELL HOLDS SCRIMMAGE.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 5 [AP].—Cornell's first and second teams scrimmaged for an hour late today in preparation for Princeton Saturday. Howard Babb was at left end on the first team in place of Tony Lascala.

THE GUMPS

Yankees Win; Bonham Faces Cards Today

Cooper opened the second with a line drive that caromed off the tip of Bill Johnson's glove for a single. Whitey Kurowski quickly sacrificed and Chandler then got himself straightened out by fanning Ray Sanders, but just as quickly let the situation get out of hand again by walking Danny Litwhiler. Martin Marion hit a liner similiar to that of Cooper's, but it skidded off Etten's glove for a double, Cooper scoring, but Litwhiler going out at the plate on Tuck Stainback's rifle shot throw to Bill Dickey.

Eight Yankees dropped in succession before the American leaguers broke thru Lanier's perfect defense, but at least one of the eight furnished the Cardinals a few disturbing moments. This was Charley Keller, who led off in the second inning by working the count to 3 and 2, one of Lanier's pitches sailing into the right field seats—but it was foul by a few feet. Then Keller was fooled by a curve ball and took the third strike. Lanier ran down the string to Chandler, who broke the spell by singling to left, but two were out and Stainback fanned.

Cards Encounter Trouble.

The first incident in the fourth that sent the Yanks into the lead was Lanier's blunder. Frankie Crosetti led off with a tap to Lou Klein; and Lanier, who covered on the play, crossed the base with the ball in his grasp, but dropped it. Umpire Beans Reardon, who had waved out the runner, reversed the decision. Crosetti made the error pay an extra dividend by stealing second, and if he hadn't become entangled with Marion he could have gone to third because Cooper's throw sailed into center. But Crosetti reached third easily when Johnson beat out a bunt to Sanders.

This brought up Keller in the very spot designed for a lad of his talents. He hit a wicked grounder, but Klein skidded to his right and tossed to Marion for the start of a double play, Crosetti scoring. Then came Gordon's homer on a 3 and 1 count, the ball arching into the extremity of the left field wing, passing over a 402 foot marker to provide the Yanks with their fleeting 2 to 1 lead.

Etten Has a Brainstorm.

Gordon made a great pickup of Sanders' speedy grounder to start the fifth, but instead of aiding Chandler it opened the way to trouble. Sanders beat the throw for a hit and Etten, believing the runner was out, nonchalantly tossed to Dickey at the plate. However, Dickey wasn't looking and the ball rolled away. Sanders sprinted to second on the error. He went to third on Litwhiler's deep fly to John Lindell. Gordon came thru again, this time charging in boldly to scoop up Marion's grounder, thus holding Sanders at third and having ample time to make the play at first. But Lanier followed with a blooping single into short left center, sending in the tying run.

Luck smiled on Crosetti again when he launched the sixth with a line drive that popped out of Kurowski's hands, the Yank veteran beating it for a hit. Freshman Johnson did his bit again by pushing a single past Marion, who apparently was day dreaming. Keller didn't attempt to bunt, but swung and flied short to Stan Musial. Then Lanier, with two strikes on Gordon, made his second blunder—the wild pitch. The ball bounced in front of the plate with W. Cooper running in circles trying to figure where it had gone. By the time the ball was located Crosetti had scored from second and Johnson had anchored himself on third.

Johnson Scores Final Run.

After the wild pitch panic had subsided, Gordon fanned. Then the same kind of a hit with which Lanier had knotted the score in the fifth appeared. It was a blooper that Dickey planted between Klein and Harry Walker in short center, Johnson jogging in from third to make it 4 to 2.

Sanders endeavored to start something in the seventh by opening with a single, but a double play ended the threat. There was a little more trouble for Chandler in the eighth. After Debs Garms had fanned as a pinch batter for Lanier, Klein hit a looping single into right center. He was forced by Walker and after a single by Musial, Cooper tapped to Johnson. In the Yanks' half, Keller singled off Relief Pitcher Harry Brecheen and Gordon walked, but Dickey fanned and Litwhiler made a sprinting catch of Etten's short fly. Chandler retired three straight Cardinals in the ninth.

PRINCETON SCRIMMAGES.

Princeton, N. Y., Oct. 5 [AP].—A 75 minute scrimmage session in which the emphasis was on offense featured Princeton's drill today. Coach Harry Mahnken stressed down field blocking. Cornell is the next foe for the Tigers.

ABE ATTELL RUN DOWN BY AUTO; HEAD INJURED

New York, Oct. 5 [Special].—Abe Attell, former featherweight boxing champion who is now 60, was taken to the Roosevelt hospital today after having been run down by an automobile while crossing Broadway at 52d street. He was suffering from a severe head injury, a compound fracture of the right leg, and lacerations.

Attell was leaving his bar and grill near-by on Broadway, when he was knocked down by the car operated by Sam Borts, also an ex-pugilist, 43, of the Bronx, who fought under the name of Sammy Butts. Borts, police said, left the car and darted into a subway station and went downtown as far as 14th street. Acording to the police, he then returned and reported the accident at the police station nearest the scene.

Syracuse Wins 5-1; Trails in Series, 2 to 1

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP).—Syracuse [I. L.], after losing two straight, moved back into the running in the little world series tonight, defeating Columbus [A. A.], 5 to 1. The Chiefs nicked two Red Bird hurlers for nine hits while Lefty Arnold Carter was giving up five before a crowd of 4,057.

Take Early Lead.

The Chiefs put the game away early, shelling Ken Burkhart from the mound in the first inning with a six hit attack that produced four runs. They added another in the third off Relief Hurler Francis [Red] Barrett, who handcuffed Syracuse from there on in.

Carter, the first southpaw the Chiefs have sent against Columbus, yielded a run in the second inning when the Red Birds bunched a couple of singles, but had everything under control the rest of the way, striking out five.

Barrett Ends Rally.

Goody Rosen, Van Harrington, and Hank Sauer greeted Burkhart with consecutive singles and then, after two were out, Dick West, Gar Del Salvio, and Damon Phillips exploded with another trio. After Carter had walked, Barrett came in and ended the rally on one pitched ball.

SHIRTS BATTLE TO HOLD CLASSIC LEAD TONIGHT

Entering the second month of the season's campaign, the Classic league will swing into the fifth roll down tonight at the Logan Square Recreation, 2550 North Milwaukee avenue. The matches were originally scheduled for the Park Manor Bowling center, 100 East 75th street, but were shifted by league officials yesterday.

The league leading Washington Shirts have a margin of one game to protect in their match with the United States Brewery. The Meister Braus, who collected 3,244 pins Monday night in another league, clash with the Thompson's Restaurants in a battle that may jeopardize the former's runnerup position. The third match sends the defending championship Monarch Beers against the third place National Bowling Equipment.

A Bomber Adds to Excitement at World Series

New York, Oct. 5 [Special].—Mayor La Guardia, a spectator at today's opening world series game, notified headquarters of the first air force at Mitchel field, L. I., that a four motored bomber had flown dangerously low over Yankee stadium, interrupting play, and asked disciplinary action against the pilots.

"It flew right down over the stands at 3:19, 3:21, and 3:26 p. m." the mayor told reporters. "If anything had happened a thousand people would have been killed."

La Guardia added that such a flight was a violation of both army rules and the altitude law, which makes it unlawful for planes to fly less than 1,000 feet above open air assemblies. He described the offending craft as a B-17, or Flying Fortress.

First air force headquarters said late today it was checking and that the plane had not yet been identified.

LAYDEN GIVES WMC DATA ON CHICAGO BEARS

Data pertaining to previous employment of five members of the Chicago Bears was presented yesterday to William H. Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission, by Elmer Layden, president of the National Football league. The commission is investigating to determine whether these players left work in war plants to play professional football without obtaining statements of availability or otherwise failing to abide by WMC regulations.

Also present at the conference was Atty. Daniel Carmell, representing the league, and Owen Fairweather, counsel for the Bears. The attorneys contended that the players had not violated any WMC regulations, and submitted their data on each of the five players in question to Spencer.

Spencer announced later the matter had been taken under advisement.

VON STEUBEN AND TILDEN CAPTURE SOCCER OPENERS

Tilden and Von Steuben won their opening soccer games in the Chicago Public High School league race. Tilden, competing in the south section, turned back Kelly, 4 to 0, at Sherman park, with the goals being made by Bob Joyce, center forward, and Pete Yelen.

Von Steuben met Schurz at Eugene Field park in a north section contest, and a 2 to 2 half time tie was broken when Center Forward Norman Brainen scored a goal.

Boys' Gridiron Workouts to Resume Today

Red Grange will be in charge at Douglas park, 18th street and Marshall boulevard, and Tug Wilson of Northwestern university at Hilburn stadium, 5520 North Wolcott street, this afternoon at 4 o'clock when the Chicago Sports association's six free football schools for boys from 12 to 15 go into their third sessions.

Both will be assisted by members of the Bears and Cardinals football teams as well as high school and park district coaches, who will also be at the other parks. Bronko Nagurski of the Bears also will be on hand at Hilburn. The other schools, which will start at the same time, are located at Rheingold stadium, 1901 East 75th street; Columbus park, Central avenue and Congress street; Rockola stadium, 4200 North Central avenue, and Washington park, 5601 South Park way, the latter school for Negro youths.

Billy Conn Transferred to Air Forces as Gunner

With the 2d Army in Tennessee, Oct. 5 (AP).—Corp. Billy Conn, former world's light heavyweight boxing champion and leading contender for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown, has decided to throw kayo punches at the axis from the gun turret of an army air force bomber. Conn has been transferred from an armored engineer company here on maneuvers to the air forces for training as an aerial gunner.

PURDUE PLOTS WAYS TO CHECK WARRIOR POWER

Boilermaker Bees Will Play Three Games.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 5 [Special].—Methods of halting the power attack of a Camp Grant back field that functions behind a line averaging 216 pounds occupied the main attention of Purdue's undefeated football squad this afternoon in an extended defensive scrimmage session.

The Boilermaker Bees, reserves being groomed for a schedule of three games on their own account, presented their version of the Warrior attack as the coaches carefully reviewed defensive assignments. With no injuries apparent as a result of the Illinois game, Burnham stuck to virtually the same combination that gained almost at will against the Illini.

Guy Mackey, Boilermaker athletic director, announced a schedule of three games for the Bees, who will open at Culver Military academy Oct. 16. Other games are scheduled with Xavier at Cincinnati Oct. 23 and the Bunker Hill Naval Air station on Nov. 6.

WARRIORS ADD PLAYS.

Camp Grant, Ill., Oct. 5 (AP).—Coach Charley Bachman gave the Camp Grant Warriors several new plays today which the first team used against the second string in a scrimmage.

The Warriors have only two more practice sessions before leaving Friday morning for Lafayette, Ind., where they meet Purdue Saturday. Still unsatisfied with the blocking backs, Bachman shifted John Andretich, former Boilermaker full back, to quarter back.

GOPHERS BEAR DOWN.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 5 [Special].—Scrimmage in summery heat was the order of the day for the Minnesota football squad today as it bore down to offset an open date caused by cancellation of the Ohio State game Saturday. Even the first and second teams indulged in the heavy duty.

Mertes Leads Seahawks in Iowa Contest

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 5 [Special].—Preparing for an opponent that is practicing just 50 yards away, the Iowa Pre-Flight school today went thru its second secret drill today and the navy public relations office announced that the practices will be closed for the remainder of the week. The Seahawks will meet the University of Iowa Saturday.

It also was announced that Bus Mertes, former University of Iowa star, will captain the pre-flight team against his alma mater. One of the two enlisted men on the squad, Mertes is a full back and is playing his second year with the pre-flight school.

Hold Secret Drills.

The ban on visitors, including newsmen, was issued by Capt. David C. Hanrahan, base commander, this morning. There was no explanation of the order except that the team is practicing for a foe that is within hailing distance.

Coach Slip Madigan said Iowa's practices will remain open to newsmen as usual.

Lt. Don Faurot, Seahawk coach, said before today's practice session that the cadets were scheduled to get a look at Iowa's plays and go thru a defensive scrimmage.

IOWA WORKS ON OFFENSE.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 5 [Special].—Coach Slip Madigan gave the Iowa offense a thoro going over today and began setting up a defense to stop Frank Maznicki, the nation's No. 1 scorer, as the Iowa Hawkeyes prepared to meet the Iowa Pre-flight school Saturday.

Madigan is especially interested in strengthening the running attack, which has averaged only 1.9 yards per thrust. Iowa passers were hitting their receivers more consistently in today's session, with Paul Gasener, Tommy Hughes, and Dale Thompson in the throwing roles.

Whiskey prices in Chicago

There is a nation-wide shortage of whiskey.

The whiskey now on hand is in no sense a "reserve."

Whiskey is aged for years before it is bottled and marketed and the present supply was intended for sale in '43, '44, '45, '46 and later. And now this supply must be stretched through 1947 and 1948 . . . because distilleries are now making only alcohol for war.

That's why there isn't enough whiskey available to meet the public demand.

Yet since our plants stopped distilling whiskey last year there has been no change in the official prices of Hiram Walker brands except for the new federal excise tax in 1942 and the OPA adjustments in 1943.

The official OPA prices in this city are as follows:

Canadian Club
Blended Canadian Whiskey
90.4 proof. 6 years old
$4.62 4/5 QUART $2.90 PINT
OFFICIAL OPA PRICES

Signet
Bottled in Bond
Rye Whiskey. 100 proof
$3.42 4/5 QUART
OFFICIAL OPA PRICES

Walker's Bourbon
Straight Bourbon Whiskey
90 proof
This whiskey is 4 years old
$3.40 QUART $1.74 PINT
OFFICIAL OPA PRICES

TEN HIGH Bourbon
Straight Bourbon Whiskey
86 proof
This whiskey is 4 years old
$3.22 QUART $1.65 PINT
OFFICIAL OPA PRICES

There will be times when your dealer cannot furnish the brand you request. But in fairness to him, please be patient and remember that the whiskey shortage is real . . . due to the war work of the distilleries.

JOHN C. SHAFFER, A PUBLISHER FOR 42 YEARS, DIES

Succumbs at Age of 90; Headed Grain Firm.

John C. Shaffer, president and publisher of the old Chicago Evening Post from 1901 to 1931, died yesterday in his home, 1704 Judson avenue, Evanston. He was 90 years old. He was president of the John C. Shaffer Grain company of Chicago and editor and publisher of the Indianapolis Star and the Muncie [Ind.] Star. At various times in his career he owned and published the Terre Haute [Ind.] Star, the Terre Haute Post, the Louisville [Ky.] Herald, the Rocky Mountain News of Denver, Colo., and the Denver Times.

John C. Shaffer.

Mr. Shaffer was at his Chicago office, 111 West Jackson boulevard, last Friday altho he had not been in robust health since he underwent two major operations in July of 1942. Sunday night he suffered chills and developed pneumonia, which is believed to have caused his death.

Began Work as Telegrapher.

He had planned to leave in two weeks for his home in Santa Barbara, Cal., where he had spent the last two winters.

Born in Baltimore on June 5, 1853, he left school at the age of 15 and became a telegrapher. He came to Chicago in 1874 and worked as a confidential trader for a member of the Board of Trade. Five years later, with $2,000 in savings, he made a down payment on a street railway company in Richmond, Ind. Within two years, he had transformed the system into the first electrified line west of the Alleghenies.

Later he purchased and operated the street car lines in Indianapolis. In 1896, he built the Chicago and Englewood Electric railway.

He entered the newspaper field in 1901 with the purchase of the Chicago Evening Post from H. H. Kohlsaat. He was one of the first publishers of a large daily to refuse liquor advertisments.

Mr. Shaffer retired as publisher of the Post Feb. 7, 1931, and the paper was purchased by the Chicago Daily News on Oct. 29 of the following year.

Mr. Shaffer's wife, Mrs. Virginia Conser Shaffer, died 10 years ago. He is survived by his son, Carroll, and a grandson, John C. Shaffer II., a lieutenant in the army.

The funeral will be held Friday at the First Methodist church of Evanston, with the Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle officiating.

Memorial Service Held for Justice McSurely

A memorial service for Justice William H. McSurely of the Appellate court, who died May 27, was held yesterday in the Appellate courtroom, 30 North Michigan avenue. Judge McSurely, who was 78, served on the court 31 years. Speakers at the service included Justice Francis S. Wilson of the Supreme court, Floyd E. Thompson, president of the Chicago Bar association; John D. Black, representing the Illinois State Bar association; Appellate Judge Hugo M. Friend, and Atty. Weymouth Kirkland.

B. E. SUNNY, 87, DIES; PIONEER IN PHONE COMPANY

Head of Illinois Bell for 22 Years.

Bernard E. Sunny, telephone pioneer and industrialist, died yesterday in his home at 4913 Kimbark avenue. He was 87 years old. Until 10 days ago he appeared daily at his loop office, and maintained keen interest in civic affairs, philanthropy, and the organizations of which he was a director.

Bernard E. Sunny.

The funeral will be conducted at noon Friday in the Central church, 216 South Michigan avenue [Orchestra hall], whose board of trustees Mr. Sunny headed for years. A list of honorary pallbearers being prepared last night included many leaders of Chicago business, industry, and civic affairs.

Mr. Sunny was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., and attended the public schools there. He came to Chicago in March, 1875, as a telegraph operator for the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph company. His career thereafter grew with the Windy City.

Headed Five State System.

In 1879 he became superintendent of the infant Chicago Telephone company, now the Illinois Bell, and in 1908 he became president of Illinois Bell, serving also as head of the telephone systems in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

Mr. Sunny served as president of Illinois Bell until 1922, then was chairman of the board until 1930. Since then he had been a director of the company, and also a director of the General Electric company, the First National bank of Chicago, Wilson & Co., the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and half a dozen others.

He also served as chairman of the protective committee of bondholders of the Chicago City and Connecting railways and member of the board of operation of the Chicago Surface Lines. From 1923 to 1928 he was vice president of the south park commissioners.

Gave $400,000 to U. of C.

In 1928 Mr. Sunny provided $400,000 for a gymnasium at the University of Chicago for the University High school. He also was a benefactor of Armour institute [now Illinois Institute of Technology], which gave him a doctor of engineering.

Mr. Sunny's first wife, Ellen Clifton Rhue, died in 1922. In 1925 he married Mrs. Emma Holland Derby of Aurora, who survives, together with Mr. Sunny's daughter, Mrs. George B. McKibbin, wife of the state director of finance. McKibbin was Mayor Kelly's opponent at the last election.

Friday in the chapel at 1118 Greenleaf avenue, Wilmette. Mrs. Ricksen died Monday in Evanston hospital. Surviving are a daughter and two sons.

FEDERAL JUDGE BLASTS STATE PAROLE BOARD

The Illinois parole board and prison administration were called "unreasonable" and "inhumanly cruel" yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes as he took under advisement a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed by John Bongiorno, a convict serving a 199 year sentence for the slaying of a Chicago policeman in 1933.

Judges Barnes interrupted final arguments by Assistant State's Atty. James V. Cunningham, who is opposing Bongiorno's release, to declare that Illinois prisons are "terrible places because of the large number of men in them who feel that they are being unfairly treated" with the result that they are harder to control and thus must be subjected to stiffer discipline.

The state prison administration also was censured severely by Judge Barnes.

The final arguments yesterday on Bongiorno's petition culminated nearly a year of litigation. Bongiorno, thru his attorney, Charles Liebman, contends that his sentence is cruel and unusual, and therefore unconstitutional.

Parents Receive Citation for Son Killed in Action

A citation conferring the Order of the Purple Heart posthumously upon Pvt. Thomas E. Morris, 24 years old, was received from the war department yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Morris, 1506 Cornelia avenue, Waukegan. Pvt. Morris, a former Wheaton High school athlete, was killed in action in Sicily on Aug. 6. He joined the army on Aug. 5, 1940, and arrived overseas last Nov. 7. The decoration is being sent to the parents.

Cholera Epidemic Kills Many in Chinese Cities

New York, Oct. 5 (AP).—An epidemic of cholera, already rampant in Japanese-occupied Peking and Tientsin, has broken out in Anpei and Wuyuan, two of the largest towns in the western part of Suiyuan province in Free China, the Chungking radio said today. The broadcast said more than 50 deaths had been reported from Anpei and Wuyuan and the toll of lives is heavy in Peking and Tientsin.

Mary Pickford to Make Movie for Canadian Drive

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 5 (AP).—Mary Pickford is coming back to the movies after a 10 year absence to make a one reel short to help her native Canada in its fifth victory loan drive. The short will be a prologue to a three reeler she made for the Canadian government in 1919 in its fifth loan drive for World War I.

PORK SHORTAGE TO BE SEVERE, PACKERS WARN

Slump in Receipts Caused by OPA.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A severe shortage of pork will affect civilian consumers by the end of this week, packers warned last night. All sections of the country are expected to feel the pinch caused by an abrupt drop in receipts of hogs at the principal slaughtering centers.

Altho civilians will be most seriously affected, the shortage also will be felt at army camps and other military establishments, officials of Chicago packing companies said. Some army camps were reported nearing the end of their pork supplies and the army quartermaster's corps was said to be considering steps to meet the emergency.

OPA Order Confuses Market.

The developing shortage, packers said, is the direct result of an office of price administration order that went into effect Monday setting a ceiling price of $14.75 a hundred pounds on hogs. The order brought about the most confused market situation that has existed in years. Virtually all hogs arriving at market are selling at the same price, regardless of grade. As a result, farmers are curtailing their shipments, altho the hog population on farms is the largest in history.

Hogs received yesterday at 11 principal market centers, including Chicago, aggregated only 47,000 head, compared with 77,000 on the corresponding day last week. With one exception, this was the smallest volume for a Tuesday since September, 1937, when the country was feeling the effects of the severe drouths of 1934 and 1936 and the extermination of little pigs that was carried out in the first term of the New Deal.

Doubt Early Break in Deadlock.

Commission merchants and packers are not expecting an early break in the present market deadlock. The most optimistic forecasts suggested that farmers would be forced to resume shipments of hogs in normal volume in another three weeks. Others predicted that the market movement would not get back to normal until cold weather forced shipments late in November. Meanwhile a severe shortage cannot be avoided, it was agreed by all trade sources.

Pork production this week is expected to be the smallest in several years. October production also is expected to fall short of government estimates by a wide margin.

The shortage of pork, packers said, will be intensified by the fact that the army is currently placing large orders for chilled pork. These orders are among the largest yet placed. The OPA had advance information on these orders and that is said to have hastened the ceiling order—the first government experiment with a ceiling on live hogs.

Correction Is Required.

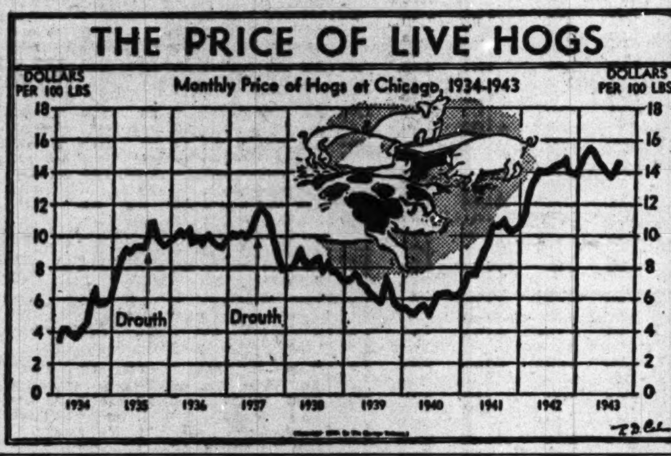
Packing company spokesmen said that it was extremely doubtful if the big army orders could be filled unless immediate steps were taken to correct the market situation. The needs of the army will be met first, however, and civilians will get only what the army chooses not to take.

The quartermaster's corps had counted on an unusually high level of pork production this fall because of the large number of hogs on the farms. The department of agriculture had forecast heavy marketings during the present period. Under normal conditions, meat experts said, these estimates would have been realized. However, intervention of the OP upset all calculations and brought about the novel situation of a "one price" market in which hogs, inferior as well as premium grades, bring the same money return to the seller.

Hogs that ordinarily would sell at $1 to $2 a hundred below the best prices yesterday were bringing $14.75 in Chicago. For the first time within the memory of live stock handlers, the so-called "top" and "average" prices were identical.

All Bring Same Price.

Altho both farm organizations and packers have opposed imposition of ceilings on live animals, their spokesmen said yesterday that had the step been delayed another 30 to 60 days it would not have had such serious effects. A normal decline in market prices is anticipated later in the year and a ceiling of $14.75 would not jam the marketing machinery as it is now doing, they asserted.



MORRELL VOTES TWO CASH DIVIDENDS AND ONE IN CAPITAL STOCK

Meeting in Chicago yesterday, directors of John Morrell & Co., meat packer of Ottumwa, Ia., voted two cash dividends on the capital stock and another payable in stock. The cash payments will be 25 cents and an extra of 50 cents, and the stock dividend is of one share for each 34 shares presently held. In lieu of fractional share distributions, payments on fewer than 34 shares will be at the rate of $1.07 a share in cash. Prior to these distributions, which are payable Oct. 30, 75 cents was paid earlier this year and $1.75 was paid in 1942. Other dividends declared yesterday:

STANDARD G. & E. UNIT FILES PLAN TO RECAPITALIZE

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP).—Oklahoma Gas and Electric company, Oklahoma City, and its parent, Standard Gas and Electric company, Chicago, today filed with the securities and exchange commission a recapitalization plan to improve Oklahoma's capital structure and reduce its annual interest charges and preferred dividend requirements.

Oklahoma would purchase from Standard $2,590,000 par value of its common stock and Standard would make a capital contribution of $1,600,000 par value of the same issue.

Among other proposed transactions, Oklahoma would issue 6½ million of notes, applying the proceeds toward redemption of $6,650,000 of debentures and $2,231,700 of preferred stock.

EXPECT CANADA TO AID OUTPUT OF NEWSPRINT

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 6 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The Gazette, in a special dispatch from Ottawa, says today "the federal government may within a short time take the necessary step to ensure a fuller supply of man power for the newsprint industry," it was learned.

"This measure will be to raise the production of pulpwood to category 'B,' which would place it in the same category with industries whose man power is protected by recent regulations of national selective service," the dispatch said.

"One of those regulations provides that no person employed in industries of 'A' or 'B' category may be freed for another job or get a separation certificate without approval of national selective service."

BRANIFF URGES FEEDER SERVICE BY TRADE AREAS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—Development of feeder line and pick-up air service on a trade area basis was recommended to the civil aeronautics board today by Braniff Airways. Charles Beard, Braniff vice president, said his company had made an exhaustive survey, especially in the Kansas City, Mo., trade district, and believed trade area systems could be established immediately at a minimum of government subsidy.

Small aircraft, based at airports of main cities thru which trunk air lines operate, would travel to nearby towns and villages. Separate corporations would be formed to own and operate the aircraft, with some stock sold to individuals in the area. Passenger tickets would be cheaper than on trunk air lines, with a mail rate lower than that paid for rural mail service by the postoffice department. Cargo planes also would be operated in the trade areas.

MIDLAND GROUPS AGREE ON PLAN TO REORGANIZE

A compromise plan for reorganization of the Midland United and Midland Utilities companies and settlement of litigation between them has been agreed on in principle by company trustees and representatives of security holders and creditors.

This was announced yesterday in a joint statement by Max Swiren of Chicago, attorney for Hugh M. Morris, trustee of Midland United, and Lloyd F. Thanhouser of New York, counsel for J. Samuel Hartt and Clarence A. Southerland, the Midland Utilities trustees.

Details of the plan are being worked out and should be completed soon, according to the statement, which added the plan would supplant separate reorganization and liquidation programs previously proposed.

The companies, which have extensive holdings in public utility properties in Indiana, have been under the jurisdiction of the federal courts in Delaware since the beginning of 77-B bankruptcy proceedings in 1934.

TREASURY GIVES DETAILS OF BANK WAR FINANCING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—The treasury made public tonight details of a 6 billion 435 million dollar financing operation that will bring an additional 3 billion in cash from the nation's commercial banks.

Excluded from participation in the third war loan, the banks will be permitted to subscribe to 1½ billion in 2 per cent bonds of 1951-'53 and a like amount of ⅞ per cent certificates of indebtedness of series F-1944 from tomorrow thru Friday.

The remainder of the operation will represent a refunding of 1 billion 400 million in 3¼ per cent treasury bonds of 1943-'45, called for payment Oct. 15, and 2 billion 35 million in ⅞ per cent certificates maturing Nov. 1. Nonbank holders of the called bonds may exchange them either for 2½ per cent bonds of 1964-'69 or 2 per cent bonds of 1951-'53. Banks may exchange their holdings only for the 2 per cent bonds. The certificates may be exchanged, par for par, with an adjustment of interest as of Oct. 15.

URGE INCREASES IN OUTPUT, NOT RATION POINTS

The solution of food shortages lies not in raising the ration point values of such items as butter, but in increasing production, members of the executive committee of the American Dairy association said yesterday at the opening of a two day meeting in the Palmer House.

"In this matter of the food problem, the country is faced with a need for nation-wide realization that it must secure larger production," said Owen M. Richards, manager of the association. "It is one thing to share the scarcities. That is what we are doing when we are faced with the necessity of increased point values of rationed foods. It is another thing to produce enough to reach a real solution—especially as the needs for greater production are expanding constantly in the face of greater demands for war. Full realization of this problem is the only way we will secure the required national action."

Cigaret Shortage Is Next, Says Government Bureau

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP). —Americans are facing a cigaret shortage, the commerce department said today. Estimating 1943 consumption at nearly 300 billion, the department said manufacturers already were dipping into 1944 and 1945 tobacco reserves "to satisfy the need for 35 to 50 million more cigarets than the industry can buy tobacco to make."

Wheat Leads General Grain Futures Rise

Buying of wheat futures attributed to mills and distillers, and an increase in commission house support advanced grain prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. The upturn came in the face of confirmation that the Commodity Credit corporation had purchased 600,000 bushels of Argentine wheat to be used for feed in the east and southeast and that it had asked offers of 1½ million bushels more. Purchase of 250,000 to 500,000 bushels of Argentine barley also was reported.

With apprehension lessened that Argentine imports would be big, closing sales were near the day's peaks. Wheat futures gained ¾ to 1 cent. Oats were ⅝ to ¾ cent higher, and rye was up ⅝ to ¾ cent. Minneapolis wheat rose 1⅛ to 1⅛ cents.

Start Barley Trade Today.

Trading in barley futures will begin on the Board of Trade today. Heavy demand for both feed and malting barley that has developed in the last two years was said to make a barley futures market unusually attractive. The new contract will be similar to one in effect in Minneapolis.

Part of the buying of wheat futures was attributed to possible large flour sales to the army. Mills were asked to offer the maximum amount possible, it was said. Bids are to be opened today.

Wheat Buying Stimulated.

Announcement that the CCC would restrict sales of wheat for dairy cattle and poultry feed attracted wide attention, suggesting that the government was not in position to ship its 100 million bushel stock to areas where it was most needed.

Wheat buying was stimulated by reports from Kansas City that feed mixers, unable to obtain sufficient government grain, had been forced to make purchases in the open market and compete with mills for the relatively small supply.

WINNIPEG PLEA REFUSED

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 5 (AP).—The Winnipeg Grain Exchange council has declined to take any action on a request of a member calling for a resumption of trade in wheat futures, it was learned today.

Trading was suspended last week by a government order which placed all marketings in the hands of the Canadian wheat board.

The member placed his request before the council yesterday afternoon. A general membership meeting has been called for Wednesday, when full discussion on the suspension order is expected.

WARD CHARGES WLB DENIED FAIR HEARING OF CASE

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday filed suit in the District of Columbia federal District court seeking to prevent enforcement of a war labor board order directing the company to grant maintenance of membership to a CIO union in retail stores in Denver, Detroit, and New York City.

The WLB on Aug. 20 ordered union security, voluntary dues checkoff, arbitration of grievances, and granting of maintenance of union membership with a 15 day "escape" period during which union members could resign.

The company charged the board violated the Constitution by denying Ward a fair hearing, that the board had prejudged the issues, was biased, took no evidence, denied the right to examine witnesses, and assumed the truth of facts as to which no evidence was introduced.

TAX WRITE-OFF OF WAR PLANTS' COST CURTAILED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 (AP).—President Roosevelt today ordered "virtual termination" of a five year tax amortization privilege granted in 1940 to encourage private expansion of war production facilities.

He signed an amendment to war and navy department regulations under which amortization will not be allowed hereafter unless one of the departments has approved the project for amortization before the facility has been begun or acquired. Applications already filed are unaffected.

In the last three years, a White House statement said, more than 27,000 necessity certificates for rapid tax amortization were issued for facilities valued at more than 5½ billion dollars.

HARVARD DEAN ASKS FLOW OF RISK CAPITAL

Termed Necessary to Progress.

Venture capital, willing to take risks in financing industrial developments, must be made available in large volume to assure post-war economic progress, Donald K. David, dean of the Harvard graduate school of business administration, asserted last night.

The necessary funds must flow thru operation of America's highly successful system of free enterprise and private initiative, without unnecessary governmental curbs, he told members of the American Meat institute at their annual dinner in the Palmer House.

This is the nation's best assurance of maintaining the social gains achieved thru the American economic system, he said.

Doubts Value of Federal Aid.

Advising close study of post-war investment opportunities by all custodians of prospective investment funds, David questioned the ability to achieve full employment and a high level of productivity under "a free enterprise society if that work-

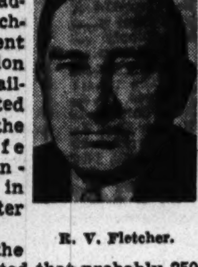
'Apparently Big' Rail Profits Are Deceptive, Says Fletcher



R. V. Fletcher.

The apparently large earnings of railroads are not true earnings, but to a certain degree are "fictitious and misleading," R. V. Fletcher, vice president of the Association of American Railroads, asserted yesterday at the American Life Convention annual meeting in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

A survey by the A. A. R., indicated that probably 250 million dollars of annual maintenance on roadway and structures of the class 1 railroads had been deferred, he said.

"This figure represents the amount of money that should have been spent in one year alone, leaving equipment entirely out of the picture," he explained. "In other words, if the roads could have obtained the men and materials essential to the job, they would have spent in this year a quarter of a billion dollars on track, buildings, bridges, signals, and the like.

Equipment Need Is Large.

"What amount should have been spent on equipment, we have at this time no means for making an estimate. We know it is large."

The deferred maintenance must be made up at some time, possibly by using a large portion of whatever cash reserves are on hand when the war ends, Fletcher said. Present income tax laws prevent deductions for maintenance expenses unless the money is actually spent, he said, but some hope is held that congress will permit railroads and perhaps other industrial groups to set up such needed reserves without a prohibitive tax penalty.

The railroads also will need cash after the war to substitute new lightweight equipment for present freight cars and to make changes in motive power equipment necessary for the railroads to hold their own in a "fiercely competitive economy," he said.

Warns Deficits Mean Inflation.

If the federal government persists with deficit financing after the war, inflation will be the inevitable result, Frank P. Samford, president of the Liberty National Life Insurance company, asserted.

"Inflation, like the thief in the night, will steal from every one, including life insurance policy holders, all that they have accumulated thru their thrift," Samford warned.

Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of finance at New York university, said he was confident that price controls, rationing, taxes, allocation, and forced savings would be successful in preventing inflation during and after the war. The government's need for refinancing its huge debt after the war is an assurance that interest rates will be held down, he said.

W. C. Schuppel, president of the convention and of the Oregon Mutual Life Insurance company, assailed the treasury proposal for post-war tax refunds payable in government insurance or annuities as "a definite intrusion into the field of private enterprise," and part of the "warring between those who would have a socialized economy and those who wish to retain our system of private enterprise."

TREASURY CURB ON SALESMAN FEES ASSAILED

Realtors Say Edict Perils Industry.

BY AL CHASE.

A new treasury department regulation restricting the amount of commissions that can be paid to salesmen who earn more than $5,000 annually, to no more than was earned in the firm's latest fiscal year ending prior to Oct. 3, 1943, has thrown the business world into one of the most confused situations in recent years, leaders in various activities and especially realtors declared yesterday.

Warner Baird, president of Baird & Warner, one of the city's largest realty firms, said the new order would prove disastrous to the entire real estate profession if applied as planned. Leonard Downie, business manager of the Chicago Real Estate board, asserted it threatened to change the whole system of real estate operations.

Asserts Many Will Quit.

Baird declared the new federal regulation would lead to subterfuge on the part of both employer and employe, and in many cases would result in persons barred from

Your FEDERAL RESERVE DISTRICT

Its position now . . .

and when the war is won

With one-fourth of the manufacturing facilities of the nation, the states of the Seventh Federal Reserve District are producing about one-third of the country's war materials, according to reliable estimates. The large amount of heavy industry and food processing in the District chiefly accounts for the extra output.

This District—with Chicago its business capital—long ago could have claimed to be the most representative of the 12 Federal Reserve Districts. This because what usually happens here, in a business way, so closely parallels the national averages—with agriculture, manufacture, transportation, trade, well in balance.

When the war is won, this District will continue to have its advantages of location, resources, balanced economy, its spirit of enterprise and progress. Its industries will produce things that will be in demand. And new products are in the making.

The business of this District, like the business of this Bank, will carry far—by train and plane and ship—wherever people want what the District has to offer.

STOCK MARKET EXTENDS DRIFT TO LOWER LEVEL

New York, Oct. 5 (AP).—The stock market extended its generally lower drift today, with leaders dropping fractions to a point or so. Selling picked up a little at intervals in the morning, but volume dwindled later as most brokers and customers forsook the ticker tape for radio accounts of the first game of the world series. Closing prices were above the lows in the majority of cases and some specialties gained.

Before the opening Wall street had expected that a recovery might be touched off by reports that congress would ditch the treasury's tax program and write a bill of its own.

Market Fails to Respond.

Failure of any response to capital developments, however, apparently inspired additional lightening of commitments. Some potential buyers also stood aside to await further international developments. War and peace stocks were equally indifferent.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.1 at 50.7. The market broadened to a trade in 825 issues, of which 413 were down, 185 up, and 227 unchanged.

Lorillard common was off 1⅛ points as the company's issue of 20 million dollars of debentures was presented by underwriters and 374,391 shares of new common were offered to stockholders.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Prices were uneven on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday on turnover of 25,000 shares. Among five issues which established new highs were Chicago corporation common and preferred which advanced to 6¼ and 49, respectively. Heavily traded issues included Chicago corporation, Middle West Utilities, and Commonwealth Edison up ⅛; Adams Oil and Gas, up ¼.

HARVARD DEAN ASKS FLOW OF RISK CAPITAL

ing capital must come from government."

"The publicity attending the issuance of the Beveridge report in England was, for England's sake, one of the most drastically unfortunate errors which it could have committed," David said in referring to a British program that would provide more government doles after the war. "England, above all nations, should be thinking of its trade, its world position, its opportunities, and should not be thinking first only of security.

Right to Venture Upheld.

"America may well make the same mistake unless we create a climate and environment which is conductive to and supports venture. Of course we must reach and hold broad social objectives. But that can be done best, and I believe only if we preserve the spirit and the right to venture—yes, and to take risks."

David lauded the efforts of the committee for economic development, a private organization with views contrary to those of some Washington administration world planners who envision a broad program of "made work," and said:

"Private industry must offer an opportunity for a high level of employment with a high degree of productivity. Only a high level of national income can allow for an increase in our standard of living and still service and eventually reduce our gigantic war debt."

Warns of Beef Shortage.

At earlier business sessions of the institute held in the Drake hotel, George A. Schmidt of New York, chairman of the group, declared a "critical" beef shortage developing in this country threatened to become more acute than it was last spring.

"Millions of Americans will be clamoring for beef by spring, or sooner, unless governmental agencies remove the uncertainties affecting live stock production," he said.

Within three months, supplies of western range cattle shipped to midwest feedlots for fattening have slumped 21 per cent, Schmidt said, and threats of government price cellings on live cattle have disrupted the market.

Schmidt declared that demand for meat was "so great that our fighting allies could use our entire production if we could furnish it to them, while 5 billion more pounds could be sold to civilians, if available."

Must Increase Employment.

Brig. Gen. William C. Rose, chief of the war man power commission's executive services, asserted that employment in industries vitally important to victory must be increased by 2 million within six months.

He said this figure was in addition to the workers who must be hired to replace men leaving for military service or lost for other reasons. Other and less essential industries will have to provide most of the needed man power, he declared.

Gen. Rose placed the necessary size of the nation's industrial force at 18½ million and said agriculture needed 9 million workers with an additional 3 million during the summer peak.

Pick Buys Hotel

ELDORADO TOWERS.

Albert Pick Jr., president of Pick Hotels corporation, operating 15 properties in the middle west, yesterday announced the purchase of the stock in the Central Park Plaza corporation, owner of the 31 story Eldorado Towers apartments in New York City. It was built in 1931 at a reported cost of 7 million dollars, on Central Park west, from 90th to 91st street, overlooking Central park. It contains 220 unfurnished suites, of three to twelve rooms, with a total of 1,400 rooms. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Business Failures Rise, but Hold Below Year Ago

New York, Oct. 5 (AP).—Business failures in the week ended Sept. 30 totaled 42, compared with 33 in the preceding week and 174 a year earlier, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

TREASURY CURB ON SALESMEN'S FEES ASSAILED

further commissions quitting their jobs. Downie confirmed this possibility, reporting that salesmen already were talking of applying for broker's licenses and opening their own offices.

"The earnings of a broker fluctuate tremendously," said Baird, "so it is unjust to base the new order on any one year's earnings. Many salesmen didn't do too well in 1942, in fact many had big deals started last year which were closed in 1943, yet when their total for this year gets to last year's total, there is no incentive to work. What will they do? Go fishing?

"And what becomes of the excess profits that ordinarily would go to the broker? Does the firm keep it or turn it over to the government, or what? The regulation makes no provision for this situation."

Enforcer Vague on Details.

Porter Linder, head of the Chicago regional office of the salary stabilization unit of the internal revenue department, which will have the job of enforcing and regulating the new edict in this area, admitted he had no knowledge of it except that it already was supposed to be in force.

Failure to comply with the order carries additional income tax payments and penalties, plus a fine of $1,000 and a year's imprisonment.

The ruling at present affects only firms employing more than eight persons, but this already is being changed to apply to concerns employing any number, it was said.

Realty Groups Fight Ruling.

Realty organizations are opposing the new edict. Baird will go to Washington this week representing the Chicago Real Estate board at a meeting of realtors being arranged by the treasury department, to discuss the problem.

Morgan Fitch, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, yesterday was appointed chairman of a committee to study the ruling as it affects realtors. Other members are Donald F. Moore, and Stewart Matthews, vice president of Baird & Warner.

FROEDTERT GRAIN.

Do you have information on war activities of the Froedtert Grain and Malting company? What is the company's earnings and dividend record?—S. A.

Answer: Production of barley malt used principally in brewing beer and ale constitutes the major portion of the company's output. Sales to distilleries making alcohol for use in synthetic rubber, gunpowder, and for other war purposes boosted net sales and profit before taxes to the highest levels in Froedtert's history in the fiscal year ended July 31, 1943. The main plant in Greenfield, Wis., has a malting capacity of 8¾ million bushels annually, and the Winona, Minn., plant 2,325,000 bushels. The company's grain elevators have a 6 million bushel capacity.

Net income in the fiscal year ended July 31, 1943, was $861,980, equal to $1.59 a common share, against $957,720, or $1.81 a share, in the preceding year. Current assets totaled $3,747,273, against current liabilities of $1,984,015. Financial results for other recent fiscal years follow:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Per share.
1941	$ 8,176,511	$ 946,024	$1.76
1940	8,031,682	913,014	1.67
1939	8,263,494	838,290	1.50
1938	10,496,735	909,742	1.67
1937	11,749,310	1,109,391	2.14

Capitalization consists of 130,700 shares of $1.20 cumulative convertible participating preferred stock, $15 par value, and 420,000 shares of $1 par common. There is no funded debt.

Common and preferred dividends have been paid each year since 1932. In 1942, payments totaled $1 a common share, and thus far in 1943, an equal amount has been paid.

DEALERS EXPECT TO MEET HARD COAL DEMANDS

Most Chicago users of anthracite should be able to get adequate supplies this winter, dealers said yesterday. However, some who have converted their heating plants to hard coal from oil or coke during the summer may have difficulty in obtaining supplies, they asserted.

The government has restricted hard coal sales by dealers to 90 per cent of the amount they sold last winter. Many have been able to supply their regular customers with about as much as they needed at this time last year and expect to be able to carry them thru the winter without much difficulty.

The quota system may work a hardship on the new hard coal consumers because dealers are supplying their old customers first.

USE OF PROVED METHODS URGED AT PEACE TABLE

If the peacemakers after the war fail to use tried and proved public relations principles, it will be impossible to build an enduring peace, Dr. Rex F. Harlow, president of the American Council on Public Relations, said yesterday in opening a three day meeting in the Morrison hotel.

There is a trend toward more frankness in public relations, activities of corporations, and other organizations, he said.

The council is studying public relations problems of management, labor, and government in the Chicago area.

Day by Day on the Farm

The FARM by Ben Markland

OCT. 5, 1943.

THE SILOS on the Wheaton farm are being filled by hired men and hired machinery. This course seemed advisable this year for several reasons. The main reason is lack of farm labor.

There are only four regular field workers on the farm pay roll, and the job of cutting, hauling, and grinding corn ensilage on a farm of almost 1,000 acres requires 8 to 10 men, if the usual method of silo filling is used. In this system one man is needed for operating the corn binder in the field, five to seven men pick up and haul the corn bundles to the silo, one man operates the ensilage cutter, and one man distributes the ensilage inside the silo.

Grinds Silage in Fields.

A crew of four men, using a special ensilage machine not owned by most farmers, has been hired to do the job on the Tribune farm and about 10 other farms in the Wheaton area. This machine, called a field ensilage harvester, cuts the stalks, grinds them into silage, and elevates the silage into an accompanying truck in the field. Then the silage is driven to the silo and blown into storage.

One man operates the harvester, two drive trucks from field to silo, and a fourth man operates the blower. In addition, the farm provides two men to distribute the ensilage in the silo.

New Fertilizer Tests.

An experiment to test the comparative merits of superphosphate and colloidal mineral phosphate is being conducted on the Wheaton farm. An eight acre field of winter wheat is the testing ground. The field has been staked into a four acre plot and two two-acre plots. The entire eight acres was seeded last week, and superphosphate was applied to the west four acres at the rate of 175 pounds to the acre.

Colloidal mineral phosphate was applied to two acres of the wheat immediately after seeding at the rate of 1,500 pounds to the acre. On the remaining two acres, no fertilizer will be applied until the seed has germinated and pushed thru the ground, when 750 pounds of colloidal mineral phosphate will be applied to each acre. The wheat was drilled at the rate of two bushels to the acre, and all of the fertilizer was applied with a lime broadcaster.

First Such Use.

This is the first time that colloidal minerals have been used on farm fields. This type of fertilizer, like superphosphate, is readily available to the plants. The main point which the farm manager wishes to determine is the number of years that the two types of fertilizers benefit crops. From past experience he has found that superphosphate benefits are highly noticeable for one year and somewhat noticeable in following seasons. The claim made for colloidal mineral phosphates is that they benefit the crops for five to eight seasons.

The GARDEN

HOME OWNERS who have evergreen trees on their lots should make use of their garden hose to give their evergreen beds a thoro soaking before the ground freezes. This is particularly true if yew trees are included in the plantings.

Evergreens, particularly young ones which are not well established, have a tendency to turn brown at the start of each growing season unless their roots have an abundant supply of moisture. The farm gardener makes a practice of letting the garden hose run in the evergreen beds at this time of the year so that the deep roots are saturated thoroly.

Mulching, either with manure or tree leaves, helps to conserve ground moisture and prevent extreme fluctuations in the ground temperatures during the winter months. A mulch of two or three inches around young evergreens is advisable.

Yew trees with little natural protection against southwest winter winds are likely to turn brown in the spring. For yews in such locations a simple windbreak made of burlap tacked to wooden posts gives excellent protection.

HEIRESS CITED FOR A DIVORCE FRAUD HEARING

Ex-Mrs. Wells Ordered to Appear Friday.

Mrs. Lele Daly Wells Ford, New York copper heiress who divorced Roe E. Wells, her fourth husband, here last July and then was married to Richard F. Ford, New York Standard Oil company executive, was ordered yesterday to appear in Superior court Friday to answer charges that her divorce was obtained fraudulently.

Judge John C. Lewe, who granted the divorce and then asked the state's attorney's office to investigate when it was reported that fraud might have been used, told Atty. James Daniels, representing Mrs. Ford, to have her and her Negro maid, Nellie Price, present.

Defendant Loses Motion.

Earlier in the hearing Daniels had filed a motion asking the court to dismiss a petition to vacate the decree. This was denied and Burke then presented witnesses who testified that tho the then Mrs. Wells registered in an apartment hotel at 211 Delaware place, she had never lived there. Mrs. Wells, in getting a divorce decree under the Illinois law that allows decrees to nonresidents suffering cruelties in the state, asserted Wells struck her on two occasions at the apartment.

Thru records of the Lake Shore Drive hotel, 181 Lake Shore drive, Burke showed that the same day Mrs. Wells registered at the Delaware place hotel she checked in at the Lake Shore Drive hotel, and that she occupied a suite for three days. Mildred Day, auditor of the Lake Shore Drive hotel, produced the registration card for Mrs. Wells and her maid and cards showing Mrs. Wells telephoned Miss Pearl Hart, her attorney, and placed a call to Ford in New York. This was the day before the first of the two alleged acts of cruelty occurred.

Attorney's Address Used.

At the Lake Shore Drive hotel, Mrs. Wells gave her address as 215 East Chestnut street, the address of Miss Hart. Frank B. Teed, who represented Wells in the divorce proceedings, testified he received a fee of $125, paid by Miss Hart.

Ella Erzinger, manager of the Delaware place apartment, said Mrs. Wells registered July 15, paying six weeks' rent. She never saw Mrs. Wells again, she said.

Adeline Cantwell, her clerk, corroborated this testimony, and Olivia Smith, Negro floor maid, testified the apartment bed never was occupied.

NATION'S SAFETY CRUSADE CUTS DEATHS 7 PCT.

Expansion of safety activities thruout the nation under an organized program of the National Safety council has reduced the all-accident death toll 7 per cent in the first six months this year as compared with the corresponding period of 1941, Col. John Stilwell, president of the council, said yesterday at the opening session of the 32d National Safety congress in Hotel Sherman.

The rising tide of deaths to workers thru on-the-job accidents has been checked, despite a 17 per cent increase in man hours worked and new personnel, Col. Stilwell asserted.

Figures of the safety council have revealed that casualties to American workers thru accidents since the attack on Pearl Harbor are 80,000 dead and 7,000,000 injured, on and off the job.

Traffic deaths, said Col. Stilwell, are down 41 per cent, largely because of war time traffic restrictions and the public's coöperation. Public deaths, other than traffic, are down 9 per cent, but home deaths from accidents are up 4 per cent, he pointed out.

THE QUESTION.

What unusual noises have you been asked to investigate? [Asked of policemen.]

WHERE ASKED.

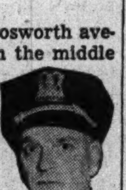
East Chicago avenue police station.

THE ANSWERS.

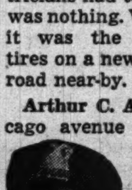
Thomas W. Mullarkey, 7841 Wood street—A man said he had been kept awake all night by a neighbor who insisted on practicing the French horn. He said he had called to him several times and for a while he would stop playing. We discovered it was a fog horn from the lake.

Phillip Shore, 3949 Long avenue—The manager of a liquor store said some one was trying to dig thru the basement floor to get to his new $62,000 stock of liquor. For two days and two nights we listened. It was the switch being thrown on the car tracks outside.

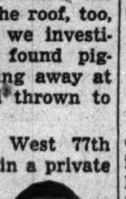
Sgt. R. Ziegler, 3738 Bosworth avenue—A woman called in the middle of the night and insisted excess electrical voltage was going thru her house, tho electricians had told her it was nothing. We found it was the hum of tires on a newly paved road near-by.



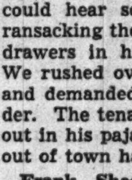
Arthur C. Anderson, 30 West Chicago avenue — A frantic woman called us and said some one was trying to get into her apartment thru the skylight. We heard the noise on the roof, too, but when we investigated we found pigeons pecking away at crumbs a neighbor had thrown to them.



James McGrath, 950 West 77th street—The extra room in a private home was rented to a friend. One night we got a call that they could hear some one ransacking the dresser drawers in his room. We rushed over there and demanded surrender. The tenant came out in his pajamas and said his trip out of town had been delayed.



Frank Sheehan, 4910 Armitage avenue — We were called to one home because they could hear some one in the basement. When we arrived we could hear some one hammering away, but the lights had been disconnected. We groped our way in to corner him. It was a burglar.



COUPLE ORDERED TO PRESENT BOY IN CUSTODY ROW

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Huszar of 5436 North Western avenue, who contend that Robert J. Kovacs, 7, was willed to them by his late mother, yesterday were ordered to bring the boy into Superior court Oct. 13, when Judge John C. Lewe will decide whether they or the boy's father, John Kovacs, 28, of 3918 West 13th street, shall have custody.

Kovacs petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus. He asserted that after his wife, Rose, died in 1937, Mrs. Huczar, an aunt of his wife's and her husband, said they were taking Robert, then a baby, because he had been willed to them. He alleges there never was such a will but says he allowed the Huszars to take his son because he then was not able to make a home for him. He since has remarried and he and his wife, Barbara, want to rear the boy.

MOTOR TRANSPORT OFFICERS.

The United States marine corps has a limited number of assignments as motor transport officers open to men between 27 and 45 years of age who have had from five to 10 or more years of automotive engineering practice, employment in factory service departments, or general supervision of motor transportation. The chief requisite for appointment is the ability actually to perform the mechanical adjustments, repairs, and rebuilding of damaged tanks, trucks, tractors, and other motorized equipment. These men must be able to supervise as well as take an active part in these operations. Applicants preferably should have at least a high school education, altho unusual automotive experience in civil life may compensate for the lack of formal education. Applicants having a degree in mechanical engineering from a school of recognized standing plus the experience noted will be given the most consideration. Minor physical defects may be waived when liability to the government is not likely to result. Apply, United States marine corps, officer procurement office, Room 1170, Board of Trade, Chicago.

B. J. writes: "On Aug. 6, I was reclassified from 3-D to 1-A. Before my reclassification I was called into the board and asked a lot of questions about the condition of my dependents and I indicated to the board that the same conditions still applied as applied when I was previously given the 3-D classification three months before. When I asked if I was still 3-D they said they didn't know. When I received my 1-A card I went to the board and asked if I could appeal and I was told by the chairman, 'It won't do you a bit of good—you're sunk. There is no new evidence and, therefore, you can no longer be deferred.'"

ANSWER: The information given you is absolutely false. If the conditions still obtain which brought a 3-D classification and a board reclassifies a registrant to 1-A when no new evidence—either for or against the registrant—has been entered in the registrant's file, the registrant has every right to appeal the classification within 10 days from the mailing date on his 1-A classification card.

G. J. F. writes: "You have advised in your column you had applications for assignment to the air forces specialists after induction. Can one still make application after being inducted?"

ANSWER: We have been advised by the army air forces engineers that "the specialist program has been changed and it is no longer possible to assign individuals by name from a reception center to a particular unit."

BRITISH-YANKEE CITIZEN SCHEME LASHED IN HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—British proposals for a common citizenship between Great Britain and America were denounced in the house today by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] and Rep. John E. Rankin [D., Miss.] as a move to abolish the Constitution of the United States and the Declaration of Independence. They declared the American people have no sympathy for such a proposition.

The joint citizenship idea was suggested by Winston Churchill, British premier, in a speech Sept. 6 at Harvard university and was proposed again yesterday by Leslie Hore-Belisha, member of the British parliament, in an address in Plymouth, England.

Rankin declared that "not one man out of 100 in this house or the senate could be reëlected on such a platform" because people of the United States "are not in favor of extending American citizenship beyond the borders of our own country or becoming citizens of some foreign nation."

ROLE OF WOMEN IN WINNING WAR PRAISED BY M.P.

Women are playing their most important rôle in history as they stand shoulder to shoulder with men in the United States and Great Britain in winning the war, James Griffiths, labor member of the British parliament, yesterday told members of the Rotary club of Chicago in Hotel Sherman.

Griffiths represents the South Wales miners in the house of commons.

"The women have done a magnificent job," he said. "In Britain 91 per cent of the women are in full time war employment, 3½ million of them.

"In our aircraft factories 65 per cent of all the labor is performed by women. As an example, in one factory alone, of 10,000 women employed, 8,000 are women and girls under 25 years old, and of these, 7,500 never worked in a factory before the war. And they were organized under the stress of constant bombing."

OPA PUT UNDER INQUIRY TODAY BY LEGISLATORS

Hampering of business by the office of price administration will be investigated today when the Illinois legislature's commission on small business, created in the recent session, opens a two day public session in the offices of the Illinois commerce commission, 160 North La Salle street. Today's session will be given over to representatives of various lines of business.

Dismiss Tenants' Charge at OPA Hearing on Service

The Chicago OPA rent office yesterday dismissed charges against the Ellis Realty company, operators of an apartment building at 4310 Clarendon avenue, after investigation of tenants' complaints that services had been reduced without a cut in rents. The reductions in service were not "substantial," according to Alphonse Cerza, rent office enforcement attorney.

Meet Mr. B....
He's held some pretty good positions. It's no fault of his that one or two of the companies he worker for "folded up."
He's not really young any more . . . nor is he tripping over his beard. You could see he'd hit his stride in the Credit Department of a company like Montgomery Ward, and enjoying every minute of it.
Yes, he's capable of running a business of his own. He's the kind of business man and he knows it, too. But one thing Mr. B. must have now is SECURITY. He's got to be able to figure ahead and work out vital plans for his family.
Here he has that SECURITY . . . and real advancement opportunities as well. He needs Wards . . . and we need Mr. B. It's sort of mutual and a situation we both respect.
Maybe your case isn't exactly like Mr. Be's, but whatever it is, there's a place for you at Wards. Why not see us? Maybe you'll like Wards and they'll both profit if you come over to see us.

YOU can say this to YOUR children . . . AND STILL BE EARNING EXTRA MONEY AT WARDS in our new MORNING SHIFTS with hours arranged to fit into your own individual household schedule. You can wave Johnnie off to school with his lunch . . . be back before he comes home . . . and yet, in the hours between, earn those welcome EXTRA DOLLARS for all the EXTRA THINGS you've been wanting for Johnnie, his sister, your home, and yourself.
[Besides, that Ward pay check plus WARD EMPLOYEE DISCOUNTS will come in mighty handy for CHRISTMAS GIFTS.]
But the Openings for these new Morning Shifts happen to be LIMITED [strange . . . in these days of unlimited help wanted openings . . . but TRUE]. So please inquire just as soon as possible and in person, about our
